Dear Miss Tarbell:

Under separate cover, we are today sending you a copy of the first edition of PEOPLE AT WORK by the Honorable Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor of the United States. We feel that this is a book of the greatest importance, telling as it does, the story of the slow upbuilding of protection for working people. It is told not out of documents, but out of Miss Perkins' personal experience and observation.

I am aware of the many demands made upon your time, but am hopeful that you will have an opportunity to read Miss Perkins' book. If you care to make comment of any sort, I assure you we shall be very grateful.

Very truly yours,

Miss Ida M. Tarbell
