DEPARTMENT OF COLLECTIONS — SPRINGFIELD, OHIO

[1921]

Dear Subscriber:

We wrote you recently calling your attention to your account, which is now long past due, and requested word from you as to payment, but have had nothing from you to date.

Now, we have no desire to press you unduly in this matter. You are aware that good business practice requires a more prompt settlement of these small accounts.

We are quite sure that you will not want to make it necessary for us to cancel any part of your subscription on account of non-payment. You will not want to force us to resort to more vigorous and perhaps unpleasant measures to make this collection, but we must now insist that you send us your remittance immediately or advise us why payment is not made.

Please return the enclosed statement to insure proper credit.

Very truly yours,
The Crowell Publishing Company.

John Dunlap

Collection Manager.
