Sixteen Seniors Named In College “Who’s Who”

Sixteen Allegheny seniors have been named to Who’s Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. These students have been chosen for inclusion in this national publication on the basis of 1. excellence and sincerity in scholarship, 2. leadership and participation in academic and extra-curricular activities, 3. citizenship and service to campus and community, 4. promise of future usefulness to business and society.

Bruce Africa, chairman of the Honor Committee, has been active in Allegheny politics, serving as president of his sophomore class. ASG representative, and member of several ASG committees. A member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. A present judge on the Honor Committee, has served on the Honor Committee for three years. He was recently elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Singrs Present Christmas Concert

The 5th annual Christmas Concert of the Allegheny Singers and Chapel Choir will be presented in Ford Memorial Chapel on Sunday and Monday (Dec. 2 & 3).

In addition to Christmas anthems and carols by the two choirs, Professor Robert B. Lynn, College Organist, will play Christmas organ selections.

The Christmas Story according to St. Luke will be read by College Chaplain, Charles B. Ketcham. The traditional Christmas Cantata and processional will be conducted by the Allegheny Chapter of Gowns.

The Concert will be presented three times — Sunday at 4:30 and 7:30; and Monday at 8:15. The first presentation is for toward students and parents of students; the third will be open to all.

Tickets will go on sale this week end at Wirt’s Drug Store in the Student Union. Students wishing to secure tickets for their parents may do so by contacting any member of the Singers or the Chapel Choir, or Dr. Levayus or Mr. North. College students will be admitted on presentation of their I. D. cards Sunday evening or Monday evening.

One member asked whether the rest of keeping the library open longer might discourage Mr. Benjamin from seriously considering the possibility of additional hours. Jebb also believed that Sophocles was above all concerned with the theme of matricide. Jebb also believed that Sophocles was above all concerned with the theme of matricide.

Kitto Expounds on Concept Of Justice in Greek Tragedy

By Ron Tranquilla

The Greek concept of “divine justice” is a difficult one for modern scholars to understand because of the obstacles of translation, according to H. D. F. Kitto, distinguished classicist and author of Form and Meaning in Drama and The Greeks, who spoke to a large audience Tuesday evening in Ford Chapel, under the sponsorship of Phi Beta Kappa.

“Divine” and “justice” are only approximations, and not very good ones of the Greek words thes and dikaios, Kitto said. “Greek words usually mean something different,” he said, “and this may indeed be a real obstacle to us.”

Kitto said that the only close translation of them is “God,” but the Greek thes was never eternal, since it came into being in Time, or was it remote, for the Greek gods made themselves known in the world. “We think of the gods as representative of what ought to be,” he said, “but to the Greeks, the gods represented what it is.”

The word “justice” is also misleading. The Greek dikaios, he said, means “the regular way or path of things,” the way things happen.

This difficulty of translation has led to a misunderstanding of “divine justice.” Kitto cited R. C. Jebb, prominent nineteenth century classicist, who pointed out the difficulty of translating the Greek word dikaios, which means “the right way or path of things.”

According to Kitto, Jebb believed that in Aeschylus’ version of the Orestes myth, the ultimate reconciliation, but Sophocles, in his Electra, does not hint at Orestes being punished for his crime of matricide. Jebb also believed that Sophocles was above all a playwright, and not a poet or dramatist, and no concern for the future.
A Campus Church At Allegheny

Discussing the possibility of forming a student congregation or a campus church at Allegheny College, the Reverend Clifford J. Swanson, Pastor of the St. Olaf College student congregation, addressed his college’s chapel audience that “No Christian, much less a Christian organization, has ever succeeded in preserving spiritual vitality where he feels like giving himself or himself all the way.”

In preaching on the significance of the church, Pastor Swanson supported his doctrine that the campus church would be one body in Christ and that the people are the Church.

The Campus agrees with Pastor Swanson that a college community needs a church, a church with a mission. Here Allegheny, our Chapel services offer students and faculty as an excellent opportunity to worship on Sunday and Wednesday mornings, with additional special worship services. But this is as far as it goes. A college church composed of a student congregation, in which the students would take over certain authority in the area of worship now centralized in the hands of the chaplains, has been proposed to fill the need of a community church.

Discussion among Allegheny Students revolves around the willingness of the students to take on the responsibility and work of a campus church. A large bureaucratic organization is not needed for the success of a campus church. Success is not measured by size or numbers. The Question is, then, Does Allegheny College want a campus church?

About New Plan
The Air Force is optimistic that its new Officer Education Program (OFP), sponsored by the National Defense Act of 1946, requires further consideration of candidates for commissions in the United States Air Force. The OFP program, which has been under consideration for nearly 65% of all college students, will be available in junior colleges. Under the Air Force's proposed program, all male students who are interested in a career as fighter pilots will be able to complete their training at one of the four Air Force bases.

The Defense Act of 1946 requires that the OFP program be carried out for four years, this requirement being satisfied by the fifteen-year period in which a candidate may be considered for a commission in the United States Air Force.

The Air Force expects the school's decision to continue the OFP program to be made by the board of directors, after which the students will have an opportunity to apply for commissions in the United States Air Force.

Thanksgiving
At Allegheny

The first Thanksgiving on campus under the new three term system saw many varied activities and a most active social calendar. All events were coordinated by the ASG Student Activities Committee, which is headed by Rick Weiner.

A CHAPEL SERVICE Thanksgiving morning conducted by Chaplains Charles Ketcham and Richard Devor, with selections by the Chapel Choir and the Singers, was attended by 500 students.

Thanksgiving At Allegheny

THE LETTERMEN CONCERT Wednesday night brought an estimated 2500 students and townspeople to the David Mead Field House.

BASKETBALL in the Field House Tuesday night saw Phi Gamma Delta meet defeat by the Texas Cowgirls in a hard-fought game for the benefit of the Phi Gams' annual Fund Drive project.

FOOTBALL Thursday afternoon saw the Phi Gams defeated again by girls, this time eight to six by the Kappa Kappa Gammas.

Saturday night at the “Bullfight.” Originally an off-Broadway effort, the show has been altered by Leslie Stevens’ first professionally produced play — dealt with Domingo, a poorly developed personification of evil, and the situation that surrounds him. This shallow treatment, or should I say lack of treatment, resulted in a painfully abbreviated and superficial look at life: the melodrama “Bullfight.”

As a character, Domingo, enacted by Frederick Keeling, had no redeeming or enabling grace. He was evil, crude and snobbish, lacking love, subtlety, violent and yet a coward, “down at the bottom with the dirt.” In short, Domingo was hackneyed. There was no motivation behind any of the characters’ actions or only the younger brother, Estaban (Arthur Shop), shows the slightest hint of development.

Essentially a credulous child in love with life, only Estaban really understands how briefly encounters conflict in the last few seconds of the performance. He is the most human, the most sympathetic character in the play. His brief moments on the stage were moving, soul-touching, and the young man, Estaban (Jesuina Thergesen), were perhaps some of the finest moments in the entire offering. They smacked of boyish vitality, living real joy, tenderness, and ‘believability.’

There is a question, however, as to whether this action was on Mr.
Skoy’s part or a natural extension into the Playshop stage of the Alge-gheny student, Mr. Skoy, being himself. For those looking for a new

Concert, Twisting Spark Weekend
Activities will not be lacking on campus this weekend.

Friday night the King’s Men will be shown in Hen- derson Auditorium at 8 p.m. From 4:30 to 5:30 P.M. Kappa Psi, Phi Xi Delta and Kapka Kappa Gamma will sponsor an informal dance in the CU.

Saturday events include the Philo-Fraternity basketball opening at 9 a.m. and lasting the remainder of the day.

The PAC swimming relays will be at Case, and there will be a basketball game with Bethany in the David Mill Field House at 5 p.m. Also on Saturday a smorgas- bord will be served in the CU from 3:30 to 7 p.m.

Sunday afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30 P.M. Kappa Psi will hold a tea for the Singers at the chapter house. At 4:30 Sunday afternoon and again at 7:30 Sunday night Allegheny Singers will present their annual Christmas concert at Ford Chapel. The film “All At Sea” at the Play- shop at 8 p.m. will end the day’s events.

Monday at 7:30 the Singers will repeat their concert in the Chapel.

Independents Organize
Coordinating Committee
A coordinating committee for Independent students at Allegheny was formed Monday night at a meeting in the President’s Athletic Conference, Independent Council, an informal meeting's offices and studios were do- ne, three wall clocks for the sta- tion's offices and studios were don- ated by the Gators. The Gators of Allegheny ac- cumulated their ten points by finish- ing fourth in cross-country, fifth in football, third in basketball and second in the season. The most successful of the fall teams was the cross country team which compiled a 7-2 record during the regular season and finished fourth in the PAC championship meet, be- hind Wayne, Bethany and Thiel respectively. The current PAC standings are:

Six-foot, 5-inch John Odde leads the relatively short Gator squad in height. Odde, along with Spencer, Katz, Marquis and Kachelriess make up Mr. Garbark’s probable starting lineup. Willet has been ill recently, but will see action in later competitions.

A disappointing 3-15 record of last year will probably be bettered this year. According to Garbark, the team has shown much improvement this year, so has al- ready put in more work by another team in the con- ference.

Fall Sports Yield to Start of Winter Seasons

Gators Take PAC Third

With the conclusion of the fall sports in the President’s Athletic Conference, Allegheny enjoyed a third place position in the overall team standings, four points behind the leader, Bethany. However, a difference of four points separates last place from second record, an indication of extremely close competition.

The Gators of Allegheny ac- cumulated their ten points by finish- ing fourth in cross-country, fifth in football, third in basketball and second in the season. The most successful of the fall teams was the cross country team which compiled a 7-2 record during the regular season and finished fourth in the PAC championship meet, be- hind Wayne, Bethany and Thiel respectively.
