GREENLEAF HOUSE
76 BRATTLE STREET
CAMBRIDGE

Dear Miss Tarbell

How good you were to write to me! I am glad that you thought the speech served its turn. It should have been better than it was. For as I confessed it your article lay on the desk beside me and gave me my cue. We all owe you our thanks for a statement of our case which for friendliness, reasonableness, and convincingness can't be beaten. It ought to do much good.

I think with pleasure of your visit to Cambridge — I hope you will come again.
You will let me know, won't you, if there is a chance of your coming, and you will remember that the Radcliffe guest room is always at your service?

Yours most sincerely
Ida Tarbell
