Dear Miss Tarbell:

I am sending you the material which I ought to have given you before you left Washington.

You may be interested in some of the types of applicants who wish to take the courses and I am therefore mailing you some material from our precious files. May I trouble you to return the applications and accompanying letters ~~back~~ as soon as possible?

Isn't it interesting to know that both England and France are seeing the necessity of "professionalizing", too? The tone of the French announcement is certainly encouraging. I'd love to be told I couldn't "directly intervene"! What are employment managers for if not to be direct and straightforward in their "intervening"?

I wonder how we could get information to all the Council of National Defense committees on Women in Industry? It seems to me we ought to circulate all of them. Perhaps it would be better just to publish a short article in your bulletin if one of your committee has time to prepare one from the material we use for publicity purposes.

I cannot tell you how much I enjoyed seeing you the other evening. I was sorry to see you in mourning for I am afraid you have lost your dear mother of whom I used to hear you speak. If you have I hope you will accept my very deepest sympathy.

With love and best wishes,

Mary Gilson
