NO SCORE IN GOOD GAME WITH HIRAM

Football Team Holds Hiram to 0-0 Score in Good Game—Account by Player.

(Written by H. J. Wieler, who played left end during second half of game.)

Just one week ago to-day Allegheny's crippled representatives of football journeyed to Hiram, O., where they engaged in their second gridiron battle of the year with the team of the college at that place. And, in spite of green men and numerous injuries they played a 0-0 game with this team which had made such a great showing against Western Reserve. The game was played under great odds, the field being slippery and officials incomptent.

The game was one hard fight from the first whistle until time was called in the last quarter. In the first quarter Allegheny started out with a rush and carried matters to Hiram so hard and fast that Capt. Hawk's men seemed certain to cross the goal line; but fate was against them. A fumble at a critical moment spoiled all chance of scoring in that period. However, Hiram never had a chance to get near Allegheny's line in this period, not even being able to make a fast down. The second period started out to be a r petition of the first, but a series of questionable penalties and unfavorable breaks in luck again spoiled all chance of scoring. The half ended with the ball in the middle of the field and with both teams playing about even. Allegheny should unquestionably have scored during this half and it was simply due to hard luck that she did not do so.

The second half started with Hiram's receiving the ball on her ten yard line from the kickoff. She was held here for downs and had to kick. Hawk received the punt and was downed in his tracks. After two attempts at gains through the line Allegheny was forced to punt. The kick was blocked, Hiram recovering the ball on Allegheny's ten yard line. In two downs Alsdoerfer advanced it to the four yard line and then attempted to carry it over. He was tackled so hard, however, that he fumbled and Allegheny recovered. Hawk was forced to punt from behind the goal line and this time the ball hit Lavely. Hiram recovered again but time for the third quarter was called and the danger of a score was averted for the time being.

The final quarter began with the ball on Allegheny's thirty-one yard line and in her possession. The ball see-sawed during this period from one end of the field to the other with Allegheny having to fight hard to guard her line. Again neither team was able to negotiate a tally and the final score stood 0-0. The game ended with the ball in Hiram's possession on the thirty-five yard line.

Throughout the game Allegheny's defense presented the same strong line which had stopped Cornell a few days before. The ends were also firm and most of the gains made by Hiram were again due to poor tackling. Most of Allegheny's gains were made on straight end runs and line bucks, although several forward passes came within an ace of netting large gains. The game was featured by the absence of all sensational individual work. It was a game with every man on each team fighting every minute to bet or retain possession of the ball. As a result no particlar star can be mentioned on either team, but the game may be styled an exciting fight from beginning to end.

The lineup and summary follows:

| Allegheny—0. | | Hiram—0. |
|---|---|---|
| Robinson | L.E. | R. Moore Wieler |
| C. Dotterrer | L.G. | Ward |
| Hall-Ball | L.T. | Blair |
| Abbott | C. | Hennessy Bodenhorn |
| Deemer | R.T. | L. Cook |
| Erb | R.T. | A. Cook |
| Townsend | R.E. | Foltz |
| Hawk | L.H. | Meikle-Leach |
| Lavely | R.H. | Braund-Thomas |
| W. Dotterrer | L.F. | Alsdoeffer |
| Miller | R.F. | Frew |

Referee—Snyder. Umpire—Downs. Time of quarters—12 minutes.

Book by Founder of The Campus

Wayne E. Whipple, '77, Issues "A Story Life of Washington"—Was One of Three Founders of The Campus.

In the departent of The New Books in The Outlook of October 14 appears a very complimentary notice of the latest effort of one of Allegheny's literary alumni, Wayne E. Whipple, '77, of Philadelphia. The book which is there noted is "The Story Life of Washington," which is a companion piece to his former work, "A Story Life of Lincoln."

During his four years of work at Allegheny, Mr. Whipple was very greatly interested in literary work in spite of the fact that at the time of his entrance the college could boast of not a single literary or news journal. Feeling the need of such a publication in the institution, he together with A. J. Maxwell, deceased, and A. C. Ellis, a minister at present located in Oil City, founded and for several years edited The Campus. From that time on till his graduation he was intensely interested in every thing literary at Allegheny. The Campus during its first period of existence had many hard roads to travel and many obstacles to overcome and it was greatly due to the efforts of this now distinguished literary man together with hiis colleagues that it managed to survive. Mr. Whipple was also active in other college activities of his day, being a prominent member. of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Since his graduation he has written much upon various subjects, but it is mainly for the works mentioned above that he is recognized. The Outlook has the following to say regarding Mr. Whipple's work. Considering the fact that mere mention in The Outlook is worth much, this article will have a double value:

"In 'The Story-Life of Washington' Mr. Wayne Whipple has put together chronologically the various stories that have been told about the Father of his Country. The particular and, we must admit, very attractive feature of this work is that Mr. Whipple includes the legends as well as the true stories; for example, he does not fail to tell again the famous cherry-tree story. The two volumes of the present work are thus a decidedly restful and unconventional contribution to history. No matter how much one must eliminate in order to make the record a true history, the character of Washington as developed in these pages, while perhaps not particularly notable to the very serious student, does, as he must allow, live in an atmosphere of its own, much more, indeed, than it does when we read some up-to-date biography from which all of the legendary and much of the merely personal may have been ruthlessly excluded. (The John C. Winston Company, Philadelphia. $3.)"

When Ohio State started their football practice this year there were only three players on last year's team present. The coach expects to get a team out of the other fifty-seven that have reported.

An effort is being made by the senior class of Illinois University to abolish exams in the second semester of the senior year.

UNUSUALLY GOOD TALK AT UNION MEETING

Dr. W. A. Elliott Addresses First Union Meeting of Christian Associations —Talks of Paul.

On last Wednesday evening the first union meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. was held in the Chapel. A large representation of the two organizations was present and enjoyed one of the most beneficial talks that has ever been given at such a meeting. Dr. Elliott was the leader and he chose as the subject of his talk the character Paul.

After a short service of song, Dr. Elliott was introduced as the speaker of the evening. After stating that it was his purpose to try to bring before the men and women there assembled some concrete lesson suitable for the beginning of the college year and that after some thought he had concluded that the character of Paul presented the best opportunity for doing this, Dr. Elliott continued as follows: "Have you never had the desire to be like Paul, the most attractive human character in the Bible, the arranger and the great marshaler of the Christian Church? Undoubtedly you have but have you ever thought that you would have been willing to pay the price which he paid? He was a man who sacrificed the luxury which he might have enjoyed the pleasure which he might easily have gained, in fact everything which the ordinary mortal craves, for a life of service. At times when he longed for activity, when he felt that he should be doing things, he was restrained by prison bars. Not many of us would have been willing to pay such a price.

"However, it is more the picture of Paul before Felix that I wish to bring before you this evening. It is at the time when he had been summoned by the governor and had been given permission to speak, the time when he delivered his great speech. Unfortunately for us we have only the three great subdivisions of this speech but these alone serve to illustrate the character of the man and we can almost hear what he must have said upon these topics. They were Righteousness, Temperance, and Judgment to Come. That day he put his whole soul, his whole life into his words. From childhood up to manhood he had had the principle of righteousness drilled into him and later from his contact with the Master had gained even a greater love for the things which are right. To us the word means straightness, correctness of living and of thought. Naturally then when Paul poured forth his soul in the urging of these principles Felix trembled. Not much wonder that he was frightened to hear such a doctrine brought to him in such a convincing manner.

"From this Paul passes to Temperance. To him it meant complete mastery of self. Drunkenness and loss of temper in his eyes were signs of contemptible weakness. Selfishness, Pride, Passion and Lust were all subject to the will and naturally then he could speak of temperance, of moderation in all things. And lastly he came to the final Judgment. From the Old Testament, from the Master's parables, from His great ethical teachings he got his ideas concerning this. No wonder then that Felix was once more worried as he thought of his weak surrender to lust and passion, and then heard of the trial which he must face.

"Now what application can all this have for us? It is interesting of course that Paul formed his religious, and moral self from all that he came in contact with. But it is more what he said at this time which concerns us. I might almost say that the thing which we need most is a righteous revival. We have had revivals in other lines but very few in straightness. Again as to temperance. Many things such as recreation and pleasure are harmless in themselves but a lack of moderation renders them very harmful. This is the tendency in college, to go into everything and to accomplish nothing. You cannot do everything in life and you will have to make a choice sometime. The greatest vice in college is the useless frittering away of time, the scampering around on the surface of things without delving into them.

"The last and greatest lesson which this speech of Paul's brings to us is that we must awake to the fact that a great reckoning is to come and that the time is not a great way off. It is a good thing for us to face directly and immediately some of the plain fundamental traits of character; and what can be more fundamental than the three which helped Paul to become the attractive character that he is?"

New Rules for Fight

Under Classes to be Set Against Each Other in Equal Numbers Next Wednesday.

A special meeting of the College Council was held on Wednesday afternoon to hear the report of the committee appointed at the last meeting to draw up rules governing the Freshman-Sophomore rope tying contest. The report was adopted as read and it was decided to hold the contest next Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock on the Montgomery Field. Some discussion has been heard in previous years regarding the unfairness of the fight on account of the larger numbers in the Freshman class. For this reason it was decided to limit the number of Freshmen who enter the fight. Every Sophomore who appears on the field will be given the right to participate and a like number will be chosen from the Freshmen.

The rules are as follows:

I. The classes shall be set against each other in a rope-tying contest in equal numbers, the Freshmen choosing from their numbers the same number as the Sophomores have out for the fight, which number shall be at least 30, or the Freshmen get that many anyway.

II. A man shall be considered tied when his hands are tied together and his feet are tied together.

III. As men are tied and carried to the captive house, their names shall be recorded by deputies of those in charge, after which they shall be on their honor not to enter the fight again.

IV. The length of the contest shall be twenty minutes, at the end of which time the class having the larger number of their opponents tied shall be declared the victor.

V. The contest shall be under the supervision of the presidents of the Senior and Junior classes. The choosing of men from the Freshmen for the fight shall be in charge of the Senior president.

Dr. Knudson Preaches

First of Series of Monthly Sermons Preached in Chapel Last Sunday.

The series of monthly Sunday afternoon sermons, which are to be delivered before the student body during the coming year, was begun on last Sunday afternoon, when Dr. Albert C. Knudson, Professor of Hebrew in Boston University and former Professor of English Bible and Philosophy of Religion at Allegheny, preached in the Chapel before a large audience of students and town folk.

In opening the service, President Crawford stated that Mrs. Cochran's purpose in providing this series of sermons was not only to educate the students, but to build up solid Christian character. He also announced several of the preachers who are to be heard throughout the year, among whom are several distinguished men of the ministry.

Dr. Knudson's text was taken from John 10:10: "I am come that ye might have life and have it more abundantly." He explained the full meaning of religion—of what it should mean to everyone and of the influence it should have over our lives. He brought ont the fact that by living for Christ we are getting the real pleasures out of life. The whole sermon was full of good thoughts and suggestions and was extremely applicable to the student in college.

FIRST HOME GAME WITH KENYON TODAY

Season at Home Opens With Strong Ohio Team This Afternoon at Athletic Park.

This afternoon the student body will have its first opportunity of seeing the football team in action, when it meets the strong team from Kenyon at Athletic Park at three o'clock. This first game at home will also be one of the hardest of the season. Kenyon this year is represented by one of the best teams that the school has had in recent years. They have a very heavy line, a fast backfield, and are capable of playing the game as it should be played. Last Saturday they held the strong Reserve team to the close score of 11-0 and considering the fact that Reserve is reputed as having one of the strongest teams in its ristory, this score is doubly significant.

The Kenyon team is recognized by Ohio scribes as one of the best in the state. As a member of the Ohio Conference, they have been playing the strongest and heaviest teams; although the enrollment of the school is only about 100, the class of their teams in all branches of athletics has been of the highest kind. The present Kenyon team is composed of a number of the best players in Ohio. Axtell, the clever right end, was picked last season by sporting editors as the all Ohio end. Marty was one of the all Ohio tackles last year but is playing at fullback this season. His work on the basketball floor here last winter is still remembered. "Buck" Carr, one of Reserve's ineligibles a year ago, although considered one of the best players in school, is on the line. The left side of the line is made up of heavy men, their weights being 218, 225 and 167. From this it is easily seen that the fight will really be speed against weight. Kenyon is known as an "end-running" team.

A number of new faces will be seen in the Allegheny line up this afternoon. In order to make use of Thomas' speed he will be played at the center position and Abbott will start in the backfield. Captain Hawk will appear at his old position at end and Longfellow will alternate with Townsend at the other end. Hall will take care of the guard position made vacant by the injury of Sheffer. The teams will probably line up as follows:

| Kenyon. | | Allegheny. |
|---|---|---|
| Axtell | L.E. | Hawk-Robinson |
| Lewis | L.T. | C. Dotterrer |
| Cook | L.G. | Erb-Hall |
| Crawford | C. | Thomas |
| ———— | R. G. | Bodenhorn-Deemer |
| Anderson | R.T. | Wieler-Pierson |
| Wonders | R.E. | Townsend-Longfellow |
| Carr | L.H. | Miller-Ball |
| Marty | L.F. | Abbott |
| Tasman | R.F. | W. Dotterrer |
| Wickman | R.H. | Lavely |

NEW TRUSTEES ELECTED.

At the last session of the Erie Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church a plan for the election of Trustees for Allegheny College was adopted, and the following were elected, to be placed on the board as vacancies occur: C. W. Miner, from the pastors; and A. B. Walker, of Erie, George Greer, of New Castle, and D. E. Byles, of Oil City, from the laymen.

Manager's Talk

It takes the Freshmen some time to get fully acquainted with the whys and wherefores of college life. Nearly every thing has to be learned from experience or through the teaching of other schoolmates. The upper classmen have learned by this time that the patronage of the town business men is the essential thing in running the college publications and that for their support they are entitled to your trade. They have also learned to look through the advertising columns of The Campus and see what merchants are represented there. The Freshmen will find it to their advantage to "patronize those who patronize us."

We Should Have Competitive Managerships.

If politics—at least in so far as it is corrupt—could be entirely removed from college life, as well as from the life of the world, politically speaking, an ideal state of affairs would exist. But this condition, like all ideal conditions, is a practical impossibility. Politics will remain to some extent wherever there are men and women seeking distinction and office. However, it is entirely possible and practicable to eliminate some of the politics which now exist at Allegheny. The case of the athletic managers is meant in particular. There is no good reason why these offices should be elected by the student body, fair and reasonable as such a system may seem on the surface. The only just and proper way for the selection of managers of the athletic teams is by competition.

If these offices would be placed on a competitive basis with no restrictions on competitors except perhaps in regard to class standing, there can be no doubt that the new system would be more effectual in putting good, competent men into office than that under which these offices are now filled. In many other institutions managerships are awarded on the basis of competition with great success. Not only are better men, as a rule, placed in office, but the offices, being obtained through work and not through mere election, are of higher value, and when secured are more highly prized than when obtained through election.

The Proposed Plan.

The plan which The Campus suggests to the College Council for the choosing of these officers is to let anyone or everyone who desires in his Sophomore year compete for the position of assistant manager of any of the teams. His work should be under the direction of the manager and assistant manager then holding office and should consist of any reasonable work in connection with the management of the team. At the end of the year the Athletic Board, or, if it should seem wiser, a committee of judges elected from the faculty for the purpose, should choose from the list of competitors the man who has shown himself best qualified for the position, to serve as assistant manager during his Junior year and manager during his Senior year. The long season of work would eliminate the probability of an indolent man getting the position, as is eminently possible in the present election system. The proposed plan would eliminate politics as much as is possible and, The Campus believes, would be for the best interests of Allegheny from the standpoints both of athletics and of Christian character.

FOOTBALL RESULTS.

Among the many football games played on last Saturday, the results of the following contests will be of particular interest to Allegheny students:

Western Reserve 11, Kenyon 0.
Carnegie Tech 12, Waynesburg 6.
Grove City 15, Geneva 0.
W. & J. 42, Shadyside 0.
Oberlin 3, Cornell 15.
University of Pittsburg 24, Westminster 0.

The Adventurer

The Adventurer had thought, read and studied somewhat of the art of speaking, and had a modest ambition to be able to make a good speech. He was, therefore, always ready to listen to a good speaker, and frequently while listening found himsel meditating on various phases of the art of public address. Recently while a great speaker was addressing an audience of which he was one, his musings ran along this line:

There are many good speakers who are not great speakers; and there are many speakers who are good from the elocutionary point of view who are not at all what could be termed great. Those of the latter class have all the grace and ease which could be desired but do not have the inward power to move; there is something lacking within them, something which is the secret of the power of those speakers who are able to convince and move their audiences at will. Those whom we call great may violate every rule of elocution and public address, may move awkwardly and gesticulate wildly, may mispronounce words and speak inarticulately; and yet they will carry their hearers wherever they will. On the other hand, the man who is merely a perfect speaker from the standpoint of elocution usually degenerates into mere declamation, reciting words that another has written for him.

Then the Adventurer wondered why it is that all of us can not be good speakers; but almost immediately he rebuked himself for the thought, realizing that all this is a part of the divine scheme, that there is a place for each one of us and only one place into which each of us is best fitted. A man's life calls to mind the rule for telling a story, for it is recognized that there is only one best view point for each narrative. For one story it may be from the first person, for another it may be from the impersonal third person. So in life, there is one most suitable thing for each person to do. Some men are intended to be good speakers, others to be good brick-layers. The man who is a bricklayer could not make a very good speech; and in the same way the speaker could not go out and lay a straight line of bricks. Each has his station.

As the Adventurer was thinking all this, the speaker was getting to the heated part of his subject. But the Adventurer paid no heed, for he was wondering what his station in life might be

UNDERCLASSMEN ARE STUDYING FOOTBALL.

During the past week preparations have been made for the annual struggle for supremacy in the field of foot ball between the Sophomores and Freshmen. The councils of war have been held and the braves of the two classes have appointed their leaders. Doran and Ricker are directing the preparation of the new ones, which has been in progress all week. With their usual show of contempt for the ability of their opponents the Sophomores have disdained to lower their standards by practicing for such a contest. However, it may be stated with some degree of certainty that ere long, this same haughty aggregation will be seen hieing themselves to some secluded nook; there to prepare for the first conflict of the year.

The date of this widely heralded event has not as yet been decided upon, but it will undoubtedly take place sometime in the near future. The game this year should be most interesting, as the Centennial lads have an abundance of light High School material which will cause their heavier and more experienced opponents no small amount of trouble. However, the Sophomores demonstrated their worth in this line in the game of last year and they are sure not to deteriorate to a great extent this year. Great interest has already been manifsted in the approaching game, which interest is bound to increase as the day of battle draws near, until both are pitched to a key which will assure a glorious conflict.

The Ohio State Lantern proved its progressive spirit by getting out an extra just thirty six seconds after the Freshman's victory in the cane rush.

Always the show of the town at Veith's.

First Quill Meeting

College Journalism Discussed in First Meeting of the Year—Officers Elected.

On Monday evening the Quill Club held its first meeting of the year in the club room of the Library. The meeting was in charge of F. H. Callahan, editor of The Literary Monthly, and Thomas Hughes, editor of The Campus, who together with Miss Clara Wheeling and Prof. S. S. Swartley read papers dealing with the various phases of college journalism. A goodly number of Quillers were present and the interest manifested in the first meeting should be indicative of a very successful year for the club.

Before the regular program of the evening was taken up the officers for the ensuing year were elected. As a result of this election the new officers are: Chairman of the Executive Committee, R. W. Thomas; Secretary, Miss Florence Griswold; Treasurer, Miss Margaret Megirt. Miss Margaret Beebe, a former member of the club and now a member of the Faculty, was elected to associate membership, as was also Dr. G. A. Benjamin, head of the Department of History and Economics. Dr. Akers was elected as the Quill Club member and chairman of The Campus competition committee.

After the completion of business the program for the evening was begun, Thomas Hughes reading the first paper, on "Present Day Methods in College Journalism." In this he explained the various methods employed in the regulation of college journalism in different schools, reading a very interesting letter from the editor of the Cornell Daily Sun which fully explained the plan used there in the selection of editors. In the next paper, Miss Wheeling brought out in a very interesting manner "The Place of Allegheny's Alumni in the World of Letters." She briefly reviewed the works of such alumni as Ida Tarbell, F. C. Bray, Frederic Palmer and Robert F. Wilson, showing that Allegheny's alumni are occupying a large place in the world of letters to-day. The next paper on "The Contribution of College Literary Effort to Permanent Literature," read by Mr. Callahan, showed in an instructive manner just what portion of college literary effort has been permanent. He brought out the fact that though the majority of college writers could not hope to have their efforts while in college accepted as real literature, yet the perseverence required in this work and the training received from such efforts were inestimable in the work of later years.

The last paper which was read by Prof. Swartley was entitled "A Campus Catechism." This came as the spice of the evening, for the writer in compiling his catechism had taken up every phase of The Campus, presenting them in an instructive and highly humorous manner. In a brief, concise manner he brought out and answered such questions as: What is the Campus? Who are the Editors and Reporters? How are the Editors and Reporters Chosen? What is the Compensation which they receive? What are the Contents of the Campus? Who are the readers? What does the Campus cost? and What are the values of the Campus? Needless to say the many opportunities for introducing humor into these answers were not overlooked and the paper as a result was very interesting.

FISHEL-WHEELING WEDDING.

Miss Clara Wheeling, '09, and Harry M. Fishel, '09, will be married on Oct. 17th at the home of Miss Wheeling's sister in Cochranton, Pa. Miss Katherine Wheeling, '12, will be a bridesmaid.

During their courses, both Miss Wheeling and Mr. Fishel were very prominent in college life. Miss Wheeling was one of the Senior Six, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and was also active in the Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Since graduation from college she has taught successfully in Girard and Spencer, N. Y. Mr. Fishel is a member of the local chapter of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. At commencement he was elected to Senior Six. Since graduation he has been studying in the Theological Department of Boston University with expectations of entering the ministry. He is soon to take charge of the Sunday School in the Trinity Methodist Church of Youngstown, O.

Mr. Wayne Belden, ex-'12, of Westfield, N. Y ,was married recently to Miss Hilda Whetham, of the same place.

The regular Y. W. C. A. meeting was not held last Sunday evening because of the afternoon service in Ford Memorial Chapel.

An informal party was given by Theta Sigma at the home of Miss Berdeen Braymer, '12, on Highland Ave., last Tuesday evening.

During the past week Fred K. Herpel, of Reynoldsville, and Joseph Sherman, of Conneaut Lake, have been pledged to the Theta Delta Psi fraternity.

During the absence of Dr. Gilbert R. Williamson, the newly appointed pastor of the Stone Church,, Dr. Camden M. Cobern filled his pulpit on last Sunday evening.

A large number of Allegheny students attended the reception which was held expressly for students in the parlors of the Congregational church on last Monday evening.

At a Y. W. C. A. meeting held last Thursday, Miss Frances Norton, '13, was elected secretary of the association, to fill the vaacncy caused by the failure of Miss Muza Anchors, ex-'13, to return to college.

Dr. C. M. Cobern was one of the speakers at the 47th annual convention of the State Sunday School Association, held in New Castle, October 11, 12 and 13. One of his addresses was on "New Light on the Bible."

The results of the athletic election, which was held on last Saturday, are as follows: Delegate-at-large, C. N. More; secretary-treasurer, A. R. McClure; assistant basketball manager, S. T. Perley; assistant baseball manager, Gordon E. Hinckley.

During the past week judges of Campus competition for the ensuing year have been elected. The College Council chose Professor S. S. Swarty; the Quill Club selected Dr. Akers; and these two selected Dr. Elliott as the third member of the board.

Miss Edith Rowley, '05, the College Librarian, and Miss Ada B. Palm, '03, assistant in the City Library, are among the members of the Keystone State Library Association, which will hold its eleventh convention in Saegertown, October 19, 20 and 21.

Mrs. E. E. Lee, Mrs. C. F. Ross and Mrs. F. C. Lockwood held a very delightful reception for the Faculty ladies and Senior girls yesterday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Ross on South Main street. Entertaining games and dainty refreshments added to the pleasure of the afternoon.

At a special meeting of the Classical Club called by President Lore at Wednesday noon, a number of names were proposed and discussed. As a result the following new members were elected into the club: W. R. Hofelt, Miss Foresta Maynard, H. B. Storer, J. D. Van Horn, C. L. Nevins, C. V. Sparling and P. W. Johnston.

The mission study class, in connection with the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., is soon to be started. R. W. Thomas and Miss Ethel Bayard, representing the missionary committees of the two associations, met recently with Mr. P. A. Schwartz, secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, to discuss plans for the year.

Klee-o-Kleet, the girls' dramatic club, is already engaged in making plans for the work of the ensuing year. At a meeting held on last Saturday night two new members, Misses Marian Thomas and Irene Beatty, were elected to membership. According to the precedent set last year, the annual play will not be given until early next spring. As yet it has not been definitely decided what play will be presented this year.

Dr. H. A. Chalfant of the Pittsburg Conference who spent one term at Allegheny some years ago, was a visitor during the week. He spoke in Chapel on Tuesday morning, expressing his joy at seeing for the first time in twenty-five years the place where he spent a part of his college career and, further, congratulating all those able to enjoy a complete course at Allegheny. During his visit here Dr. Chalfant was a guest of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

The members of last year's band met in the gymnasium last Saturday in order to form a permanent organization for running the band during the present year. W. H. Fegely was elected leader and H. J. Gordon, secretary-treasurer. A committee of three was appointed to draw up a set of rules and regulations. About twenty-five men reported for practice, including a number of new men. It is expected that the new band will be even better than that of last year.

Rally for Football

Assembly Yesterday Morning Devoted to Interests of Athletic Association and Kenyon Game.

The regular Assembly hour yesterday morning was devoted to the interest of the Athletic Association and was in charge of Dr. E. E. Lee, representing the Athletic Board. It developed into one of the most enthusiastic rallies of the kind ever held at Allegheny, a number of men telling in a convincing manner what each person in school owed to this association and how he could pay the debt.

After stating the place and standing of athletics at Allegheny, Dr. Lee pointed out the great expense naturally incurred in the operation of such athletics and also the scanty means provided for meeting this expense. He showed that practically the whole success of athletics rested in the hands of the students and that it was according to the manner in which they responded to the demands made upon them that the teams representing the school would develop. He then called upon Prof. G. A. Benjamin, the treasurer of the association, who told briefly the difference between the demands made upon Allegheny students and those made in other schools. He also emphasized the great necessity of every student lending his assistance to the cause of athletics in some concrete form.

In the next talk, Captain Hawk told of the manner in which each person can and should do his duty to the team and to the Athletic Association. He laid especial emphasis upon the great influence which the co-operation of the student body has and will have upon any athletic team. He closed his talk with a plea for everyone to purchase a ticket and to use it at the game this afternoon. Thomas Hughes was then called upon and he, too, emphasized the fact that, not only from the standpoint of finances but also from a standpoint of spirit, everyone ought to be at the game with a ticket this afternoon. He also showed that every Alleghenian should have an individual pride in the team which represents his college.

In the last speech of the morning H. T. Lavely, ex-captain of the football team, told of the great dearth of spirit among the students thus far bringing out especially the poor showing among the men. He offered as a contrast the spirit of Kenyon which will be manifested here this afternoon, showing that if Allegheny expects to be able to cope with this team she must revive the spirit which has been somewhat dormant thus far. He, too, added a plea for a large crowd and an enthusiastic one at the game today.

DEBATES BEGIN.

On Thursday afternoon the first regular debate of the year was held in Philo-Franklin Hall. A very good representation was present, especially of new men, and a very spirited debate ensued.

The question, "Resolved, that Freshmen should not be allowed to play on any Allegheny athletic team," was most interesting and also very suitable for the occasion, since all were able to say something upon the subject. The affirmative side was upheld by C. L. Nevins and A. A. Rea while C. S. Smith and Claire Sweetland attempted to disprove their arguments. After the arguments and rebuttals of the leaders had been made, the question was given over to general discussion. A very heated and spirited argument ensued, after which the decision was given to the negative.

Lit is on the Way

First Issue of the Monthly is Expected the Latter Part of next Week.

It's coming! You can't stop it; and in fact no one has ever tdied to stop it. The editor says that it ought to be here some time next week, which means that if the printers see fit to allow it to be finished, it may be here not more than a week late. But no, he says that it must be here on time, so you may look for it almost any time next week. What is it? Why of course, the only thing in college which comes out once a month and which every one takes, while but a few buy. Certainly, it's the Lit.

In other words, the first issue of The Literary Monthly is due to appear some time in the latter part of next week. It is at present in the hands of the printers and, provided no unforseen delay arises, it will be ready for distribution at the announced time. As in years gone by it will attempt to act as the outlet for all literary effort of Allegheny students and earnestly invites as many efforts as possible.

The Lit this year will be essentially the same paper as in past years. It will contain the usual departments with the omission of the Arena which appeared last year. The general design and make up will also be similar to the publications of former years. The first issue will contain a number of well written short stories and also the first installment of a good serial story. A feature of this issue will be the presence of a number of really good short poems written by students. In past years this has been the one weak point in the contents of the paper but from present indications there will be no lack of good material in this line. Several new names also appear as writers of short stories in the first issue and there seems to be every indication that there will be a lively competition for the various places on the board, all of which should assure a paper of very high literary standard and excellence.

Hulings Hall

Miss Florence Scott took dinner Thursday evening with Miss Edna Yost, '13.

Miss Ruth Ricker, '14, was the guest of Miss June Shires, '12, at dinner last Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Baker of Edinboro was the guest of Miss Mabel Baker, '15, Friday afternoon

Miss Thelma Weissenborn, '14, has recently moved from the home of a Meadville relative to Hulings Hall.

The Kappa Alpha Theta sorority entertained informally with a corn-roast at Oakwood Park, Thursday evening.

Miss Mabel Witherup, of Franklin, and Miss Adelaide Remler, '12, were guests at the Hall last Saturday evening.

Miss Bess Metcalf, '11, of Jamestown, N. Y., is at present visiting friends on the hill. She is teaching at East Randolph, N. Y.

Miss Ethel Gealy, '15, Miss Rose Platt, '15, Miss Janet Ellis, '15, and Miss Edith Askey, '15, spent Sunday at their homes in Oil City.

Miss Gay Kellog, '14, spent the week-end at her home in Titusville, where she attended the wedding of her aunt, Miss Sarah M. Farel.

After the score of the Hiram-Allegheny football game was announced last Saturday, the Hall girls had an enthusiastic college sing in the parlors as a celebration.

Miss Bess Emery, '11, called on friends at the Hall for a few hours Sunday afternoon, while enroute from her home in Mercer to Union City where she is teaching school.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Sowash, of Irwin, Pa., were the guests of their daughter, Miss Mary Sowash, '12, for several days during the past week, while enroute for the lakes in their Buick touring car.

GERMAN CLUB TO CONVENE MONDAY.

The first meeting of Die Deutsche Gesellschaft will be held in the club rooms in the library on Monday evening. The meeting will be in the nature of a re-organization for the coming year and plans for the work of the year will be discussed. A paper dealing with a current topic of German life will be read, after which refreshments will be served and the meeting thrown open for a congenial social time.

It is the plan of the executive committee of the club to make the meetings of this year different from those of past years. With this object in view they have made arrangements for the introduction of several new features, which should create a far greater interest in the work of the club and which should enable all really active members to derive some benefit from the meetings.

GREEN ETON CAPS FOR FRESHMEN.

In accordance with the ruling of the College Council a Senior committee, composed of Lore, Nichols and Lavely, was appointed to decide the form of headgear to be worn by the Freshmen this year. On Thursday this committee met and decided that the official cap for the men of the Freshman class shall be a green Eton cap. The young ladies of the class will be permitted to choose their own form of hats the final choice, however, being subject to the approval of the committee. The caps have already been ordered and should be ready for distribution in a short time.

1911 NOTICE.

The following notice has been received from John W. Barkley, presidden of the class of 1911, with the request that it be published:

The statement in a recent number of The Campus, that the entire amount the class promised toward the erection of the new athletic field gateway has been pledged, might lead those who have not yet responded to believe that their contribution is not needed. There is a small amount yet to be arranged for, and any pledges to cover this amount would be very much appreciated.

PREPARATION FOR KALDRON ELECTIONS.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Publications Association held during the past week, F. H. Callahan was elected secretary of the association. The matter of the election of the Kaldron Electoral Board was also discussed and the secretary instructed to attend to the arrangements for this election.

The subscription blanks which cost fifty cents and which apply on the price of a Kaldron as seventy-five cents have already been distributed. These will give the holder privilege of voting for the members of the Electoral Board which will have the final selection of the Kaldron Board and the Manager of this publication in its hands. The election will be held the last Saturday in October; and further notice of the methods used in choosing the Electoral Board will be made later. In the meantime all those who wish to vote for the members of this board and all those who expect to purchase a Kaldron at the end of the year will do well to procure one of the subscription blanks.

Thoughts and Afterthoughts

"College is an organized opportunity worth while only for those who wish to make it so."

—o—

There is a great deal of difference between knowing a man and knowing something about him.

—o—

It is a good thing to keep in mind while in college that it is often much easier to buck up against a rock than the world.

—o—

It is a very commendable thing, Freshman, to endeavor to make an end on the football team, but remember that this is not the only end for which one should work in school.

—o—

You can't make the world believe that you know more than other people by merely telling it that you are a college man or woman. The world generally seems to come from Missouri.

—o—

That Allegheny men are not close observers was evidenced in psychology class when not a hand was raised in answer to Dr. Cobern's query, "How many fellows know the color of their girls' eyes?"

—o—

Dr. Elliott recently observed in the class-room that the by-products of our lives are frequently of more permanent value than the immediate products. As an example, he cited the life of George Grote, who was by profession a banker and yet who is remembered chiefly for his famous history of Greece. A parallel example is that of Edmund Clarence Steadman, the distinguished critic and man of letters, who was professionally a broker and avocationally a writer.

LETTERS

MISS RACHEL COUSINS WRITES.

A very interesting letter was received recently from Miss Rachel Cousins, '06, who is doing missionary work in a girls' school in Concepcion, Chile. Some of the following extracts will be of general interest. She says, in speaking of her various experiences in the school:

"One night this week there sounded a merry rattling and screeching. I sprang out to my door and called, "Cada una en su puerta!" which being interpreted is: "Every one in your door way!" This is because the doorways are the safest parts of the Chilean buildings and are so strengthened by the casings and posts that they remain intact even after the walls fall. The girls came shivering and chattering in terror, but really showed very good self-control in obeying the order instead of running and screaming hysterically as they do in their homes. Self-control is one of the things we try to teach the girls and we are gratified to see it really exercised. For, of all things a Chilean is afraid of, the earthquake holds chief place. People who have experienced bad ones say that the uncanny feeling that accompanies the moving of the earth like water under one's feet, never is forgotten. In a very short time, however, we were all sleeping more soundly than before.

"It is not always a case of earthquakes keeping us awake. Friday night after lights were out I stepped to my door intending to go to another teacher's room when I heard a great scurrying in the room opposite. You should have seen the fantastic, ghostly figures gyrating about. Upon investigation, it proved that the girls were having a spirit-dance to punish the occupant of the room. The usual punishment for disturbances of this kind is silent meditation in a dark room down stairs; but as they were yet to be unished for stamping their feet in study hour that same night, this was postponed until a more convenient season.

"The Chileans are said to be among the most polite people on earth. It may be. At any rate the angle of their social bow most nearly approaches zero. However, with the greatest sweetness they will tell each other that they are the greatest liars on the face of the earth. And it may be because of the truth of the statement that it is received so amicably. They lie, not only to be pleasant and polite like a good American but they lie to amuse themselves and their hearers with the most wonderful fabrications. To convict a youngster of lying is merely to show her that she has done the thing clumsily and to serve as a warning for more discretion next time. They are taught to lie as a regular part of their native religious training.

"Next Friday begins the vacation for the celebration of Chilean independence which causes great excitement among the youngsters. Every imaginable thing is an excuse for some kind of an outbreak. A shingle might settle some of the trouble, but its use is prohibited; so the young miss is put in a lockup to meditate how she can be even more exasperating when she gets out.

"One thing sure, our work would go for nothing if God did not occasionally add a lesson for us all. I told you about the public prayer made for the old music teacher and his recovery and later about how one of the most bigoted Romanists asked us to pray for his small sister's recovery. This week we had another experience. The wind was blowing at a terrific rate. The weather was rather dry. The directora, Mrs. Arms, on an inspection uptsairs thought she smelled smoke but search showed nothing. Later a little daughter of one of the servants came dashing down from her mother's room saying that it was on fire. They went up and found that there had been fire enough in the loft to burn four or five holes through the ceiling of the room. The coals had fallen down upon the bed beneath but there was no fire when it was discovered. The dry timbers and boards were charred black and still warm, but the fire was out. There came a deluge of rain some time after we discovered how nearly we came to being without a roof. We imagine that a spark from some chimney was blown under the corrugated zinc roofing and there started a flame in the soot and dry wood. But fires so started and fanned by a high wind don't stop as a rule of themselves. We all agreed that surely the unseen hand of God had protected us while we were busy in our literary society."

DEATH OF AGED ALUMNUS.

News of the death of George W. Ready of the class of 1858 was received only recently although he died the middle of last July. Mr. Ready entered Allegheny in 1855, graduated in 1858 and received his Master's Degree in 1861. A few years later he received his L. L. D., Degree from the University of Michigan, and from that time on was interested in educational work. He was for a long time Principal of Schools at Painesville, O., and at the time of his death was connected with the schools in Altoona, Pa., where he died. He was always a loyal alumnus of his college, and his death deprives Allegheny of another honored son. He lacked only a month and six days of being seventy-five years of age.
