New York, May 20, 1918.

Mrs. W. R. Lighton,
Fayetteville,
Arkansas.

Dear Mrs. Lighton;

Here I am again slow in answering you. I have only just come back from three weeks in Washington.

I think that what you will have to do is to set out on a systematic campaign to find the thing you want. I am enclosing a little pamphlet which will give you some idea of the different kinds of work that the Government is offering to women. By corresponding you ought to be able to find out what the openings are in any one of those which seems possible to you.

I am not sure that there are many positions abroad now that carry salaries with them. You will note this under the canteen workers. If you were to decide to follow up any one of several of the lines in the little pamphlet and you want letters from me, of course I shall be too glad. After looking this over let me know how you feel. Of course if I hear of any special thing I will let you know.

Faithfully yours,

E.C.
