

November 12, 1908.

Dear Miss Tarbell:

The enclosed letter from The McClure Company will notify you of the arrangement just consummated between that firm and ourselves.

We need hardly say that we earnestly hope the new arrangement will not be displeasing to you, for we look forward with particular pleasure to the new publishing relations which we trust will come to us in consequence.

Trusting that this may be the beginning of a mutually pleasant and profitable connection, we beg you to believe us

Very cordially yours,

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY.

Miss Ida M. Tarbell,
C/o "American Magazine,"
341 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.