Splendid Gifts Announced

Athletic Field, Stone Fence and Academy Dormitory to be Built, and Work Begun on Centennial Offering—Dr. Crawford Given Ovation.

Yesterday was undoubtedly the biggest day Allegheny has experienced for years. A report of a complete and satisfactory settlement of the shortage in the college funds; an ovation for President Crawford at chapel; the announcement of Mr. Arter's gift for the Academy dormitory, of Mrs. Cochran's gift of a fence and rustic bridge for the lower part of the campus; of gifts which insure the rapid completion of a $35,000 athletic field; of the beginning of a campaign for a centennial offering of $500,000 addition to the endowment, and last of all a student demonstration down town combined to make the day memorable. Following as these things do, an investigation into college affairs, they are especially welcome.

The Trustees by resolution endorsed President Crawford most heartily. When he appeared at chapel he was given a rousing ovation by the students which was repeated from time to time when the announcements of gifts were made. After thanking the students for their support through the preceding trying weeks, he told of the following additions to be made to the college equipment:

Mrs. Cochran has enabled the college to realize a long-cherished ambition for the beautifying of the lower part of the campus by a wall and rustic bridge. The wall will be of broken ashler, 3 or 3 1-2 feet high, with two lines of fence railing on top and artistic posts at regular intervals. The wall, costing $2,000, will extend the entire length of the campus to the rear of the President's house.

An Academy dormitory with heating system and furnishings complete has been made possible by a gift from President Arter of the Board of Trustees. The house just back of the Academy will be remodelled for that purpose, and when completed will be valued at $8,000 or $10,000.

As acceptable an announcement as could have been made was that $8,000 was subscribed for the completion of the new athletic field, and President Crawford said that he would personally assume responsibility for the raising of the remaining $2,000 necessary to complete the work. When finished the field will be worth approximately $35,000, one of the finest in Western Pennsylvania.

And last of all came the news that President Crawford's plan for a centennial offering of $500,000 was unanimously approved by the Board of Trustees, who joined with him in requesting the General Educational Board for a place on the approved list. In case the request is granted, and President Crawford is confident it will be, it will mean $125,000 toward the half million.

These additions to the property of the college are all exceedingly valuable ones, and will be welcomed by the students, faculty, alumni and friends as another proof of the President's efficiency. He is rightly called the "Founder of the New Allegheny."

Founder of the "New Allegheny," through whose efforts enrollment and equipment have been doubled, and who has announced new gifts amounting to thousands. He will begin the campaign for a great centennial offering of $500,000 addition to the endowment at once.

Greatest Memorial Event

Faculty, Alumni, Students and Guests Honor Father of Country and the Founder of Allegheny.

Washington's birthday anniversary sounded its usual note of patriotism and Allegheny spirit at the tenth annual banquet in the college gymnasium last Tuesday night. Alumni, faculty and students alike joined in this greatest memorial day of the college calendar, and contributed their respective parts of the decorations, entertainment and mirth, in making this celebration the grand climax of all previous college events, and in this undertaking they were in a large measure successful.

As usual the committee in charge of the evening had begun work early, and had inspired rivalry in the different classes, to make sure that the details of the decorations would be carefully looked after. Then they had determined on the general scheme of decorations, had made out the toast list, and secured the ladies of the M. E. church to serve the banquet.

As a result everything moved off orderly from beginning to end, without a break in the program.

The Decorations.

For the general color scheme the college colors of blue and gold were wound around the railings of the balcony, and at opposite ends of the banquet hall hung the portraits of George Washington and Timothy Alden. A large U. S. flag formed an appropriate background for the national hero of the evening, and a large Allegheny banner no less strikingly backed up the likeness of the father of the college. Thus in simple dignity the symbols of the nation and college faced each other, suggesting with what sincere esteem the two were revered by all.

Overhead were dangling myriads of paper ribbons forming a dense labyrinth of beauty and blending in soft harmony with the colors of the four classes.

Each class had its particular table in charge and vied with the one next to it in its brilliant and attractive display.

Seniors.

The Senior tables in the south-east corner of the room were very artistically decorated with red and white streamers hanging from a poinsettia suspended over the middle of the two tables, which were crossed in the middle. The streamers were attached to the four corners and made a beautiful effect. The Seniors made their first appearance in the cap and gown. This idea was appropriately suggested in the neat little place cards at thier places. A miniature doll dressed in a cap and gown with a name in white ink on the cap was at each plate.

Juniors.

In the north-west corner the Juniors had arranged their tables, having them appropriately arranged with lavender and white, the class colors. Above the tables was an arch of streamers made of the two colors alternating and above and through it all swayed the class colors in the small perpendicular streamers. The effect was good. For place cards the letters, 1911 were cut out of card board and joined together in the middle by a narrow strip on which the name was inscribed.

Sophomores.

Brown and gold, the colors of 1912, waved from the corners of the Sophomore tables, several streamers in these colors being suspended from three artificial Japanese gongs which were hung in the middle. These were also in the class colors and above it all hung the Gold and Blue. The Sophomore costumes were attractive. Each one was dressed and made up as a "kid" and many were perfectly costumed. It looked like a kindergarten on a holiday. This idea was carried out in the place cards on which were painted pictures of children in the various roles seen in the Sunday comic supplements.

Freshmen.

The Freshmen dressed as gypsies and were well made up. The tables in their section were elaborately decorated with the class colors, scarlet and grey and the wall beside them was covered with hemlock. A tent and a campfire in the corner made one think of a real gypsy camp. Tables were adorned with brass pots such as are found to be among the gypsies. Place cards carried out the idea of the stunt.

The Faculty and Alumni tables were in the center of the room. Of course these were not so elaborately decorated as the class tables but no criticism could be made of them. Above them hung the gold and blue streamers from the rafters.

After the faculty and Alumni were seated the Seniors in solemn array marched to their seats and were soon followed by the Juniors. With all these standing at their places the Sophomores were greeted with applause as their kindergarten costumes were seen. After them came the Freshmen with all the accouterments of the gypsy camp. When the applause for them had subsided, invocation was pronounced by Dr. Crawford and the Banquet was in full sway.

An impression was made by the Seniors when several of the men, representing all four classes and prep, sang a song telling of their deplorable condition, since they knew not where they belonged. The Sophomores were made prominent by the capers of Buster Brown and his dog Tige, who were frequently seen romping about the different parts of the room. The gypsy band played an appropriate tune while a gypsy dancer amused the company with a Hungarian clog dance, and attention was in this way drawn to the Freshman section.

In the order of precedence, songs and yells were given, some proclaiming the honors of the class giving them, others worded as special take-

Close Victory From O. S. U.

The fastest, best and most exciting basketball game seen on the local gymnasium for years was that played with the five from Ohio State University on last Monday evening when the Ohio team was defeated in a well played game by the close and interesting score of 25 to 20. From the very start to the final blow of the whistle the game was tense with excitement and there was not a minute of slow play. Many alumni who were present said that it was like the games of old when the team was made up of the men who have given Allegheny her basketball reputation.

It was the opinion of Coach Stewart that the game with Ohio State would never have been secured had it not been for the fact that the latter team expected an easy victory, since they have held the championship of the State of Ohio for the past two years. Under these conditions the team landed here early Monday morning. During the afternoon they indulged in a little light practice getting used to the floor in as great a degree as possible. From their appearance at this time it was judged that the game would come up to all expectations in being a notable one and a large and enthusiastic audience was the result.

With a determination to win against all odds Captain Baker led the team from the dressing room amid the cheers and "Alleghroos" of the crowd. Like the shooting of a sky rocket the game began and it was a mad rush for the ball from that minute. Both teams seemed to be fired with an unconquerable determination to win and it was this spirit which lent the intense interest to the game. After about four minutes play Weidler let the ball slide through for the first basket of the game. A couple of minutes later Captain Rigby of State duplicated the feat and soon after threw a foul, making the score 3 to 2 in favor of State. It stood this way until Baker dropped one in, making it 4 to 3 on our side. Back and forth during the first half the score traveled from one side to the other and many times was tied. At one time it was 7 to 7 and a minute later State's captain threw another foul putting his team again in the lead by one point. From this point Allegheny ran the score up to 11 while State was unable to tally any more during that half. Thus it stood at the end of the half 11 to 8 in favor of Allegheny. All of the 8 points made by the Ohioans were made by Captain Rigby who certainly did perform creditably. His floor work was especially noticeable and fast for a man of his height and build. During the first half Baker and Wiedler each made a pair of baskets and "Dick" threw a foul, while Leffel had one basket.

Neither team showed the slightest sign of discouragement at the beginning of the second half and the game was continued in the same unrelenting manner as that in which it had begun. Every man on the floor was wild for a shot at the basket and at every opportunity a throw was made. Many of them were wide of the mark, but so desperate were the two teams that they were willing to take any chance. The game was characterized by the fact that many long and futile shots were made at the baskets by both sides. This was made necessary in many cases because the players were covering up their men so neatly and consistently that it was very difficult to get in good passes. Both teams were playing the same style of game, although it was noticed that the State team did more passing than Allegheny and in many instances executed neat plays.

Hawk brought himself prominently before the calcium light in the second half. Although he played an excellent game during the first half and could in no way be criticised, he failed to make any tallies until the second part began. Then, he began; and before the game was over, four baskets had been registered by him. These meant much, as during the half the score was again tied by the Columbus five and the Allegheny rooters rose in their seats in their anxiety for points. Hawk was there with the necessary baskets when they were needed.

While Allegheny was making one basket, raising the tally on her side to 13, Ohio State made two thus putting herself ahead by one small point. This drove the Allegheny enthusiasts into the seventh stage of distraction and the rooters were many and manifold—and all rooting. Baker was given the ball to throw a foul. He took it and carelessly tossed it through the ring. The crowd thankfully sat down. From this tied point Allegheny could not easily release herself, for the State men were here to win a game and they had fighting

THE GENEVA GAME

Allegheny Undisputed Basketball Champion of W. P. League—Leffel Scored 18 Points.

Owing to the late hour at which the game with Geneva was finished last Friday evening, it was impossible to give an account of the game last Saturday, and it is given this week.

The game was especially characteristic of the games Allegheny usually plays on its own floor with teams from the smaller colleges. Although the team was crippled on account of the absence of two of the best players, Baker and Weidler, it did not seem to make any difference in the score. The other players played that much harder, for the final tally was 51 to 17 or three points for Allegheny to every one for Geneva. As Geneva has already defeated Grove City and as Allegheny has made such a record so far this season, it apears that the championship of Western Pennsylvania belongs here.

As to any particular man, it is hard to say much, except that every one of the team was on his toes when it came to shooting baskets. Leffel and Hawk stand out prominently, the former scoring eighteen points although playing guard. For the visitors Paterson starred.

UNANIMOUS THANKS.

When one hundred Allegheny students carried resolutions in defence of their President to the door of a down-town newspaper office a month ago, they did it because they believed in Dr. Crawford. Yet some told them they were wrong. To those few the announcements yesterday morning came as a final refutation and the ovation at chapel was unanimous.

The week has been a week of triumphs. The Ohio State game and the College Dinner seemed too big for one week, but as a climax of all came the complete vindication of President Crawford by the Trustees, even in the columns of the paper which has opposed him and the announcement of three great gifts, together with the resolutions of the Trustees beginning the campaign for $500,000 endowment. To one man does Allegheny owe gratitude for her splendid equipment, and that man is President Crawford.

On behalf of the student body the Campus extends its sincerest thanks to Hon. F. A. Arter, to Mrs. Cochran, and to those who have contributed funds for the new field.

But more than all, we have come to realize that the wrongdoing of one man can not interrupt Allegheny's progress.

Details of the report of the Board of Trustees will be printed later in the Campus, but it is a pleasure to publish here that part of the report which relates to President Crawford.

The Resolution.

"We take this opportunity to assure President Crawford of our appreciation of the faithful and efficient service he has rendered, and to again make known to him our gratitude for the results achieved. Allegheny College is what it is because he has made it. We cannot say too much in praise of the man or his work. For the future we pledge President Crawford our hearty cooperation and support in all plans for the betterment of the institution to which he has shown such unflagging devotion, and to the welfare of which he has given himself so unselfishly. In behalf of the special committee apointed to investigate the affairs of Allegheny College, we wish to express our hearty appreciation of the valuable assistance rendered the committee by President Crawford."

So many things have happened within the last forty-eight hours that the realization of what they mean to Allegheny can hardly yet be felt. But it is safe to say that Allegheny feels better to-day than at any time in recent years.

THE BEST GAME.

Basketball victories come so regularly at Allegheny that it is hard to say anything new about them. It is conceded, however, that the game with Ohio State last Monday night was the best basketball seen here in several seasons. Possibly it was the influence of Washington's Birthday which lent spirit to the occasion, but we prefer to think of it the other way, and attribute part of the success of the Banquet to what happened the night before. The way the team played was an inspiration to the crowd,—and this also worked the other way, for the spirit of the crowd certainly helped the team.

The attendance last Monday night contrasted with that the preceding Friday, and is a strong argument in favor of bringing the strongest teams here. We can afford to pay for such games at any price.

A WELCOME IDEA.

In previous issues, we have approved heartily of the plan of bringing prospective students to Allegheny at the time of the College Dinner. This year it was tried for the first time, athletics being the special end in view. While only a few visited Allegheny last Monday and Tuesday, we welcome the plan as a beginning which can be made to mean much.

Much as Allegheny encourages athletics she wants to continue her high standing in other lines as well. It seems a little one-sided to only invite those prospective students who have done things in athletics. Why not extend that plan another year, and invite future college men and women who excel in scholarship, oratory, debate and literary work as well?

Coach Stewart has given us an idea; let's work it for all it's worth, another year.

A SYSTEM THAT WORKS.

Under the date of November 21st, 1905, in the college record, there appears the first mention in these records of anything pertaining to a College Council. On that date the matter of a so-called "College Senate" was referred to the committee on college organizations, composed of Professors Lockwood, Wells and Cook. On February 20th, 1906, a report of progress was made by Professor Lockwood, and on March 12th, Professor Dutton and Lockwood were appointed faculty representatives. There is no record of definite action regarding the establishing of the Council as it exists to-day. As far as early history is concerned, there has never been a time when vagueness was not a characteristic of the Council.

This vagueness is more evident when the constitutions of similar organizations in neighboring institutions are studied. Perhaps the system is as successful at W. & J. as anywhere, and from their constitution several valuable suggestions can be found for the revision of the system here. This W. & J. constitution was adopted by the Student Body (they spell these two words with capitals down there) on November 11th, 1908.

Duties Definite.

In Article I is found the following: "The objects shall be: a, To establish, maintain and regulate the customs and traditions of the college. b, To govern and regulate the conduct of the students in examinations, in college, in town, and wherever misconduct would tend to bring discredit upon the good name of the college. c, To promote good-fellowship between the Faculty and Student Body."

This idea of granting to the Council a definite function, which we believe should be made even more definite here than in the above instance, contains the whole secret of the system. How many times this year the Council has been at a loss to know just where it is at! And besides, there have been times when it has had to hunt for something to do.

The next article says that "The Senior, Junior, Sophomore and Freshman classes shall each elect one; the Faculty of the college shall elect two from the Student Body; and the President of the college shall appoint one from the Student Body."

Our System a Contrast.

How weak our system of fraternity and non-fraternity representation looks in comparison with that! The number is not the essential point, so long as it is small, but the W. & J. system is worthy of consideration in this respect.

Some other articles are:

"All legislative acts shall be promptly reported in writing by the Secretary of the Senate to the Secretary of the Faculty, and the Faculty shall have veto power, but before exercising this power a committee of the Senate shall be allowed to represent the Senate before the Faculty."

"This constitution may be amended by a vote of five members of the Senate after a notice of one week, subject to the approval of the Faculty and the Student Body."

These two paragraphs are valuable for other reasons beside their subject matter. They are a type of the whole plan. There is nothing which is not plainly stated. No wonder the system has worked there.

A Committee to Report.

But why is this introduced at this time? Because there is a committee which is to report a new constitution at the next meeting of the Council. The report of that committee is the most important matter the Council has ever been called upon to consider. It is the means by which either the body may be made valuable, or else gradually be counted out of student life. For, although certain advantages still are found in the present system, they are all included, together with more important ones, in such a general plan as at W. & J.

Several people in Allegheny have some plans they want to present regarding athletic elections, their regulation and other vital questions. They look to the Council as the proper place to present them first, but do not see in the present Council a representative body. They are looking to the new Council which they hope will soon be working. They demand first, a small body, in which the preference in number is given upper classmen; second, a body with definite power, so there shall be no question as to its authority and position; third, a body whose members are elected to serve Allegheny, not clique; and lastly, an organization backed by the faculty, to whom veto power is definitely given, and not implied.

The only way this result can be obtained is by the same loyalty and unselfishness which finally characterized the Kaldron settlement.

UNIVERSAL DAY OF PRAYER

Rev. Mitchell to Address Students To-morrow in Answer to a World Call.

A call has been issued by the General Committee of the World's Student Federation for the observance of Sunday, February 27th, as a Universal Day of Prayer for Students. "On this day," in the words of the call, "it is desired that, not only in the universities and schools but also in homes and in places of worship, prayer may be offered in behalf of the students of the whole world."

Different grounds of thankfulness are recognized in the progress of the last twelve months. The Federation Conference at Oxford last July was characterized by many hopeful features. More men and women of the universities have gone to the mission field than ever before; the work among Chinese and Korean students has grown in efficiency; the tours of the representatives of the Federation among the universities of Europe have been the means of quickening interest in religion at many centers. On every side there are among students evidences of deeper concern for vital religion.

The Committee asks for prayers for the spiritual progress of the educated classes everywhere; for teachers and preachers who may give attention to the task of putting before students with convincing power the reasonableness of Christian truth and for hearkening of students to the call of the less fortunate in the great cities that they may contribute their due share toward a Christian solution of the sacred problem of the time. The Student Volunteer Movement and the results of the Rochester Convention are embodied in the call for prayer as is also the World Missionary Conference to be held in Scotland next June. Last of all prayers are asked for the leaders in the great fields of the student world especially in the recently admitted movement of Italy and Hungary; for the students of Russia and Turkey and for the guidance of the General Committee. The call is signed by Dr. Karl Fries, Chairman, and John R. Mott, General Secretary of the General Committee of the World's Student Christian Federation.

Rev. W. S. Mitchell will preach a special sermon to students to-morrow which is the day set apart for the Universal Day of Prayer. Notices were sent to the two local Christian Associations from the National headquarters asking for a fitting observance and it was at the request of these associations that Rev. Mr. Mitchell consented to put aside a special service for this day.

The sum of $125,000 has been donated to Williams College within the past two weeks.

Mrs. Fowler of this city, and her daughter, Mrs. S. W. Robinson, entertained a few college and society friends at their home on North Park Avenue, in honor of Miss Elsie Forester, of McKeesport. Mrs. Robinson was Miss Ethel Fowler, '07, a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma society.

At the Stone church Sunday evening the second of a series of illustrated lectures was given by Rev. W. S. Mitchell on, "The Deaconess, Her Work and Her Friends." The beginnings, organization and later growth of this department of church work was shown in an interesting and vivid manner.

Dr. G. E. Snavely gave an illustrated lecture on "Scenes About Washington," to the Senior class of the Meadville High School the morning of February 22nd. The High School chapel was filled to hear the lecture which was illustrated with a number of fine slides. Dr. Snavely's lecture was interesting and very favorably received.

The Allegheny management has been negotiating for a game with the Buffalo Germans, to take place some time in the middle of March. This famous team has won 77 straight games and as a result claims the championship of the United States. It is understood that a game will be played with Colgate a week from today unless there is an unexpected change. This game was to have been played Tuesday, but the Colgate team was unable to come at that date.

Professor E. L. Earp, of Drew Theological Seminary, gave a fascinating and instructive lecture on the "Socialized Church" last evening. As professor of church sociology at Drew and a former department head in Syracuse, Professor Earp was prepared to speak authoritatively on the complex sociological problems of modern life which he treated. There was a fair attendance at this lecture which is the first of the series to be given under the auspices of the Thoburn Club. Mr. Charles F. Weller, of the Associated Charities of Pittsburg will speak some time in March.

The forty-second annual convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Pennsylvania, was held in the Trinity M. E. church of Oil City, February 19-22. Allegheny's Y. M. C. A. was represented at this convention by four men: Morse, White, W. Maxwell and Nevins. The whole of the midweek meeting on Wednesday evening was taken up by the reports of the delegates. Many good suggestions and helps for Christian work here were brought back by the delegates. The program was a fine one, including some of the eminent Christian workers, among them our own Dr. Cobern and many business men of note.

DR. C. M. COBERN.

Many Hear "Adventures Among the Arabs," at Stone Church Last Evening.

The lecture given by Dr. Cobern in the Stone church last night was enjoyed by a large audience composed of both town and college people. It is safe to say that Dr. Cobern was at its best and fulfilled the expectations of his auditors. In beginning Dr. Cobern gave warning that he would treat the subject from a purely personal standpoint and thus added no little to the interest of the lecture. His hearers gained some idea of the competence of the speaker to handle this subject from the brief sketch given of the seven years spent in preparation for trips to Egypt and Palestine.

Before beginning to tell of his various experiences, Dr. Cobern told of the division of the Arabs into town Arabs and desert Arabs. This distinction gave a convenient way in which to divide the lecture. The first to be described were the less romantic but highly interesting Arabs of the towns. A particularly interesting adventure was the visit to the Sphinx, when the speaker saw a little brown man climb up into the mammoth mouth of the Sphinx. The traditional singing statue of Vocal Memnon was also described. In particular, Dr. Cobern told of the few Arabian women it was his fortune, good or otherwise, to see. Several stories and one of the tales from their own folk lore were related.

Before commencing the portrayal of experiences among the desert Arabs, Dr. Cobern told of disdaining a Turkish guard because of various incidents which proved the untrustworthiness of such protection. An especial point of interest was reached in the recounting of a narrow escape from death at Jerusalem. Other experiences were a night spent in an unsavory Oriental Kahn and a visit to a real Arabian camp in the desert. The real climax came when Dr. Cobern told of a visit to Pithom, his verification of portions of the Bible narrative and of being "chased by the Arabs."

TRACK PRACTICE TO-DAY.

Never before in recent years has there been so much interest in track work evident at this early stage of the season. Already men in the different lines of work are practicing and one of the best teams in the history of the college is expected to be the outcome. Captain Hines has announced that the first regular spring practice for the team will be held in the gymnasium this afternoon. The pole vaulters, jumpers and weight men will report at 2 o'clock and the runners and others at 3. From this time on practice will be held three times a week.

The manager, coach and captain have been busy arranging some good meets for the team. A thing which is almost unprecedented will be the holding of two dual meets here. One will be with Grove City although the date has not yet been finally secured and the other will likely be with either Oberlin, Western Reserve or W. & J. With very little difficulty either of these teams can be brought to this city and a meet with one of them is practically assured. The big meet of the Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia League is to be held at Pittsburg on June 4. The schools which will be represented are: Grove City, Geneva, W. & J., Carnegie Tech, Westminster, West Virginia, and Allegheny.

SOPHOMORES DEFEATED.

The first game of the series of interclass games between the Sophomores and Freshmen resulted in a victory for the Freshmen. The game was a lively one from start to finish. Both teams started strong and for a while it looked as if the game belonged to the Sophs, but the Freshies took a brace and overtook them. The score at the end of the first half was 9-7 for the freshmen. In the second half both teams played hard, each scoring 11 points. The cheering of the two classes was a feature each side trying its best to drown out the other and as a result the noise was not stopped until the end of the game.

BALTIMORE ALUMNI.

The Baltimore Alumni held their first annual dinner last Saturday evening, February 18th, at the Warner Social Settlement House. The occasion was entirely an informal affair, as the plans which had been made for a more elaborate function were cancelled, owing to the comparatively limited number who found it possible to attend. It is the purpose of the association next year to gather for a banquet at one of the downtown clubs. Alumni from both Washington and Philadelphia will be invited to attend.

Preceding the dinner a business meeting was called. A constitution was adopted and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr. John Neff, '55; Vice-President, Miss Lettie L. Johnston, '05; Secretary-Treasurer, Frank T. Stockton, '07. Miss Harriet Johnston, '07 and Mr. J. Gayle Nelson, '04, were also elected to serve with the above named officers on the executive committee.

A prize of $20 is offered at Dartmouth to the best all-around athlete in the senior class, regard also being had to moral worth and a high standard of scholarship.

blood in them. They showed no disposition to quit, but on the other hand displayed a decided determination to have the game. But "Dick" didn't like that scheme. Neither did any other of his bunch. Accordingly they gritted their teeth and in a moment they were away from the Ohio team and had won the game. It was not won, however, until the final whistle had blown, for up until the last second State seemed to have a hope of winning. The final score was 25 to 20.

Every man on both teams was in the game from start to finish and it would have been hard for any one to make himself the star. For State Rigby and Postle seemed to be a little above their team mates. State displayed some good team work and was a mighty good team, getting about the floor like experienced players that they were.

The lineup was as follows:

Allegheny—25.		O. S. U.—20
Baker, Capt.	F	Spangler
Weidler	F	Rigby, Capt.
Hawk	C	Norton
Leffel	G	Postle
Phillips	G	Erhmin

Fouls—Baker 3, Rigby 4.

GREATEST MEMORIAL EVENT.

offs on the college and the faculty. A mutual agreement of all classes had been arranged that no class should interrupt another in its yelling and singing, and in this respect the banquet was different from any before held. While the dinner was being served jollity reigned supreme for an hour or two and then Professor Ross, the toastmaster of the evening, on behalf of those at his own table and of the two upper classes requested that the Freshmen and Sophomores march around the room and display themselves. This they did amid great cheering and acclamations from the other classes, the faculty, and the spectators in the gallery.

Professor Ross Toastmaster.

The toast list was representative and well balanced. Professor Ross, of the college faculty, ably presided, and turned the tip of many a joke to the advantage of his hearers. The initial letter of the subjects of the toasts spelled "Hatchets," and the skill with which each speaker handled his subject indicated that not only had the subject been chosen with judgment by the committee, but that the speakers as well were particularly adapted to handle the toasts assigned them. After reading a number of telegrams, Professor Ross introduced the speakers in their order.

Rev. H. B. Potter, a prominent alumnus of the class of 1901, responded to the subject "Hatchets," and toasted to the founders of the nation and of the college.

J. H. Broadbent, '10, toasted to the forensic and dramatic interests of the college.

Miss Lucy Loane, '11, toasted the men of the college under the subject "Trees." She very cleverly characterezid the different types of men under the names of different trees.

C. C. Fisher, '11, made a fitting response to the co-eds under the title "Cherries," characterizing them in quite as brilliant a fashion as his classmate, Miss Loane had the men.

Miss Grace Miller, '10, on "Hewers," toasted the college faculty as the hewers of the college, and turned many a joke on them from listenings and observations.

H. R. Hunt responded to "Events," and forcefully put the cause of Athletics as a college activity.

President Crawford brought "Tidings on behalf of the alumni of the college, and closed the list which was followed by college songs and an "Alleghreu."

The Glee Club sang two numbers in the course of the evening.

The committees in charge of the floors were as follows.

General—Mr. Fixel, chairman; Miss Hatch, secretary; Mr. Fisher, treasurer.

Program—Dr. Akers, Mr. Lewis, Miss Bassett, Miss Peck.

Finance—Mr. Fisher, chairman; Dr. Smith, Miss McClintock, Mr. Dotterer.

Decoration—Miss Hatch, chairman; Dr. Cobern, Miss Grauel, Mr. Hughes.
