Pan-Hellenic Banquet.

THE ANNUAL FRATERNITY BANQUET HELD AT THE LAFAYETTE PROVED TO BE A MOST ENJOYABLE AFFAIR.

On Wednesday morning the most conspicuous thing on college hill was the profusion of Pan-Hellenic colors. To the student who is in college for the first year, the flash of bright colors, the Pan-Hellenic procession and the lusty cheering of the Greeks, as they marched to chapel en masse, were a source of wonder and naturally gave rise to much speculation as to what the outcome of it all would be.

To the student who had seen similar demonstrations in previous years, it only meant that all the Greeks were preparing for the most important fraternity event of the year, the Pan-Hellenic banquet. From chapel time until the shades of night had gathered darkly over the campus, the fraternity man could only be distinguished as such by the liberal yards of ribbon which floated from his coat lapel. But promptly at 9 o'clock every Greek was in line before "Old Bently" and at the stroke of the town clock the procession moved forward as stately as ever did the Pan-Athenlac procession of classic times. In measured steps the modern Greeks moved forward to the shrine of their devotion—Hulings Hall—and here indulged in the usual amount of Pan-Hellenic and fraternity yells.

A number of the professors were then visited, and each in turn responded very graciously to the demand for speeches. Dr. Bynum's speech made the hit of the evening, being especially enjoyed by the classic Greeks as he spoke in German. At 9:45 the Greeks gathered around the festal board in the dining room of the Lafayette and enjoyed quite an elaborate menu:

As the banquet progressed, a friendly rivalry sprang up between the different tables in the line of college yells and songs which added much to the evening's enjoyment.

If anyone has ever had any doubts as to the enthusiasm with which college students enter upon anything in which they are interested, it would only have been necessary for such a one to have spent a few minutes at the banquet on Wednesday evening, and all such doubt would have vanished.

After the serving of the menu a circle was formed around the dining room, and the toastmaster, Mr. Greenlee, in a very happy manner briefly addressed the assembled Greeks.

The several toasts were responded to in an able manner and after the regular toast list a number of alumni, at the request of the toastmaster, made brief speeches.

Among the alumni who were present from out of town and made brief speeches were Mr. Cutler, of Cleveland, and Mr. McClurg, of Chicago.

At a late hour the banqueters again repaired to Hulings Hall to give their yells and sing fraternity songs. Though the hour was late, the girls of the hall gave a right royal reception and for a time the campus was aglow with brilliant light, and the old hall looked like a little Fourth of July.

Here the program ended and the banqueters soon vanished into the night to dream of unprepared lessons, flunks and unpitying professors. All join in declaring this year's Pan-Hellenic banquet one of the most enjoyable, and one long to be remembered. The menu and toast list were as follows:

The New Catalogue

FOR 1902-3 CONTAINS SOME MARKED CHANGES IN REGULAR COURSES.

The catalogue for the present year is now in the binder's hands and will be issued some day this week. Externally there seems to be little change from the issues of the last three or four years. The work was done by the Crawford Journal and is fully up to the high standard which has been shown in recent years. At a casual glance one might think that the catalogue is merely a reprint of last year's, but a more careful examination will show that on nearly every page changes have been made. The labor of preparing and getting out such a book as this can be appreciated only by those who have seen such works through the press. Some changes and announcements are worth noting. Hereafter the Science Course is to becalled the Latin-Scientific. It is stated that the reason for this is "to emphasize the liberal proportion of culture studies in this course and the fact that it leads to the A. B. degree." A change has also been made in the Engineering Course whereby it is possible for students not wishing to follow engineering as a profession to omit the technical part of the Junior and Senior years and takein place of such work Biology II and Philosophy." This change has been made in order to make it possible for students who wish to take the Engineering Course more as a scientific course than a technical engineering course.

In the department of Economics an additional course will be offered, beginning with next year, a course in the theory of Economics, 2 hours a week through the Fall term. This will be called Economics II. A noticeable change has also been made in the work in Political Science. The present course in Political Science I will be confined to the Fall and Winter terms. In the Spring term will be given in alternate years Political Science II and III, which are respectively, International Law and Municipal Law. Under the description of work in English Bible is the statement that "It is expected that this department will be considerably expanded in the near future."

The total number of students registered this year is 324. Apparently a gain over last year of one. But it must be remembered that the catalogue went to press more than a month earlier than last year and it may be that some students entering in the Spring term, particularly in the Preparatory department, have entered too late to have their names enrolled in the catalogue of the present year. It is also to be noticed that the attendance by term this year is materially larger than last year, but that since the beginning of the Fall term comparatively few new students have registered. The registration in college for this year has been almost identical for the three terms. Of course it would be possible, if a large number of students dropped out at the end of the Fall term and another large number entered, for the total of the year to be very much larger than the present catalogue shows and yet the average attendance be smaller. It seems to be the intention of the college to issue the catalogue as a number of a quarterly bulletin, at least this number is called Series 1, No. 1 of the College Bulletin. It is also to be noticed that the college department shows an increase of 12, the preparatory school a decrease of 11. A notable fact also is that the Junior class this year enrolls 34, the largest number, we believe, in the history of the college. If the members of this class do themselves justice, next year the Senior class ought to number nearly or quite forty. Another point that attracts our attention in comparing the catalogue with last year's is the smaller number of special and unclassified students. There are very few in college who are not taking one of the regular degree courses.

Base Ball.

THE WEEK'S PRACTICE VERY SATISFACTORY TO COACH BUCKLEY—A TEAM OF GOOD HITTERS MAY BE LOOKED FOR.

The past week's work in base ball was most satisfactory to Coach Buckley. The men entered into the work with a dash that speaks well for the future of the team. While the early part of the week was anything but good base ball weather, the men did some surprisingly fast work for so early in the season. After three-quarters of an hour of brisk practice the men were allowed to play a practice game each day.

The game on Saturday was especially interesting, and nine fast innings were played, Taylor and Griffith doing the work in the box, Griffith showing the better form.

The game throughout was full of life and some very clever work was done. The batting of the varsity was especially good. McConnell had his eye on the ball and cracked out a double and a single. It looks as if Mack was going to overcome his only weakness. Brice on third played a fine game. He gathered in everything that came his way. His arm is giving him some trouble yet, but with care will come out all right at d care will come out all right. At the bat he did very well, and in base running he is a star. Fletcher at second did some clever work, but was handicapped by a bad ankle. Coach Buckley is very much encouraged over the work of the past week and predicts a first class team. The team will have to do some hard work this week to be in shape for Fredonia Saturday. Grove City went down before the Fredonia boys and a fast game may be looked for next Saturday. It has not been decided as yet who will do the work in the box for Allegheny, but quite likely Griffith or Haas.

The opening game must be won and now for hard work. It would be very much in order to have the students who find time to spend the spring afternoons out of doors, come down to Athletic park and watch the progress of the team. As yet, not a girl from the hill has been down to lend inspiration to the hard work of practice. On Saturday every student should be at the game, and be there to make a noise. It is worth your while to go very much farther to hear En Dean talk. Come out and give him a hearing.

Glee Club Concert.

THE ANNUAL CONCERT WILL BE HELD IN THE NEW CHAPEL WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 18.

The management of the Glee club announces to-day that Madam Maconda, the greatest coloratura soprano of America, has been procured to assist the Glee Club in the annual commencement concert. The management is to be congratulated in being able to procure an artist of such renown this season, as the majority of the world's celebrated vocal artists will be in attendance at the coronation of King Edward. Madam Maconda is of world-wide celebrity, and the students of Allegheny are fortunate indeed in being able to hear such great artists as Madam Schurmann Heink and Madam Maconda at so little expense. Mr. Scott announces that the concert will be given in the new chapel, which will add to the affair as a feature of commencement week.

Further information in regard to the concert will appear in the Campus at a later date, but it has been suggested that as many alumni as possible be made acquainted with the fact that we are to have as great an artist as Maconda to assist in the annual concert, so don't be afraid to mention the fact to all friends of the college.

The past week has been a busy one. The Pan-Hellenic banquet came off with the usual amount of noise, the usual spring election aroused the usual amount of interest, and the athletic association benefited to the amount of about fifty dollars. Base ball has been the center of interest and the work of the week in this line was most satisfactory. Quite a lot of fast material is in sight and a fast team may be looked for. Coach Buckley has been working the men pretty hard, and another week should put them in shape for Fredonia. In the pitching department, it loks as if Griffith was going to develope into a valuable man in the box, and Haas is also showing up well. We stand a good chance of winning Saturday's game. The game should be an interesting one. Fredonia defeated us twice last year and now is our chance to even matters up. We bespeak for the opening game a large crowd. Each student should feel it his duty to attend the game on Saturday and lend every encouragement to the team. Base ball has had quite a struggle to remain in Allegheny, and now is our chance to show that we want the game to remain.

The Y. M. C. A. is about to enter upon a new era of activity. The policy of this organization in the future is to be a more active factor in college life.

It is felt that the Y. M. C. A. has been allowed to get into a rut and that the active influence is not what it might be. Under the new president and his cabinet larger things are to be striven for. It will be the aim of the new administration to make the Y. M. C. A. an active factor among every class of students. The present membership is not as large as it should be. It will be the aim of the new administration to largely increase the membership, and to arouse interest in every department of work.

Heretofore the Y. M. C. A. has been largely composed of ministerial students. This should not be so and we see no reason why such a state of affairs should exist.

The fraternities of the college have been poorly represented in the Y. M. C. A. We cannot state a reason for the fact and do not see why it should be so. We trust that in the future the fraternity element will be properly represented. The Y. M. C. A. has a larger work to do in our college and we are glad to see that the new president and his cabinet are awakening to the fact.

The Y. M. C. A. should be the one organization holding the interest of the entire student body, and should receive the enthusiastic support of every other organization in school. We trust that in the future the Y. M. C. A. will be a more active factor in college life and mean all that its title signifies.

PROF. ROYCE'S CLOSING LECTURE—THE SOCIAL BASIS OF CONSCIENCE.

By request we publish the following extract of the lecture given on Saturday evening by Prof. Josiah Royce, of Harvard, before the students of the Unitarian seminary:

The lecturer said in part as follows:

Early in the history of civilization the idea of sacredness obtains. It precedes the idea of righteousness. The idea originally appears in savage minds as exemplified in Tabu practice. When something is set aside from common use, it is said to be Tabu, or sacred. A stone, a house, a mountain, a word, anything set aside by the priests, may be Tabu. The obligation to recognize this act is exacting. The public opinion of the tribe enforces recognition. Violation of this common law means death.

Even in this early stage of civilization it is remarked that the idea of sacredness is closely related to the idea of the unseen world. That was sacred which must not be touched, handled, or in any sense be made common. In a measure, certain standards were established. From this, we have the development of what may be termed the invention of the discovery of conscience. Conscience is, psychologically speaking, an ideal comrade, also, an idealized altar. When men came to give their Tabu a moral meaning, they recognized external obligation—the power of custom. I hold that savage man has mortality; civilized man, in a higher sense, conscience.

Savage man, as an extremely social being is full of impulses. Within his own range of human interests, he is quite imitative. Does he lack certain types of social considerateness? Possibly in a considerable sense as does a child. Indeed, to a civilized observer, in many respects, he is much like a child. It does not lack basis of morality as higher conscientiousness, but moral ideals. The savage fears breaches of custom as we might fear the worst crimes; yet lacks civilized types of conscientiousness.

The primitive man is extremely religious, if by religion we mean practical relation to an unseen world. The stone image is a symbol of the unseen, the sacred object of reverence. In transition from savagery to civilization of a higher type it is noted that mere literal customs are often unjust. Hence as he advances in the transition, he converts his gods also. The process of transition is two-fold in character. The isolated moral ideals which he has come gradually to recognize are unified, and then referred to an unseen power. Hence, religious motives play an important part in primitive morality.

We have alluded to the parallel of childish and primitive morality. Let us note it further. The child has impulses, as also has the savage. Primarily, neither are wholly egotistic nor altruistic; at the outset, neither moral nor immoral, but socially adjustable. So far neither are conscientious in any high sense. The child, it is true, early gets a sort of customary mortality. He uses his imitative material often to assert his independence. When corrected, he responds, "You do thus and so." He may arrive at a stage of chaotic mortality. Yet even here obstinacy is not necessarily opposed to social suggestibility.

A number of boys playing together manifest much of the phenomena of primitive man. A sort of tribal loyalty is cultivated; a sort of honor is recognized; a sort of common law results, which the public opinion of the crowd enforces. A crowd of boys held together by such relations is, in these respects, a savage tribe. In dealing with his elders, his savage tendencies are held in check, because his elders live in a higher stage of civilization. There is no sign of an innate moral code. True conscientiousness is a recognition of the unity of ideals.

Conscience has many forms but it never appears in the mind in plural number. Its expression is the unity of right against customary morality.

Spring Election.

NON-FRATERNITY TICKET SUCCESSFUL STRAIGHT THROUGH. THE RESULT NO SURPRISE.

The spring term elections were held on Saturday and despite the fact that the result was expected by both parties a large enrollment to the association was secured and almost a full vote polled.

The real fight this year did not take place at the polls but in the two weeks previous to the election. While the fraternity people were airing the family skeleton and fighting among themselves, the non-frats were saying nothing, but hunting for a suitable candidate. When the time for balloting came they presented almost a solid front, while the fraternities were divided and the result was as expected.

The candidates for the offices this year were as follows:

Basket Ball Manager—H. M. Young, C. L. Smith.

Assistant Basket Ball Manager—H. W. Smith, Clifford Scott.

Secretary and Treasurer of Athletic Association—V. M. McConnell, J. O. Pentz.

The results were as follows:

Young, 117; C. L. Smith, 71; H. L. Smith, 113; Scott, 75; McConnell, 111; Pentz, 77.

The tickets were cut in more cases this year than ever before, and cut in all conceivable ways. At the non-fraternity caucus a deadlock was held in basket ball nominations and after a dozen ballots no break was made. It was finally agreed to have the basket ball team vote for their choice of the candidates. To secure all the votes it was necessary to track the members of the team all over the city.

LIGHTNING STRUCK THE GRAND STAND.

Buchtel College Ball Grounds, Akron, the Scene of a Double Tragedy Saturday Afternoon—Two Spectators Were Instantly Killed.

Akron, O., April 20.—Lightning killed two young men and seriously injured a third on the Buchtel college base ball field at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

A game of base ball was about to be called between the East End Athletic club and Canton Athletic club teams when a storm, which had been threatening, broke. A bolt of lightning struck the grandstand and a score or more of people in the stand were more or less shocked, although only three of them were prostrated. These three were Harry Rogers, Richard Roan and Glen Fenton. The first two were killed instantly, and the third rendered unconscious for some time.

The flesh of all three was turned black, although not in the least burned. In the case of Roan there was no other visible mark, but the clothing of the other two was very badly torn, while their shoes were completely cut to pieces.

A Pretty Wedding.

MARRIAGE OF MISS NORMA S. CUTTER, OF THIS CITY, AND DR. J. W. THOMAS, OF BROOKLYN, N. Y., AT CHRIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SATURDAY AFTER NOON.

The marriage of Miss Norma S. Cutter, of this city, and Dr. John W. Thomas, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was celebrated in Christ Episcopal church at 4 p. m. Saturday, Rev. George S. Richards, rector, officiating. Owing to the recent bereavement in the death of Dr. Thomas' father, the services at the church were very plain, and the reception which had been intended to follow at the home of the bride's mother was omitted entirely.

The altar was handsomely decorated with flowers and the following music program was artistically rendered by Miss Minnie Gibson, organist of Christ church:

Cantilene Nuptiale ..... Dubois
Offertory in F ..... Batiste
Melody in F ..... Rubenstein
St. Cecelia Offertoire No. 2....Batiste
Largo ..... Handel
Toccata ..... Dubois
Intact and Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin ..... Wagner
Adoration from Gaul's "Holy City"
Wedding March ..... Mendelssohn

The ceremony was witnessed by a large company of invited guests, and the wedding party entered the church to the strains of the Wagner "Bridal Chorus," the bride's party coming down the center aisle in the following order: Mr. A. F. Smith, of Cleveland, and Prof. Ernest Bynum, Hon. John J. Henderson and Prof. F. A. Christie, ushers; the maid of honor, Miss Cutter, sister of the bride; the bride, leaning on the arm of her brother, J. D. Cutter, coming last. The groom and his best man, Dr. Ernest A. Smith, of Allegheny college, met the bride's party at the chancel. The ring ceremony was used.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine trimmed with chiffon and orange blossoms, with full court train, over which the bridal veil fell in graceful folds. The only ornament she wore was a pearl heart brooch, with diamond center, the gift of the groom. She carried an ivory-bound prayer book, made expressly for her by Gorham & Co., and which the Rev. Mr. Richards used in the ceremony.

Miss Cutter, the maid of honor, wore a tailor-made cloth gown of primrose yellow trimmed with pannes velvet, a large picture hat, and carried yellow roses with long tulle streamers.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas received the congratulations of only a few very near friends at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. K. Cutter, on Chestnut street, prior to departing on Erie train 10 for Brooklyn, they postponing a wedding trip at this time in view of a tour abroad the coming summer.

Mrs. Thomas is one of Meadville's accomplished young women whom it is a pleasure to know, and she will have the best wishes of very many friends.

Dr. Thomas for a number of years was a prominent member of our faculty, severing his connection with Allegheny only last year, to accept a responsible position in the Brooklyn High School for boys. During his work in Allegheny, he made many warm friends among the students, who will always remember Dr. Tommy for the kindly interest he ever had in all with whom he came in contact in his capacity of instructor. Their many friends in Allegheny extend to Dr. and Mrs. Thomas their congratulations, wishing them a long life and a happy one, and trust that Dr. Tommy will ever remember his work in Allegheny as one of the most pleasant periods of his life.

On Saturday, Fredonia defeated Grove City by the decisive score of 3 to 3. Fredonia no doubt will give us a hard game on Saturday.

We congratulate Allegheny on winning the championship. It was won by the best team in the league. The officials were at all times competent, which gives to Allegheny a championship without a single blot.—Geneva Cabinet.

The Carlisle Indians have a base ball schedule consisting of fifteen games. The schedule is not as elaborate as in former years, as Coach Warner expects to begin early spring practice in football. An effort is being made to have all foot ball men take track training, so as to improve their speed and learn how better to handle themselves.

The new catalogue of Harvard which has appeared contains provision for students who desire to graduate in three years. The regulation respecting the above is as follows: "A student completing in three years the requisite number of courses with such grade as may entitle him to 'cum laude,' may, on petitioning, be recommended for the degree at the end of his third year, and obtain leave of absence until the time when the degree may actually be conferred.

The Yale basket ball association issued a statement formally disowning any connection with the so-called "Yale" basket ball team which played during the Easter vacation at Indianapolis and other cities of the Middle West. The statement says that only two Yale men were members of the team. One of them, L. N. Dibble, 1904, has been disqualified by the basket ball association, and the statement says that the cases of both men will be brought before the college authorities.—Cleveland Leader.

The following table shows the number of men from Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Pennsylvania who have made the All American foot ball teams for the last ten years, as chosen by Caspar Whitney. Besides these four colleges, Cornell and West Point have each had three representatives, and Columbia, Lafayette and Michigan two apiece:

In one of the public schools recently a number of small pupils were busily engaged in working problems in multiplication, with more or less satisfactory results.

After some time the teacher noticed one little fellow who seemed most unhappy. His cheeks were flushed, his hair tumbled, and tears were very near the surface. The teacher said, in a kindly tone:

"Well, John, what is the matter?"

"Oh, dear, I wish I was a rabbit!" replied the boy.

"A rabbit!" exclaimed the teacher, in astonishment. "Why on earth would you like to be a rabbit?"

"Well, my papa says they multiply so fast!"—Gentleman's Magazine.

Mr. R. E. Diffendorfer, who comes to us from Ohio Wesleyan University, in the interest of the Student Volunteer Movement, led the association meeting Saturday evening. He came to us full of enthusiasm and helpful experience. O. W. U. has one of the liveliest Y. M. C. A.'s in existence and ranks as first in missionary activity which rank used to be held by Allegheny.

Mr. Diffendorfer led a good meeting in the chapel Sunday morning. Both Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. were well represented and all are thankful that Mr. Diffendorfer has been with us.

HARVARD IN 1831.

The following article, copied from the Boston Transcript, was noticed by us in a file of The Baptist Weekly Journal, 1831, of which J. Stevens, uncle of Miss Stevens, of Shepardson faculty, was editor:

"Harvard University—The whole number of students connected with this institution is 404; Graduates 168, Undergraduates 236, of the graduates thirty-one are Theological students; forty-one Law students, and ninety-five students attending the Medical lectures. The College Library, for the common use of the whole University, contains 33,000 books; the Law Library 3,000, and the Medical 1,000; total, 37,000. The necessary expenses of an undergraduate for a year are $178. Other expenses vary with the economy of each student."

Harvard now has an attendance of over 4,600. What a vast progress in education in America is here presented.

WORK ON KALDRON PROGRESSING RAPIDLY.

The new board of editors are working together harmoniously and in a few days the Kaldron will be in a fair way to completion. The students responded quickly to the call for support and considerable acceptable material was handed to the editors last week. Almost all of the pictures are in the hands of the engravers and the cuts will be received in a short time.

Don't fail to have an interest in the Kaldron by contributing.
