Dear Miss Worthington:

Your letter has followed me here where I am trying to pick up. I shall be in town by the middle of next week with strength enough to go to work I hope.

In the meantime I am asking my secretary to send you a copy of the script I prepared for the Lincoln Birthday talk. It is quite as pertinent now as then - perhaps more so. What do you think?

I hope you didn't mind the use I made of my experience in the Magazine of the Air, in the New Yorker. I have never liked the casual way many take broadcasting. I am certain there is a technique to be worked out. I don't see it done satisfactorily yet by many.

Sincerely yours
