My dear Miss Tarbell:

I have thought of you often through the summer, and wondered how things were going with you. I hope you and Jean (if she is still there) kept well through the heat, and that the work of the Council is going smoothly.

Everything went well with us until a week ago, when the blessed Baby took sick. I was terribly worried, particularly because her daddy was so far away. He had only two weeks vacation and has been back in N. Y. for some time. Janet is improving, but not her old dear self yet. She is still thin & pale. The trouble was indigestion, and the remedy - starvation -

I'd love to hear your plans for fall and winter, and to know how well you are keeping.

Please remember me to Jean. With kindest regards, my dear Miss Tarbell believe me yours sincerely

Janet Mack Blair

P.S. This is a "munition" town.
