My dear friend,

I cannot tell you how much my sister and I enjoyed meeting you here. - It will be a charming memory until we meet again.

I am hoping that you have received all the photos which were promised Mr. Lee sent to some of the Tampa shipping. - I went down to Sarasota and told them to send you all data and pictures from there, the former up to the minute. - and the picture of the Bridge and old man Gordy was sent you day before yesterday by Mr. Heaton, Publicity Chairman of of the Board of Trade. Now if there is anything else you would like to have, or have forgotten, let me know. Let me know if your friends the Burtons are coming this way, Sarasota wants to show them something and so does Tampa and Clearwater. — If the pictures have not come from Clearwater, let me know. I was sorry that it was too cold for the alligators up the Anclote, the day we went to Tarpon. —

Don't you like the way Florida is "sitting tight" on the slowing up situation? — Not an increase has been reduced, — with the result that sales are already beginning to look up again. — But I hope the fear of last summer will not return. — We are expecting to close our big deal tomorrow, and then we can wait for another activity. - We plan to leave for home about May 1st and spend May and June shaping up things there.

It is so cold for us there, I think it is better for us to be away as much as possible for the present. - Seeing you, has encouraged me more than anything else, to take up my work in earnest again. and I hope that my pen has not lost its cunning, or rather that its literature has gone out of fashion. - A young author told me once, the greatest menace which threatened writers was being a back number and the saddest thing of all was, that the back numbers didn't know when they were "it." ——

My husband and sister join me in the warmest regards.— We hope sometime that something important enough to bring you to Memphis, will happen, and then we will joyfully claim you.—

Faithfully,

Virginia Frazer Boyle.
