FRAMINGHAM, MASS. September 9, 1921.

Miss Ida M. Tarbell,
120 East 19th Street,
New York City.

Dear Miss Tarbell:

We won't try to butt into the Safety people, of course, but from Friday afternoon until you're through with the factory, we shall want you with us. It would be particularly delightful if you could spend the week-end as it seems to me you must if you're going to get any notion of our proposition down here. Don't worry at all about our having any politeness in the matter. I am notoriously impolite and never give invitations that I don't want to give.

Yours very truly,

H. S. Dennison
