FLORENCE E. ALLEN

September 22, 1930.

Miss Ida Tarbell,
New York City.

Dear Miss Tarbell:

I was certainly astonished and pleased more than I could possibly tell you to know that you had included me in the list compiled by you of the prominent women of this country. In political life there is so much unthinking praise and unfounded condemnation that it always means a great deal to have the interest and sympathy of the few who, like yourself, really study current history. I have long ago ceased to care for newspaper publicity, but when I saw my name in the paper, with your approbation, I felt quite young again.

With best wishes to yourself always,

Cordially yours,

Florence E. Allen
