My dear Miss Tarbell.

I received your letter this evening & was heartily glad of it as no time could be more opportune than now for a matter which I believe in the common interest of all will particularly interest you. — I did very much wish you might visit me here — which would include a rest by the sea — it is a charming restful place — but as it is not feasable I will make an effort to go to the city early next week especially to confer with you — I believe our acquaintance will prove both pleasant & profitable. with kindest wishes Very sincerely yours
