Tuckaway
May 22, 1939

My dear Miss Tarbell:

I am enclosing a clipping sent me from New York which you may not have seen unless you have a clipping bureau. I am looking forward with a great deal of eagerness to reading your book and want to ask if I have Miss Gillespie send a copy to you if you will be good enough to autograph it and mail it to me here.

In April of 1938 the Barrows Mussey people, who published Lions' Paws, got into financial difficulties because of the withdrawal of Mrs. Mussey due to marital troubles. Since that time there has been no advertising of the book and any sales were made purely because of interest in it. I have been busy on "Palms of Victory" but have recently pushed it aside because of a request from a publisher for a smaller volume on "Palmistry for Parents."

If you have any plans for visiting the San Francisco Fair which would include passing through Indianapolis I hope you will let me know. I would very much enjoy having you at Tuckaway for a real Indiana fried chicken dinner.

Cordially and sincerely,

NSM:M
