Dear Miss Walker:

I was much touched by your note. I felt more than usually awkward in speaking to your group - ~~just~~ a gallant group they ~~seemed~~ to me. Having something I am realizing very substantial to offer me in my hard of hearing problem. I have not reached the point where I feel the need of equipping myself for lip reading but I realize that I may and if I do I shall be looking you up. It is kind of you to offer your services. I am sure with your long experience that I should find real delight in your leadership. It is a fine art which I think I have appreciated ever since I watched Mrs. Bell years ago in Washington.

Thank you for your letter, dear Miss Walker. Some of these days I may be coming up to talk with you even if not to take lessons. I am inclined to follow up the nature of the handicaps of the hard of hearing - the problems that follow it and the practical means that have been developed to solve them. I cannot do this just now because of work I have on hand.

With all good wishes

believe me

Cordially yours
