Miss Ida Tarbell,
132 East 19th Street,
New York.

Dear Miss Tarbell:

I have been hoping every time I have been at the Cosmopolitan Club or the Colony Club that I might run into you. I heard from Bert Boyden just before he sailed that you were out west. It seems so long since those days in Paris that one almost feels as if it were a previous existence. We, you know, did not get back until almost the first of the year 1920.

Now for a request. Do you feel that you know Mrs. Coffin Van Rensselaer well enough to write a letter for her at the Cosmopolitan Club? I put her up before I went away, and was very much disappointed to find on my return that she had not been elected. Of course I wish she were a member from every standpoint; first for my own sake because she is one of my dearest friends, and second because I feel that it would be a great addition to the club to have her among its membership.

Hoping to see you soon, and that all has gone well with you, I am

Affectionately yours,

Mabel Dean Bacon

(MRS. ROGERS H. BACON)
