Noon, Nov 14, '38.

Great Lady Dear, I have just laid down the MS that came an hour ago, my eyes are wet with the thrill of the greatness of the end.

It is the per-, no, it is the collection of thoughts for a perfect, a more than perfect last chapter, perfection isn't so much, may be very i little. Also, perfecting may be a vitally important thing. It is going to be here. I shall give myself to doing what I can for it , that will only take two or three days, and then return it.

What I can do is what you could do if you could put it away fro a time, forget it, come back to it from the outside. I don't mean I can do all you could in that proper case, but it is patr of it and a little beside perhaps. But this close (there I make the sort of muddle you often ~~is~~ is something to increase that so much that all obscure , mysterious Value which makes the value of expression.

My Dear, the gladness I have lived to do this springs spontaneous. It makes life seem so very worth while.

As to how I am, the way I keep well, in the sense of those matters that make me comfortable, is a marvel, day-by-day-made health of the sort compatible with losing ground pretty fast right along. And Sister, I don't mind. I think I am wondrous lucky to be doing it on such terms-- I can not talk about thanks to the All Divine, because I can't see the sort of partial ity there which would make it in place-* and how could it compose with Divinity But thhat I under an order as mysterious as the one we know I may be getting the kindness of such powers as Wm James talks about-- or my Florence believes in so affectionately, that I often think about.

Before I had written two lines of this J.S.P. called up to say he was coming out this afternoon -V what a happiness. And it won't put me back with the great work-- will probably help it more.

How glad I am I have known you, have had the chance to help with this book

Viola R--

Digital Image, 2009. The Ida M. Tarbell Collection, 1890-1944, Allegheny College Pelletier Library