My dear

How are you today? Wish I could see you. Esther arrived last evening after a tedious journey and a stay in Corry from 8 P.M. till 7.10 She reached here at 4.35 all tired out. Went to her room and to bed. She is resting to-day. It is lovely here, now: after the long rain. The air is so soft and pure. Things are running all right here. 4 new guests came last night. I do not know who or where from. The boarders are still here here moved into rooms in the house. Esther saw Angie. She told

Esther she had had five attacks of Nervous Prostration in two years She will do her own work - and I wonder if it is not Temper provokation I think I know her - Esther says she has had a lovely time but is all tired out. Not physically but nervously and is glad to rest. She has just started out to walk up to the Iron Springs for a constitutional before dinner.
I was down to the house yesterday for a few minutes things are all right there. I enclose a letter from Mrs Barrett wish you would answer it. I have sent, or will tomorrow, the check to Mr Barrett Her letter reached me to late for the mail Saturday. If I ever see her again I shall emphatically deny that Mrs Hile was responsible for the break in the seat of the Toilet. That is all nonsense.
I think she would like to buy the rooms, but she would not like pay any thing for them.
Her motto is "Some thing for nothing."
I don't approve - do you?
Mrs Merrick was here last evening at dinner with Mrs Reilly. The Templis are staying at the Isle of Wite by the strikes. Will not be home till next week. Mrs Barber is much better. The neighbors are all well. I don't think the Booths ~~are~~ ~~to home~~ are at home yet.

Things are as usual in town.
How are Jokey — Nothing doing — I wonder if a bomb would get up life enough to explode in P — This great amusement there is riding on the Trolley, hearing Jic Jic, and abusing Fieldmole. The latter especially — I don't know how long Esther will stay she has written to Will about it. — Would like to stay and go home with him. She has the room that Sara had. I have about run out of things to write so will say good bye for now

Lovingly Mother

P.S. Esther sends love to you both
