Miss Ida Tarbell,
120 E. 19th St.,
New York.

Dear Miss Tarbell:

Subject to your consent, I have sold the article on prohibition for two thousand dollars ($2000.). I went down and talked to Graeve. He told me that the article was only to be a short one and he hadn't thought of paying more than fifteen hundred for it. I told him that you had done better than that and that we couldn't let it go for that. He said he would speak to Moore but he didn't believe he could rise. Finally he has agreed to pay two thousand dollars ($2000.) and I have accepted that, subject to your consent.

They want the article by March 1st, which he said you understood, and he would appreciate it if you could let him have the title as soon as possible.

I tried to get you on the telephone but failed to find you.

Yours sincerely,

Paul R. Reynolds.
