Dear Mr. Gibson:

I am glad enough to inscribe your copy of "All in the Day's Work". You did a fine job of editing, rescuing me from all sorts of over-sights. Nobody knows better than I what a careless writer I am - lest it be you.

I am pleased that you like the book and want to keep it in your library.

I am glad, too, that you are going to ask Mr. Phillips to sign it. He has been my chief editorial advisor for close to forty five years. There is nobody on whose judgment that I rely in writing matters as on his, which I tried to make clear in this book.

Thanking you again for your editing of my manscript, believe me

Very sincerely yours

Mr. George H. Gibson
