My dear Mrs. Tryon:

I have just returned to New York from an absence of some weeks and find your letter of March 27th.

Yes, I did talk in Youngstown, Ohio before the College Club, back in February and I did talk along the line of the newspaper clipping, which you saw, but it was not a written or at all prepared talk for that matter. I have no notes of what I said. The subject is one in which I am interested, however, and if in the future I should develop it and put it in a shape for you to see and possibly quote from, I should be glad to send it to you.

Please believe, dear Mrs. Tryon, I am gratified by your interest and particularly glad to know that the Journal is interested in this talk on this side of the question of the college woman. She needs to be stirred in many places to her obligation to the community, though I know that thousands of these women are doing admirable work. With all good wishes, believe me

Very sincerely yours

Mrs. Ruth Wilson Tryon
