Dear Miss Tarbell:

I am still in a most humble mood when I think of your more than gracious introduction at the Pen and Brush, the afternoon I flitted about, so lightly, among the current books. You continue to be my inspiration for work and balanced philosophy.

Among the books from my office coming out in the next few months is one that I think you may be interested in and I shall ask the publishers, Hale Cushman and Flint to send you a copy. Its title will be One Mad Act being the unknown story of John Wilkes Booth, by his granddaughter Izola Forrester Page.

The book is scheduled for September publication. We shall be appreciative if you have time to read the book and perhaps say a word about it.

Faithfully yours,

Flora Mai Holly
