VOL. XVII. NO. 1. ALLEGHENY COLLEGE, MEADVILLE, PA., SEPTEMBER 25, 1900. NEW SERIES.

OPENING OF COLLEGE.

Prospects for a Successful Year—The New Physical Director — The Advisory System.

Allegheny College enters upon her eighty-sixth year under the most favorable circumstances. The outlook for a prosperous year was never brighter, not excepting the year that has just become a part of the history of the old institution. Students commenced to come as early as Saturday and have been streaming in ever since. On the morning of the opening day, Tuesday, September 18, the offices in Bentley Hall were filled with a crowd of students, some with the marks of previous service, others with eager and anxious faces which told in themselves that all was not familiar. Their spirits were not dampened by the drizzling rain that had from time to time been falling during the week, for they had come for business. All mingled together in registering, helping each other, until a stranger could scarcely have distinguished any difference between them. The registration has not been entirely completed yet, but enough has been done to insure an increase in the attendance over that of last year by [illegible] President Crawford has done, notwithstanding the fact that his work during the summer was retarded by sickness.

Our students have come from the best high schools and academies in this section of the country, and are thoroughly prepared to take up the work to which they have been assigned. Hulings Hall is again filled, about forty-five girls having engaged rooms there.

It is reported authoritatively that fewer old students have left Allegheny for other colleges and universities this year than usual. And to compensate for this even small loss, at least as many have registered here from other colleges. In the new list are students from the University of Pennsylvania, University of Michigan, Ohio Wesleyan University, Oberlin, Marietta College and Grove City College. This surely does not indicate that Allegheny is on the decline.

The faculty will be very nearly the same as that of last year. Only one change has been made, that being the physical director. Mr. Frank J. Borne, of Yale University, has been elected to this position; he comes very highly recommended and will have exclusive control of all gymnasium work. Mr. Borne will also have charge of the athletic teams and in this connection will work in co-operation with the special coaches who may, from time to time, be secured. All other departments in the college are competently filled by the same corps of professors.

The courses of study as revised two years ago are still in effect. But there is one new feature, Allegheny College has adopted what is known as the "adviser system." One of the delightful features of our college is that professors and students have always maintained intimate relations, but by the new plan the relations will be even more intimate and helpful. Each student selects a professor from the faculty who is to be his "adviser" for the year. He will have in this professor a friend to whom he can go at any time for suggestions, or advice as to course of study, elective work, health, religious life, social life, choice of profession—anything, in fact, that pertains to the life of a student. The size of the faculty is such that no professor will have more than twenty or twenty-five students on his list at any one time. The system has accomplished most excellent results in some of the Eastern colleges and universities. It has recently been adopted at Princeton. It is believed that it will be successful at "old Allegheny."

During the summer all the college buildings have gone through a course of repairs. Ruter Hall has been greatly improved in its external appearance by the work of Meadville artists. The parlors in Hulings Hall have been thrown together and are now open with the main halls of that building by the removal of all the doors. The spaciousness of these charming rooms, where so many pleasant hours have been spent, presents even a more welcome appearance than heretofore. In fact, every part of the campus extends a welcome.

At the last meeting of the Allegheny college trustees a committee was appointed to look over the college campus with a view to revising the forestry. This committee, Harvey Henderson, Esq., of Pittsburg, and Frank P. Ray, of this city, went over the ground. Both have devoted much time to the study of forestry and are considered competent authority on such matters, particularly Mr. Henderson, who has a state reputation in forestry. The gentlemen found that about 50 trees must come out and several must be planted.

Many of the trees there were planted without regard to adaptability, variety or proper shade. They are in bunches and some on land where they will never amount to anything. The tall scraggy trees with dead limbs are to be cut out and quite a few where they are too thick. Too many evergreens are on the grounds, at least a half too many. Some of the firs and white pines are splendid specimens. The work of cutting down the condemned trees will begin soon and perhaps quite a few new trees will be planted this fall. They will be of a kind and planted with some regard for the future. There is not an alian thus on the campus. One or more of these will be planted and the intention is to make several flower beds for large flowering plants to give color to the grounds.

Both gentlemen believe that the grounds can be greatly beautified at a moderate cost and if recommendations are carried out the effect will no doubt be a great improvement over existing conditions.

At the first chapel exercise at 3:00 p. m. Tuesday, Dr. Crawford welcomed the students, both old and new, by a short talk in which he gave some good, plain advice. This may be summed up under three heads. First, get a good understanding of what is to be done; secondly, find the best methods of doing it; thirdly, have a strong motive to do the best work.

NEW PHYSICAL DIRECTOR.

Frank J. Borne Has Secured the Position.

Professor Frank J. Borne, the new physical director of the college, is a graduate of Yale and was a member of the class of '98 of that institution. Previous to his entry at Yale he attended Berkley Academy at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and graduated with the class of '94. Professor Borne pursued a classical course while at Yale and soon distinguished himself as a student, taking four-year honors in all studies. During his Junior and Senior year he assisted Dr. Anderson in the gymnasium, and it was at this time that he laid the foundation for his future work in gymnastics.

Prof. Borne's athletic work at college was confined mostly to the gymnasium. He ran in the 100 yard dash at the annual Yale field meet in '98 and played first base on the appointment teams in base ball throughout his college course.

In the spring of '98 Prof. Borne joined Battery B Light Artillery and was on his way to Porto Rico when peace was declared. After leaving his regiment he accepted the Physical Directorship of the Mt. Vernon Y. M. C. A. and had charge of their gymnasium until the fall of '99, when he went to The Tome Institute of Maryland, the largest academy in the state. Prof. Borne, while here, had charge of all branches of athletics, including foot-ball, base ball and basket ball, as well as the regular gymnasium work.

This summer Prof. Borne again studied under Dr. Anderson, this time at Chautauqua, where he completed the regular athletic course of instruction, which includes training in field and track work, foot-ball, base ball and gymnastics. He also took a special course of studies in medicine which will render him invaluable as a trainer to our athletic teams.

The method of training to be pursued at Allegheny this year will be known as the Corrective Method. It consists of special work for each student, the work selected being such that it will remedy all imperfections and develop all under developed organs and muscles, and rest the overworked ones. Special attention will be given to Swedish gymnastics, the only perfect system of physical culture in use to-day. The Swedish method requires no apparatus and resembles calisthentics in many respects. A system known as the Day's Order is followed which includes movements that effect every muscle in the body It contains postures and movements selected according to the condition and need of each organism of the body for the purpose of placing it under the control of the will. To the Swedish method Prof. Borne will add the American and German systems of training which includes all kinds of apparatus and trick work. The college is to be congratulated in being able to secure such an able man as Prof. Borne for its physical director, and the CAMPUS joins its friends in wishing Prof. Borne success in his new position.

How the Students Were Cared For.

One of the most pleasing features of the college opening was the manner in which the new students were received. As soon as a new man stepped from the train he was met by a half-dozen or more college boys, and while one inquired for the folks at home and commented upon the weather, another checked his baggage and a third explained the advantages and disadvantages of living on Park avenue or Main street. And before the new man had time to answer his first question he was hustled to his room and left to think it over alone. But not for long, for the "boarding club committee" and the "class work committee" insisted upon hustling the poor "freshie" through all his preparatory work of registering before he changed his neck tie, and when he was finally told that he was ready for business he was in almost a state of physical exhaustion.

The Y. M. C. A. was responsible for this state of affairs and they are to be congratulated for the way their work was done. President Herbert Morris led the campaign and was ably assisted by his committeemen. During the summer circular letters were sent to every student whose address could be obtained, in which various instruction, were given concerning the college; college colors as well as the Students' Manual were sent to all who expressed a desire to come to Allegheny. Jay Squier had this work in charge and with his committee he did much to lessen the worry and anxiety of many students.

At the station each train was met by a committee, under the leadership of H. G. Harris, and as the new men came upon the platform they were greeted by the Y. M. C. A. boys, who helped them to secure rooms and places to board. Many were assisted in registering and in this way the hardest part of the college opening was greatly lightened.

It is the purpose of the Y. M. C. A. to continue their good work, and during the next few weeks they will endeavor to bring the new men into closer contact with college life. This will be affected by visiting the new men and by the Monday evening reception and the Saturday evening meetings.

The Conservatory.

The fall term of the Pennsylvania College of Music opened with an increased attendance. It continues to occupy the Chautauquan building, and under the management of Miss Mary T. Graham and Miss Elizabeth Tyler enters upon another successful year. Prof. Oscar Franklin Comstock is the director. One addition has been made to the faculty. The department of instruction in voice is strengthened by Miss Mary Edythe Allen who is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, and who was a pupil of William Whitney and Senior Parlogiorza. Everything has been carried on in such a business like manner and the courses have been given such careful and thorough attention that it has established for itself a reputation which is certainly enviable.

The old Conservatory building is again being used as a faculty home.

With this number, THE CAMPUS enters upon its career for the college year of 1900-1901. Its foundation for a successful year has been firmly established by the able and co-operative work of last year's board. It had previously been run on a semi-occasion plan and had been gradually losing its reputation and patronage; so that it was decided last year to give it a thorough trial as a weekly publication. This has met the approval and support of nearly all, because they know that they will get their money's worth and also when they will get it.

The success which attended this new departure has given us a good excuse to continue. Many concerns fall into ruts in their manner of serving the public and we are probably doing likewise, but we hope that we have fallen into the right rut. If so, we shall be in no hurry to turn out; we shall keep in the middle of the road.

THE CAMPUS will appear during the entire college year as a weekly newspaper. We shall endeavor to hold to this rule and not relax into indifference. Items of news will always be of recent occurrence so that they will be of immediate interest. For it is a well known fact that one reads with more interest the account of a foot-ball game, played within the past few days than of one which took place two or three weeks ago. College concerns are always looked upon as being up-to-date, so why should this be any exception. We shall exert ourselves to gather the crops early, then our readers can have the privilege of devouring it at their pleasure.

The purpose is to keep our patrons well informed in regard to the events which are daily taking place in their midst, whether athletic, social or religious; each will be given its proper attention. Again, most broad-minded college men wish to know what is going on in the college world, outside of his own institution. To these will be furnished such as is deemed most interesting in every branch. This tendency toward a broader view of college life is in itself productive of strong college spirit.

In all representative colleges are found two classes of publications, whose fields of work are entirely separate. They are the literary magazine and the college newspaper. Each has its place in Allegheny and each is now pursuing a very successful career. The CAMPUS has taken its place in the ranks of the latter class and will endeavor to keep within its own bounds, not encroaching upon its neighbor's territory. The aim of this publication, then, will be to chronicle facts from our everyday life.

In order to carry out these plans, we need your generous support. We ask each of you to place your name and address on our list of regular subscribers. Your interest should be strong in making this paper all that it should be, a representative of Allegheny of which we may all be proud. Let no item of news remain unknown. We want to know everything concerning the college, its professors, its alumni and its students. Take this duty to yourself and perform it.

All our efforts will be spent in bringing Allegheny more and more before the public and in proving that she is the thriving institution of the section. The new board now take up their work and extend to the readers of the CAMPUS a hearty welcome and greeting for the new year.

Athletics.

The beginning of the second week of the term finds the foot-ball team hard at work, rapidly getting into condition for the hard schedule of games. Owing to the failure of Coach Wheylan to report it was necessary for Capt. Frazier to take charge of the men, and after the first two days the candidates have been put through hard work under his leadership. The day's work consists of tackling, punting, falling on the ball, and practicing for the starts. After half an hour of this the players are divided into squads and end runs and line bucks are practiced, a short run concludes the day's schedule.

The outlook is much brighter than at first anticipated. Five instead of three of last year's men are in college beside the majority of the "scrub" team. The incoming class brought a larger per cent. of good material than usual and from the twenty-six men that have reported, but little trouble should be experienced in selecting a good team. Of last year's regulars, Frazier, Wolstoncroft, Selkegg Douglass and Taylor are in school besides Williams and Young, who both played a number of games. Of these seven men, four are line men and three are backs, Of the new men the following have made the best showing in practice: At half back, Saunders, who played against Allegheny last year, has had a number of year's experience at that position. He is a fast runner and has impressed the players favorably. He first played for Aurora High School (Ill.) and last year was Union City's star back.

Drumm, at quarter, is quick and active, and besides handling the ball well, has the ability of getting into every play. Last year Drumm played quarter and end on the California Normal team, the best Normal team in the state.

The only candidate for end among the new men is Pentz, of Williamsport. At Williamsport Pentz played half on the Dickson Seminary team, but owing to his weight he will try for end on the college team. A sure tackler and a fast runner are the qualities which recommend Pentz for the position.

On the line, Campbell, Byer and Stockton are the most likely candidates. Baer is a candidate for guard, and although weighing over two hundred he is a very active player. Campbell, at tackle, is the most promising player at the position. He weighs 175 pounds and played the position of guard on Warren High School team last year.

Stockton, of last year's Meadville High School team, is strong and heavy and has played good form in practice. Besides these men a number of last year's "scrub" team might be mentioned. Among these are Elder, Gleason, McCartney, Kelley, EnDean, Beveridge and Chamberlain. All of these men are showing up well in practice and a number of them will be found in the regular line-up.

A word at this time concerning Capt. Frazier would not be out of place. Frazier first played foot-ball on his High School team at Amsterdam, N. Y., where he distinguished himself by his wonderful playing. Half back has always been his position but upon entering Allegheny in the fall of '98 it was decided to try him at full back. His punting and wonderful line bucking recommend him for the position, and Coach Smallwood showed his good judgment in playing him at that place. His playing took the crowd from the first and since playing his first game he has been a fixture on the team. During the season of '98 Frazier alternated at half and full, his preference being for half back. It the first game last year "Bill" had his shoulder dislocated and was forced to be out of the game for several weeks. It was not until his return that the team struck its "gait" and finished in championship form. No one that saw last year's games will ever forget the wonderful line bucking done by Frazier in the games with Thiel and Westminster. Time and time again he took the ball for gains of ten and fifteen yards at a buck, and when a gain was needed, in was inviarably Bill that was called upon to make it.

In speaking of the prospects of this year's team, Capt. Frazier said: "I am well pleased with the chances for 1900. The new men in particular are showing up well, and with last year's men for a nucleus, I feel confident that Allegheny will have a winning team. However, nothing can be done without coaching and I believe the success or the failure of the team is now up to Coach Heckel."

MASS MEETING.

One Hundred and Forty Dollars Raised in About a Quarter of an Hour.

It is an old saw that says "you cannot get blood from a stone;" so old in fact that it dates beyond the days of Methodism and the Wesley brothers. It has been diproved many times, almost every time that a church has been dedicated, yet no better proof of its fallacy can be given than the Saturday mass meeting in chapel. One hundred and fifty dollars in seventeen minutes is a record that cannot be equaled by another trio in the country, other than those three staunch Methodist brothers, Brown, Bird and Travis.

R. E. Brown called the meeting to order, and after stating its object he explained the manner in which funds are raised in other colleges, in many places a certain sum is required of each student and this must be paid along with the matriculation fee. After showing the need of cooperation of the students, Chairman Brown called on various members of the student body for remarks.

Herbert Taylor was the first called. He spoke of the need of "college spirit" and what it enables a team to accomplish while on the field. Hatch, the manager of last year's team spoke of the trials of a manager and the need of student co-operation in creating a successful team. He recommended the students to buy an interest in the team by giving it financial aid.

Royce spoke of the success of last year's team and the possibilities for 1900. He gave as three requisites of a winning team; playing material, enthusiasm and financial support.

The enthusiasm had been gradually increasing and when Travis rose to speak there was an old time show of college spirit which might be taken as a forecast of what the coming year has in store for Allegheny. Travis began his remarks in a characteristic way by saying, "Four years ago there was a red-headed fellow who came here to coach and that's the first time there was ever a coach in Allegheny." Then followed a description of coaches of the next four years and the "wonderful" good they had done for the teams. He described the '98 coach as "a great big burly fellow from Syracuse who played foot-ball and taught biology." Judging by the applause that followed this description, the majority must have known to whom Travis referred. As he neared the time limit he seemed to forget the nature of his audience for his closing remarks were, "Yes, my brethern, the benefits of a coach are exceedingly great, and we are going to have one if we've got to pawn the college records to hire him."

Bird's remarks were directed at the new students and in a good old West Virginia manner he told the "Freshies" what could be gained by helping along the cause. In closing he said, "You cannot enjoy the game unless you have an interest in it, and there is no better way of obtaining an interest than by investing your money. The more money invested the more enthusiasm you will have, and your 'rooting' and 'yelling' will be determined by your enthusiasm. Every dollar invested will be an escape valve for college spirit."

Brown's past experience as a preacher told him that this was the time for passing the hat and papers were at once circulated through the various classes. Dollar subscriptions were called for, but the students did not confine themselves to these, as a number of two and three dollar subscriptions were given. At the suggestion of Manager Griffith, $5 offers were called for.

For a long time there was no response, but E. E. Soult, class of '90, finally started the ball rolling by offering $5 if four others would contribute a like sum. Donald Fuller at once arose and was soon followed by Worner, '00. "Two alumnae and but one student, keep up the record of the undergraduates," cried Brown, and to prove the old saying that there is as good fish in the sea, etc., etc., Frank Howard modestly raised his hand and the money was within five dollars of being raised. The meeting was now thoroughly aroused and every one seemed to be mentally calculating the amount that could be spared from his own money and wondering who would be the next to enter the honor list. But no one volunteered. "Will your offer hold good if the sum is secured a number of the students?" But Soult shook his head while the anxiety was visibly increased. "We have already taken more time than was allowed us, and if the sum is not made up ——," but no one will ever know what would have happened, for Brown's words were drowned in an ear-splitting "Alleghe! Alleghe! Rah, boom! Alleghe! The day had been saved and it remained for the Prep school to furnish the man who had completed the sum. Roy Rist was the last one of the five and his "Prep's Mite" completed the twenty-five dollars asked for by Mr. Soult.

When the class papers were collected and counted it was found that over $140 had been raised. The "Preps" contributed the most, $33.50, closely followed by the Freshmen with $28.25. This is the largest sum ever raised by the students for athletics.

Bradley Portrait.

At the last meeting of the Board of Trustees, the portrait of the late Alexander Bradley was presented to the college by his daughter, Mrs. P. D. Purcham, and it now adorns the front wall of the chapel. Mr. Joseph Horner made the formal presentation speech. Alexander Bradley had been a member of the Board of Trustees for more than twenty-years and was president of that board at the time of his death. He had always been a staunch friend and loyal supporter of Allegheny.

Mr. Durbin Horne has been elected to succeed him as president.

What do you think of the new bunch? The freshest, the greenest and the seediest that ever left the farm.
