July 11th, 1912.

My dear Elliott:

I spoke to Miss Tarbell about your scrubbing school. I think she will use it in one of her articles, after a while. It seems to me that that would be the best way to start it. Afterward a newspaper article could come along and add to the local impression.

I wish that I might have a chance to talk over your undertaking. I shall probably call you up before long. Just now I am in and out of town and it is a little difficult for me to command my time here.

It was a real pleasure to see you the other day at lunch.

Faithfully yours,

Mr. John Elliott,
