Navy Accepts College Program

Freshmen and Sophomores Will Be Eligible

Allegheny has been accepted as one of the colleges and universities who will participate in the Navy's V-1 training program for freshmen and sophomores, according to an announcement by Hurst R. Anderson, registrar, last Monday.

Inclusion of three hours of mathematics in the freshman year and of physics in the sophomore year are the only changes in the normal lower-level curriculum which the Navy requires for those enlisting in the V-1 plan. Four and one-half hours of physical education are required per week, which would probably consist of three one-and-one-half-hour periods.

The V-1 training plan represents a conscious effort by the Navy to place college students where they will be of greatest service. Students enlisting under this plan will be guaranteed at least two years of college. At the end of the third semester, a test will be given to all those in this classification and those passing it may be selected for transfer to the V-7 program for ships' officers, or may volunteer for V-5 classification, for naval aviators. Those enlisting in V-7 may remain in school until they receive a bachelor's degree, but those volunteering for V-5 will leave school at once for active duty.

All freshmen and sophomores between the ages of 17 and 20 who pass the physical examination are eligible for the V-1 training.

Hereafter, the only way to get into V-7 is by first enlisting in V-1 as a freshman or sophomore.

Full information may be obtained from the dean of men's office or the registrar's office in Bentley hall.

May 1st Set As Deadline for V-7 Enlistment

The present V-7 plan of enlistment will be terminated "on or about May 1st," the Navy department announced last week, after which time only class V-1 applicants will be eligible for the V-7 commissions in the Naval Reserve.

Juniors and seniors meeting the requirements may enlist in class V-7 before May 1 and continue in college on inactive duty until they have completed the work required for their college degree.

Applicants must be in their junior or senior year, between 18 and 28 years of age, and must meet the physical and educational requirements. Two one-semester courses in mathematics of college grade are required, in addition to plane trigonometry taken in any accredited school or college. These educational requirements must be met by graduation.

Several Allegheny men already have enlisted under the V-7 plan at the Pittsburgh navy recruiting station. They are: Robert W. Thomas, '43; Ray W. Peterson, '43; Wallace Hanson, '43; Richard Nichols, '43; Robert B. Miller, '42; Floyd A. Ferguson, 44.

Artist Rickey Here for 3 Days

Artist George Rickey, who painted and drew the pictures of the library exhibit, began his three-day visit at Allegheny with a chapel talk today.

Rickey, head of the art department of Muhlenberg college at Allentown, will give a demonstration of oil painting technique at Ruter hall tomorrow at 1:20. He will discuss and demonstrate drawing technique Saturday, 9 a. m., in the Playshop.

During his stay here, the artist will hold conferences with individuals and groups of students.

Seven of his drawings and 11 paintings, mostly portraits, have been on display at the library this week.

Student-Faculty Outing

All students and faculty members are invited to a picnic at Bousson Saturday afternoon and night, April 18. Tickets, at 50 cents, may be purchased at the main desk of the Reis Library or from DeLisle Crawford, chairman of the event. Cars will leave Brooks hall at 3 p. m.

Tongue to Give Benefit Recital

Dr. William R. Tongue will appear in a well-varied piano recital in Ford Chapel this Sunday at 7 p. m. His program is sponsored by the Allegheny Christian Council, whose members are selling tickets to students and public alike.

Proceeds will be for the benefit of the World Student Service fund, which is used for the education of foreign students, especially in the Orient.

Dr. Tongue, of the classics department, is well-known locally for his former performances and is now president of the Meadville Civic Music association. Cost of tickets, which may also be purchased at the door, is 50 cents.

GRAY GORDON

Junior Prom Brings Name Band Here

Girls Given Late Permission For Formal Dance

"Biggest splurge of the Allegheny dancing year, the junior prom, will be held tomorrow evening in Brooks hall from 9:00 to 12:30, with Gray Gordon and his new 17-piece swing band playing," according to George M. Hill, chairman of the prom committee.

Although dress will be formal, the girls have asked the men not to send corsages. One-o'clock permissions will be given the women students. Refreshments will be served at intermission, and senior superlatives will be announced.

Recently Gray Gordon's band was selected by the juke-box operators as the band of the year, and asked to play at the annual convention held by the coin-machine operators in Chicago. Several Allegheny students heard him play at Waldameer Park in Erie, afterward saying it was an entirely different style from that of the old "tick-tock" band.

Chaperons will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Cares, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Werner, and Miss Laila Skinner. Guests are Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Long and Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Seely.

George Hill is general chairman of the prom. Assisting him as heads of committees are: Jean Risser, decorations; Walter Klein, lighting; Louise Parsons, refreshments; Margaret Williams, chaperons and invitations; Frank Minore, senior superlatives.

Charm Expert To Visit Campus

Poise and personality will be emphasized on the Allegheny campus next week during Mrs. Margaret Taylor's visit here Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Sponsored by the Associated Women Students, Mrs. Taylor's stay here will feature group discussions and several talks to the women and some for both the women and men of the college.

A special chapel for women is scheduled for Monday at noon, when the charm expert, who has been an opera singer, will speak on "How's Your Personality?"

Women students are asked to sign on the Brooks bulletin board for the discussion groups by Saturday.

The following program of public discussion groups have been scheduled: "Approaching that Job," Monday at 4:15 in the women's gymnasium. "Stand Up and Face It," Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the women's gymnasium. "Facing an Audience," Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Chapel. This last will be for men as well as women.

Today is the absolute deadline for all applications for student aid which were to have been turned in by yesterday afternoon.

Applications should be made at the registrar's office in Bentley hall.

Class Officers Chosen, '42-'43

Senior Class Run-Off Election Friday Noon; A. U. C. Passes New Ruling

Tomorrow noon in chapel the junior class will meet to determine next year's senior class president and vice-president. Candidates for these offices, as the result of a second ballot, are: president, Larry Larson, Dick Nichols; vice-president, Helen McClester, Wilmah Beck, and Nancy Colwell. Bernard Dusenberry was elected treasurer on the first ballot and Paula Prange, secretary, on the second ballot, last week.

Ray Carper was elected president of next year's junior class at a class meeting held last Monday noon. Other officers chosen were: vice-president, Ellen Boyd; secretary, Betsy Strouse; and treasurer, James McClimans. All were elected on the second ballot.

Officers of next year's sophomore class were elected at a class meeting yesterday noon. Officers are: president, Pat Murphy; vice-president, Harry Conroy; secretary, Louise Schweitzer, who was elected on the first ballot; and treasurer, Bill Thornton.

A recent ruling by the A. U. C. as regards to election procedure will be followed in tomorrow's election, as it was followed in the other two elections. The ruling requires that a majority vote is necessary for election on the first two ballots, but a plurality vote is sufficient for election on the third ballot.

The president and vice-president of next year's senior and junior classes and the president of next year's sophomore class will have seats on next year's Allegheny Undergraduate Council. The present council drew up the slates for these positions.

Other candidates for offices of next year's junior class as a result of the first ballot were: president, Harold Newson; vice-president, Caroline Emerson; secretary, Marjorie Jenkins and Nancy Sutton; and treasurer, Jesse Present.

Next year's sophomore class candidates for offices as a result of the first ballot were: president, Carl Roemer; vice-president, James Brooks, and treasurer, Gilbert Black.

Discuss Campus Housing Plan for TNT Workers

The question of fraternities housing 250 women office-workers for the duration of the summer in connection with the construction of the TNT plant near Meadville was left to the discretion of the individual fraternity and its alumni corporation, as the result of a meeting in the faculty room of Bentley hall last Wednesday, April 8, at 7:30 p. m.

Fraternities were allowed two weeks to decide whether to rent their houses to the office-girls for the summer.

The meeting, which was presided over by Hurst R. Anderson, registrar of the college, was attended by delegates of the fraternities and their representatives on the faculty.

A request by the Meadville housing commission to the college to provide housing for 250 girls from the early part of May until September 1 provided the reason for the meeting.

The college proposed that the various fraternities rent their houses to groups of girls and that summer-school students take rooms in Caflisch and Cochran halls. It was pointed out that this would be a source of considerable revenue to the fraternity.

An alternate plan presented by fraternities was to house office girls in Caflisch hall, incoming freshmen in Cochran hall, and dividing other summer-school students among the various fraternities.

Scribe Heralds Arrival of Spring, Pin-Hanging . . .

"You're beautiful, dear. Do you mind?"

"Of course not. In fact, I rather relish the thought."

"That point is perfectly obvious. But I mean, do you mind my telling you?"

"Don't be silly. I thrive on your telling me. On anyone's telling me, to be perfectly base about it. Why the sudden surge of emotion, though? There's something awfully sinister about your surges, you know. They're rather frightening."

"Don't be caustic. I'm serious. What I can't figure out is why tonight, of all nights, I should think you are beautiful. You usually aren't. I'm amazed, I think."

"Your intensity appalls me."

"You disgust me."

"Thank you. Personally, I don't see why we even bother with each other. We abhor us so mutually."

"I feel terribly profound, darling, and you insist on being flippant. A little cooperation would help. You have no idea."

"I don't feel very cooperative, if you must know. Something about drizzly snow taking the curl out of my hair that discourages me."

"I love your hair when it drools. Makes you look natural."

"You're so sweet—it worries me. What's on your mind?"

"Nothing much, except that today when I saw you buying cigarettes in the Grill, I decided that I love you."

"We reached that stage months ago."

"Yes, I know, but the thought recurred today. You looked awfully domestic, and I realized that I've been treating you like a heel lately."

"Don't exaggerate. I never expect anything from you. That way I never get disappointed. Pure logic. Took me months to cultivate it."

"But I don't want to treat you like a heel. I want to do something to make you very happy."

"That sounds foreboding. I don't like you when you sound foreboding."

"Precipitating is closer to it. I'm on the verge of asking you to wear my pin. . . Why are you shivering?"

"I'm cold."

"Thanks. Well. . . Will you wear my pin?"

"Are you serious?"

"Of course I'm serious. . . If you're going to ponder over it, it won't be very successful, you know."

"This is my Moment. I want to be elusive."

"Obviously."

"Don't be sarcastic. Yes, darling, I'd love to wear your pin. I think it would make me very happy."

At that, he brushed the snow off his topcoat, tenderly unclasped the pin from his sweater and dropped it in a pile of slush.

"Clumsy of me, isn't it? I must be nervous."

"Just conventional."

He grinned at the thought of his being ordinary. Tenderly he wiped off the slush, and pinned his girl.

"Happy now?"

"Terribly."

Tenderly he tilted her chin upwards and his downward. It was their moment of complete happiness.

"By the way, darling, this is returnable by request."

And thus another spring has come to Allegheny.

'Farewell Message'

EACH YEAR at this time a retiring editor lays his cares aside and takes up his pencil to scribble a few lines of acknowledgments and to charge his audience to continue the fight for clean politics in the class elections. In the best editorial tradition, then, this shelved official now turns his attention to the annual "farewell message."

There are several factors that will distinguish this effort from its seventy-five predecessors, though, and they are, it seems, the most important things about it.

First, though perhaps trivial, is the fact that the item is being written some two months after the reins were relinquished. Two months of work on a daily paper with its inevitable differences of viewpoint should make a difference. And they have.

And, second, there is the simple truth that an unparalleled struggle is in progress, a struggle which will determine far more than the war in the 'teens did, and a struggle that cannot be measured or forecast through models in the past.

The two conditions tie in closely with each other. Contact with daily life outside the cloistered college halls only brings a further realization of the scope of the war which has engulfed the world. On every hand lives are being changed. Perhaps life itself is changing; thinking certainly is.

But a return to the college world three days in the week brings the realization that things haven't changed there. The same professors are doing the same things they did ten years ago. There are the strong insistence on class attendance, the same blind devotion to quizzes, the same tendency to carefully keep studies from coming into contact with contemporary affairs—all when the world is fighting a battle which will determine whether or not those things are to be of use after all.

That's the point of it all. There's still too much of the "make the leaders to bring the world out of chaos after the war" spirit. Brother, you've gotta win the war first.

Now, don't all go off and enlist under the spell of this rattling typewriter's chant, but try and realize, and it's difficult, that the current period is far different from anything that's been trotted out before, and that the model for behavior now isn't to be found in the textbooks of 1927.

But all that's getting out of the "farewell message" current and, true hack that we are, we'll have to get back into the hackneyed path. Like all editors, we have acquaintances that we enjoy remembering, and like all editors, we like to thank them for the memories, in writing.

There's "Uncle Billy" Tongue, musician and third-floor scholar, whose antics would delight anyone.

There's that gang in Bentley hall that never got copies of the paper; and there's the other set who got them ahead of time.

There's the typewriter company that sold us our pair of machines, the only company that ever fooled L. J. L.

There's the group of camp followers that trailed into the office to meet their friends.

There's the athletic department, the bravest group of men in the tri-state area.

And there are many more, many more.

But seriously, there are many, more than eight hundred and fifty people, who helped with the Campus this year. They made it possible (seven hundred and fifty paid to make it possible through no fault of their own) and theirs are the thanks they deserve.

Closer to home are the members of the staff; to them a since "thank you." And to the incoming group, a hearty clap on the back and a nasty hope that this time next year they'll have to write a "farewell message" too.

Vaguely Speaking

Leap week went off with a bang. The freshman girls were especially cooperative. Several of our telephone operators carried on polls as to the number of telephone calls that were sent to the different fraternities. It is interesting to note that the Phi Gam's received the most phone calls from les femmes. Fraternities! If you really want to know just how you rated during "leap week," consult operators P. A. GREEN or MARY LIB MEYER.

The following was overheard in one of Hal Kopel's drama classes. "Here the Traveler leaves the Tormenter and runs along with the Teaser." I assure you that it's stage technology, but it certainly sounds like fun.

First come, first served—that's how it was on Sunday evening. The Phi Psis came first. When I say "came," I mean "came" to Brooks to serenade. It so happened that the Alpha Chi Rhos and also the Phi Gams were on their way to serenade when they heard the Phi Psi siren. Then they stopped. Score one (?) for the Phi Psis.

GIRLS—just a warning. Beware of the T.N.T. men—they're dynamite!

MARY PIERCE, our girl from Reading, was informed that she had a "caller." So she tripped down the stairs of Hulings, only to find 10 Phi Psis waiting to see her. Mary looked at them and cringed . . . they were attired in baseball uniforms, with padding and bats as accessories. They grabbed Mary and took her out into an awaiting car. No—it wasn't a kidnaping! They whizzed down to the Phi Delts. JOHN FOSTER stood guard over Mary as the nine other fellows went into the house. They searched for one person—PAUL JONES. He wasn't to be found. (P. S.—doing something rare, i. e., SLEEPING on the third floor). This was all done to remind Mary that she is a PHI PSI girl ONLY!

Has anyone heard the outcome of KNIERMAN'S poll as yet? It seems that PINEY'S latest brainstorm is to find out whether blondes or brunettes are the most dateable coeds. Sounds like a good idea; but what about those poor females (such as yours truly) who might be classified as a "nondescript"? Guess we'll just have to keep a bottle of peroxide in one hand and black dye in the other and get busy when results are announced.

"Wrong-way" CORRIGAN has done it again! This time the object of his confusion was a commandment. At confession the other week, Emmett dutifully began to relate his wrongdoings, and could not understand the agitation shown by the good priest when he calmly told of his breaking the Fifth Commandment. At this telling, all is straightened out. No murders have been committed by CORRIGAN—yet.

Announcements

All those sophomore and junior girls wishing to tryout for Boots and Saddle please sign up immediately on the bulletin board in the front hall of Brooks. Tryouts will be Saturday, April 25.

Class day and Commencement plans will be discussed by the senior class at its meeting next Wednesday noon in the Chapel.

The program for class day, according to Senior President Robert Welday, will probably follow along the lines of last year's class day—valedictorian and salutatorian speeches, farewells to various campus buildings, and the traditional ladder speech.

Allegheny's student co-operative will make reorganization plans at its meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock on the third floor of Ruter.

All students interested in the project are invited to attend the meeting, which, according to Philip Coulter, '44, one of the members of the Co-op council, is to be very important.

Six Frosh In Speech Finals

Semi-finalists in the freshman speaking contest who gave their final speeches last night are Anna Dowling, Leonard Laufe, Earl Leland, Donald Mogg, Barbara Lee Steele, and William Thornton.

Decisions as to the winners of the ten, five, and three-dollar prizes were made after the finals last night, but the finals were too late for an announcement of the winners in this issue.

Last night's three most effective speakers were chosen by judges Harold Kopel, of the speech department, and the Reverend Goodill and the Reverend Griffon of St. Brigid's church.

13 Freshman Girls Tapped as Cwens

Chilly, clear weather marked the tapping of 13 freshman girls as new Cwens for the year 1942-43. The ceremony took place in the upper ravine last Wednesday, April 8, at 7 p. m.

The new members are Barbara Bender, Dorothy Devlin, Frances Engstrom, Laura Greenbaum, Jean Griffith, Joan Hexter, Eleanor Kay Hutchison, Mary McConnell, Patricia Pittenger, Louise Schweitzer, Sally Ann Whitney, and Jacqueline Wright.

Joan Bliss, '44, retiring president, conducted the ceremony. Other Cwens taking part were Virginia Bennett, Marilyn Braniger, Ellen Boyd, Caroline Emerson, Ruth Hammon, Nancy Konstanzer, Jean Merrill, Anne Rinehart, Charlotte Snell, and Doris Traub, all of '44, and Helen Shaffer, '42, and Wilmah Beck and Peggy Williams, both of '43.

The new members will be initiated at a banquet preceding their year of active duty, which starts on High School day, May 2.

Book Contest Closes Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the deadline for seniors wishing to enter the annual book contest, it was decided at a meeting of the Hobby Contest committee Monday afternoon. Applications must be handed to the librarian or some member of the committee.

Books must be at the library May 7, for the display which will last until Commencement. Prizes of $25, $15, and $10 will be donated by Mr. A. W. Robertson.

Members of the committee also agreed that, due to the shortened semester, there would be no hobby contest this year. In future years, however, the contests will consist of more creative work than in the past. This opinion was expressed in a letter by Mr. Robertson, who favors a plan which would provide designated centers and simple tools so that students may work on chosen hobbies.

Town Meeting Tonight At 8:15

"Traditions and Conventions—Education by Degeneration at Allegheny," will be the basis for discussion tonight at the town meeting in room 15 of Arter hall at 8:15.

The student panel who will lead the discussion includes Robert Welday and Gloria Sherman, '42; and Jane Austin, Catherine Cavelti, and John Van Strien, '43.

Events Here Since Our Last Issue

Just to catch up with activities of the last two weeks since the last issue of the Campus and to keep the record straight, we present this summary of important goings-on which have not otherwise been included in the paper.

Ruth Fisher, '43, organist, and Donald Forbeck, '45, pianist, presented another of the Sunday vesper recitals April 12. A pleasant and varied program was presented.

Allegheny women were given their "chance" with the arrival of leap week. Pulling no punches, the girls climaxed the seven-day onslaught with a Cotton Ball, Saturday night.

Jan Peerce, popular American tenor, presented a thrilling concert at the high school auditorium, April 7. A large crowd attended the program which was held under the auspices of the Meadville civic music association.

Col. Thomas Tchou, former secretary to Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, spoke in another of the Allegheny lecture series. Tchou directed his speech toward American complacency, basing his decisions on similar Chinese problems.

National government in action is exactly what members of Political Science 10 saw in their recent trip to Washington. Spending nearly a week in the national's capital, they visited numerous government bureaus and interviewed some of the federal officials.

Proctor's List Names 43 Men

Forty-three freshmen of Caflisch hall were elected to the proctor's list for receiving no delinquencies at the time of the mid-semester reports.

They are Ernest Alvin, Richard Andersen, Robert Bader, Donald Bare, Robert Beighel, August Blomquist, James Brooks, James Brown, Forman Bullock, Alfred Cohen, Harry Conroy, Emmett Corrigan, Robert Craig, Delano Crawford, Harry Falck, William Feisley,

University of Michigan department heads and President Ruthven feel that the university's physical equipment is far inadequate, according to a survey by the Michigan Daily.

INTRAMURAL SOFTBALL

Four teams opened the softball season Monday in spite of a muddy field which threatened to mire the fielders in one spot and upset any base runner who had aspirations toward speed.

The Phi Gams and Delts staged a hectic contest in which the Fijis came out on top, 10-6, after a prolonged comedy of errors. Both teams suffered bad cases of jitters but settled down in the later stages of the game to play some good ball.

Wendell Stone pitched the Sigs to an easy victory over the Alden Men, 22-0. While his teammates gave him robust support at the plate, Stone served notice that he will be one of the most difficult pitchers to solve during the present campaign.

The scores, inning by inning:

Changes In Intramural Program Due To Increasing Emphasis Recommended

Recent developments in an increasingly significant campus athletics situation make it evident that some definite alterations may necessarily have to be made soon in the present set-up.

As pointed out in previous editorials, it is probable that in the new few years intramural athletics may gradually be enlarged to the point of taking over the athletic program completely as varsity sports are more and more de-emphasized and abandoned.

To settle arguments pro and con as to whether or not varsity sports should thus "get the axe" and whether or not intramurals can represent a satisfactory substitute, it should be made clear immediately that it isn't a matter of what we want, what we think best, but what is almost certain to be, and what is entirely necessary and justifiable.

Definite criticisms of the program have been made at intervals in the past and are to be heard now. To be specific about these faults in the present set-up for the benefit of those whose lit it is to effect possible changes, these are the things that have been observed and bemoaned by no small number of individuals recently:

1. The officiating of intramural games by untrained and usually inexperienced student officials has been exceptionally poor in many contests. It is far from being on a par even with the play in some of the contests. Putting the handling of intramurals in student hands with the justification, "Why not, it's the students' sports program?" is O.K. if the handling is competent, authoritative and completely unbiased.

All this considered, it becomes increasingly obvious that there is but one solution to the problem. There must be greater supervision of intramural contests by athletic department officials, even to the point of refereeing some of the games. It is time that interfraternity sports be taken into hand and conducted in a manner befitting the college and doing justice to the fraternities themselves.

2. It is no deep dark secret that some of our intramural sports are dangerous. To be sure, football and basketball are not parlor games under any conditions, but they can become too rough at times to suit their purpose. Unfortunately, players when victimized by overly enthusiastic play on the part of the opponent adopt no attitudes of pacified resistance but in most instances resort to the "two eyes for one eye—two teeth for one tooth" policy. The The results in some cases have not been funny, and with many participants untrained, unconditioned for hard play, and, in the case of football, with no protective equipment used, injuries have been rather frequent.

Why not afford a little conditioning and training for us lads who go out to "win for dear old whatever it may be?" It could well take place in gym classes which perhaps should be compulsory for all men students during these days of war when the importance of developing sound, strong bodies is being everywhere recognized and stressed.

The Woman's Side

By Jean Risser

Let's have one more look at basketball before we turn our backs on the 1942 winter season and think in terms of spring sports. Remember the announcement earlier in the year that varsity teams were to be picked for the various sports? Well, after considering all those girls who participated in the tournament, the Athletic Board has chosen the following honorary varsity basketball teams. The first team includes Ruth Godley, Caroline Dawson and Virginia Kiser as forwards, and Jane Burwell, Eleanor Sterett and Bettemae McComb as guards. Betty Pidgeon, Betty Ling, and Virginia Chester are the forwards on the second team, while Helen Shaffer, Peg Beacom and Jane Heibel complete this team as guards. The third teams forwards are Becky Hawkey, Virginia Pechin, and Phyllis Campbell, with Betty Jane Keyes, Jean Merrill and Nell Hervey as the guards. All those on the first team will receive 50 additional intramural points; the second team, 25 additional points; and the third team, 15 additional points. Congratulations to all of you.

On March 21, 17 Allegheny coeds journeyed to Edinboro State Teachers college to participate in an invitation Play Day program with six other colleges. In addition to having a very good time, our representatives walked off with first-place honors in the badminton, ping-pong, and shuffleboard tournaments. Mildred Shurtleff and Virginia Chester were the able badminton players, while the successful shuffleboard team included Betty Jane Keyes and Jane Heibel. June Patterson brought home the ping-pong first honors with her. Allegheny had two representatives on the winning swimming team—Patty Wright and Fern Newton. Jean DeHaven, Jacqueline Wright, Anne Stidger and Margaret Munson were the other members of the swimming group. The basketball team consisted of Ruth Godley, Jean Merrill, Bettemae McComb, Caroline Dawson, Eleanor Sterett and Virginia Pechin. After an afternoon of exercising and playing, all of the guests were entertained at a tea before they left for home.

The shuffleboard tournament has been completed with Virginia Bennett the new shuffleboard champion. Watch the bulletin board for an announcement concerning the archery tournament.

The mushball tournament got off to a rather inauspicious start last Monday afternoon with all three games won as a result of forfeits. The Alpha Xis forfeited to the Alpha Chis, the Kappas to the Alpha Gams and the TU's to the Thetas. Let's hope that the remaining games can be played as scheduled.

Tennis is here again, too. The tournament was started this week with the first round of playing almost completed by now.

After much discussion and the passing around of many conflicting rumors, the Athletic Board announces that there will be no interfraternity and intersorority sing at the May Day ceremony this spring. The crowning of the May Queen will be held as planned, though.

First Match Of Season Here Against Oberlin

The 1942 edition of the Gator net squad makes its initial appearance of the year Saturday afternoon on the Caflisch courts against the Oberlin college Yoemen. The match is scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. and will include six singles and three doubles matches.

The team this year has been built around several of last year's lettermen and includes a number of promising freshman racquet-wielders. Veterans on the squad are Caravacci, Blank, Fauver, Brokas, and Leuthner, all of whom will see action during the season. In addition to these men, Sophomores Bill Reider and Howard Lyons and Senior Frank McKnight are on the varsity squad for the first time.

Six freshmen bring the squad's present strength to fourteen and include Conroy, Anderson, Todd, Radov, Blomquist, and Mogg.

The loss of Flint, McVey, and especially McEwen from last year's squad will no doubt be greatly felt by the present team in their early matches. However, the potentialities of the outfit are very encouraging and by mid-season should display a great deal of added strength.

As it happens, the match this Saturday will pit the Gators against their toughest opponent of the season. The Oberlin Yeomen have consistently fine net squads and are recognized as one of the district's court leaders.

Last year, at Oberlin, the Gators were handed an 8-1 defeat, salvaging only the third doubles match from the fray, and in 1940 the Yeomen won on the local courts, 5-2.

Though the Gators can hardly be expected to score a triumph over the invaders, the match will provide them with top-notch opponents and valuable experience in the case of the new-comers for later matches.

Frosh, Sophs Must Take Gym In Summer Term

The college has just announced a summer physical education program for freshmen and sophomores which will begin with the start of the regular summer session, June 9. The courses, which will be alike for both men and women, will include tennis, badminton, swimming, and horseback riding, and will be under the personal direction of Coach H. P. Way.

This course is compulsory for all present freshmen who attend summer school and for all incoming freshmen and will be automatically attached to their schedules. The tuition fee is $10 for the entire session for which the student will receive one semester hour of credit.

The college feels that the summer months are best suited for outdoor physical exercise and that this program will aid the student in eliminating his compulsory physical education credits as well as helping him to attain a well-planned summer recreational program.

NAVY ANNOUNCEMENT TO COLLEGE FRESHMEN AND SOPHOMORES 17 THRU 19

You want to serve your country! Why not serve where your college training will do the most good?

Under the Navy's newest plan, you can enlist now and continue in college. If you make a good record, you may qualify within two years to become a Naval Officer—on the sea or in the air.

Who may qualify

80,000 men per year will be accepted under this new plan. If you are between the ages of 17 and 19 inclusive and can meet Navy physical standards, you can enlist now as an Apprentice Seaman in the Naval Reserve. You will be in the Navy. But until you have finished two calendar years, you will remain in college, taking regular college courses under your own professors. Your studies will emphasize mathematics, physics and physical training.

After you have successfully completed 1½ calendar years of work, you will be given a written examination prepared by the Navy. This examination is competitive. It is designed to select the best men for training as Naval Officers.

How to become an Officer

If you rank sufficiently high in the examination and can meet the physical standards, you will have your choice of two courses—each leading to an officer's commission:

1. You may volunteer for training as an Aviation Officer. In this case you will be permitted to finish at least the second calendar year of your college work, after which you will be ordered to active duty for training to become an officer-pilot. Approximately 20,000 men a year will be accepted for Naval Aviation.

2. Or you will be selected for training as a Deck or Engineering Officer. In this case you will be allowed to continue your college work until you have received your degree.

After graduation you will be ordered to active duty for training to become a Deck or Engineering Officer. Approximately 15,000 men a year will be accepted.

If you do not qualify for special officer's training, you will be allowed to finish the second calendar year of college, after which you will be ordered to active duty at a Naval Training Station as Apprentice Seaman.

Those who fail to pass their college work at any time may be ordered to active duty at once as Apprentice Seamen.

Your pay starts with active duty.

Here's a real opportunity. A chance to enlist in your country's service now without giving up your college training . . . a chance to prove by that same training that you are qualified to be an officer in the Navy.

Who's Who Lists 7 Local Professors

Seven members of Allegheny's faculty have been included in the newest edition of Who's Who in America. The list includes President William P. Tolley, Dr. Oscar P. Akers, Dr. Chester A. Darling, Dr. Irwin R. Beiler, Dr. Clarence F. Ross, Dr. John R. Schultz, and Dr. Stanley S. Swartley.

Also included in the publication is Dr. Paul A. Siple, noted Allegheny graduate who has accompanied Rear Admiral Byrd on several expeditions to the South Pole.

Pres. Joseph H. Edge of Dakota Wesleyan university has been appointed to the education and publicity committee of the South Dakota civilian defense organization.

Singers To Take Three-Day Trip

The Allegheny Singers, under the direction of Morten J. Luvaas, will make a short tour of the Pittsburgh area this weekend.

On April 19 they will give a program in the morning at the Methodist church in Indiana. That afternoon they will sing in Greensburg, and at 8 o'clock the same evening the Singers will give a concert at Emory Church in Pittsburgh.

The next day, following a concert in the Dormont high school, the Singers will give a short program in the Asbury Methodist Church. Another concert will be given the following day in the Uniontown high school. With this concert the tour will end and the organization will return to prepare for another short trip the following weekend.

Seely To Write Review Column

Frederick F. Seely, of the English department, will write a column entitled "In the Scholarly Journals" in the magazine Saturday Review of Literature. The first appearance of the column, which will be featured at irregular intervals, will be in the issue which goes on sale this week.

In his column, Seely will review and comment on articles in English and American journals of literary scholarship.
