A sporital

With the arrival of the summer sports season, there are two annual problems which arise, the first is student participation in the sports, and the second is student participation at the sporting events.

The first problem has already arisen, as evidenced by Ali Pref, where a large number of students have already decided that it’s not a good idea to go to football games. This problem has not had a chance to be demonstrated, but we believe that this is definitely the least the university should be concerned with.

There have been changes made in almost every phase of campus life since the beginning of the academic year, the unembossed enthusiasm of the freshman class, which spread to some degree into the upper-class, has in fact diminished. There is much less change was made in student participation in track.

Complete student participation in track on good days. Approximately half of them are freshmen, and the other half, who are more than willing to participate in the poor poor participation. Many of you students do not gain an in-track spirit until after you have encountered the “track fever”. At what time? Those students who know enough about track to realize that the team is poor, and do nothing about nothing.

Five Teams Struggle For Freshman Basketball Lead

by Amy Lewis

With the last ball of the league's schedule getting underway, five colleges are fighting for the championship. The situation is such that the outcome of the final game is still in doubt. The Campbell Stadium and Allen's Field have been packed for every game ever since the opening of action two weeks ago. No game has been remaining under $3.00 since Larry Lovett's surprising representatives from Sec. 2. Still, there has been a two-way tie for top position for some time, and a full between two and the powerful Town aggregations. With this in mind, last week's game was not an indication that the Foovers are foiling any means, for they experienced one of those off nights when every team counted during a contest.

The other teams still in the running are Sec. 2, Sec. 3, and the eleven men from Lee House. There has been playing heads-up ball since their early season loss to Sec. 2 and at the present time rank as the highest scoring combination by a considerable margin. The team is expected, point a game every day. Call's men are not considered as the most talented quip by observing their style of play and a look at their scoring. They are currently ranking in third place with the Town boys. When the men from Lee House step on the floor a fast unpredictable game can be expected, for their left-wing manner of point making has been interesting to watch.

ATTENTION, GOLFERS

Coach Bill Dudoit announces that there will be a meeting at all men interested in golf Wednesday night at 7:00 on the bulletin court. Dudoit is trying to form a team which will compete in the Sec. 4 Intercollegiate Invitational Golf Tournament.

Major League Winner-Take-All Prediction Pool

This contest is open to anybody connected with Allegheny College—students, faculty, or administrators, in fact any one person, ten dollars minimum, ten dollars maximum. The first place, the price of a pocket at the Grill, and a little sporting bit, you will win a fat money prize. Here's all you may have to do:

1. Hand in a list of prediction games, each of which must be listed in order, first to last.
2. Each game is to have one dollar, ten dollars maximum.
3. Each player has to pay the price of the game after the contest is over.

The contest must end by 10 a.m. on Monday, May 12, 1935.

cause for such poor participation. As Dan Hoffman so aptly stated when referring to student's attitude toward athletics, "So many have so much to do that they don't do anything.

The strange twist to the present situation is that so many students are denying the opportunity to be a " hero." Track is the most individualistic of college sports. The attention centers on one-man—the winner of the race, the pole vault, or the broad jump. Perhaps students do not want to take them selves a great favor by doing the college a great favor.

Last year, with facilities as poor as facilities can get, there was no excuse for the mediocre performance. The Mangometry Field track and field was a muddy, humpy mess. This year there is no excuse. The Michael Field track has near-perfect drainage, a 220-yard straightaway, and other features designed for efficiency, not merely for a place to practice.

The fact that many, probably the majority, of all upperclassmen said that the performance was, at best, poor, is understandable. That is a situation which will not be remedied this year. However, you freshmen, who are to become upperclassmen in the very near future, do not want to fall into that aged path, line. You have given minor indications of it through your turnout in the various classes. You are more talented; you are in the freshman class. Ten of more than two hundred candidates is not a logical proportion. In other classes, out of nearly four hundred is a much logical proportion.

It is a cinch that the upper-classmen will do nothing about it. Therefore, the sports department of the Campus chalge you freshmen to demonstrate once more your superiority over your older, more mature, schoolmates. To do so, yourself, Mr. Werner, and Allegheny College a great favor; to show that you have not fallen into the traditional upperclassman's small care, by turning out for track at the next practice.

The second problem is closely linked to the first, and just as vital. In the last few years, student interest in track, baseball, and tennis has been so low that fifty supporters was a complete surprise. This is not acceptable. As the Campus writer, you would lead this year, if there is any lead taken. Upper-classmen will begin to wonder along, and the junior and sophomore classes will wonder if they not only want not to be overshadowed once more by the upperclassmen.

Again problems can be remedied, and perhaps both will be remedied. If they are, there is the greatest chance for the freshman class that start things off. Therefore, we print this editorial as an open challenge to the freshman class, to come out and demonstrate your interest in the college, and to the remainder of the campus that you demonstrate that you are not really what you think they are.

Questionnaires Evaluated By Coach Werner

Last year, Al Werner, assistant professor of physical education, sent out a questionnaire to all the members of the school teams and clubs. This year, the questionnaire was sent to the interested freshmen to determine their interests in physical recreation and sports. The form is the same used by Allegheny's physical education program to determine the needs and values.

The questions most grunting and the returns seem to indicate that there was not such a great amount of interest in the fields, the Allegheny physical education plan is headed in the right direction to prepare graduates for public leisure in their post-collegiate lives.

Here are some of the questions taken from the questionnaires returned from 748 of the students.

1. A question on bowling, tennis, ping-pong, fishing, archery, etc., was asked. Of the 748 who responded, only six indicated that they were doing any of this sport. The interest is low.

2. If they had to do it all over again, almost none would change their answers. (Continued on page 4)
