My dear Mrs. Folts:

Of course, my dear lady, I have heard of you, but I also have heard of a multitude of other women whose achievements are considered valuable, even distinguished, that I did not mention in my list. You see, dear Mrs. Folts, I had to cover a wide field of effort. I had to take women who had made something of a national reputation. Nobody is more conscious than I, that I have probably made mistakes. No doubt I have left out, where I should have put in and put in where I should have left out.

Hoping you will accept this explanation, believe me

Very truly yours

Miss Clara Shertridge Folts
