TRACK TRYOUTS GIVE INTERESTING RESULTS

NEW MATERIAL MAKES GOOD, STRONG TEAM SELECTED

On Wednesday, April 28, between showers, the first trials for this year's track team were held at Montgomery Field. The track was not in the best of condition, which also greatly hindered the athletes from getting into shape. The trials for the 220-yard dash were the first of the two numbers run off. McCreary, '22, Kinney, '21, and Patterson, '21, finished in order named. Following this the mile tryouts were pulled off with Kirschner, '22, winning, followed by Barcus, '20.

For the remainder of the week all events were well taken care of by J. Pluvius; as a matter of fact Jupiter Pluvius never gave the other athletes a look-in. The events carded for Thursday and Friday were postponed and run off Monday afternoon.

The trial for the quarter-mile was the first event on Monday's slate. It proved to be a good race with Wimmer, '23, finishing ahead of Pringle, '22, Jones, '23, and Clough, '21. The hundred-yard dash was next and the contestants finished in order named: McCreary, '22, Bittner, '22, and Kinney, '21.

The 880-yard run proved a close race and was won by J. Russell, '21, followed by Barcus, '20, and C. Laffer, '20. This was followed by the two-mile run in which the Bacon brothers lead—F. H. Bacon, '21, first; R. D. Bacon, '23, second, and Brevort, '22, a close third. The finish of the two-mile was one of the pretty sights of the afternoon. R. D. Bacon and Brevort were neck-and-neck coming down the stretch with the former winning second place by a slight margin at the tape.

The trials for the field events will be held Tuesday afternoon and anyone with any ability whatsoever is asked to turn out. There is room for good jumpers, pole vaulters and weight men. The only meet away from home will be held with Geneva on Saturday, May 8. After this the team will have plenty of time to get into shape for the W. & J. meet, scheduled to take place here May 29th. This lapse in the schedule will give many men a chance to make good who have not as yet shown up. As it now stands, the Blue and Gold track team led by Captain Coulsan is ready to start on another successful season.

KLEE-O-KLEET

More than an expert, he is an artist, is this Monsieur Beaucaire, when he draws his blade in defense of the lady who tossed him a rose—or is it in defense of himself? And yet, there comes a time when he shuns this lady as he would the lowliest of creatures.

What could be more delightful than this story of a chivalrous French prince! Nothing, except perhaps, Klee-O-Kleet's presentation of the play seventeen days from today.

GLEE CLUB TOUR VERY SUCCESSFUL

FOUR CONCERTS GIVEN IN PITTSBURGH DISTRICT, OFFICERS ELECTED

Leaving Meadville Tuesday morning, April 27, the Glee Club went to Bellevue for the first concert on their spring trip. It was given Tuesday evening in the California Avenue M. E. Church.

Wednesday noon the club had luncheon at McCreery's. At this luncheon elections were held for leader, manager, and assistant manager for next year. Carlson was elected leader, Kamerer manager and Jordan assistant manager. In the afternoon the club attended the Davis Theater in a body. On Wednesday night they gave their second concert in Tarentum.

The biggest success of the trip came on Thursday night when the concert given in the Emory M. E. Church of Pittsburgh was enthusiastically received by an audience of over 1200 people. Alumni of the college who attended this concert were much pleased with the work of the club and had good reason to be proud of their Alma Mater. The last concert of the trip was given in Sharon Friday night. Here, as well as elsewhere, the work of the Allegheny men was very well received.

The 26 men who made the trip report a rattling good time and feel repaid for the hard work they put in to get in shape. At all four concerts they sang to large audiences; during the past week the college has had extensive and excellent advertising. The instrumental work of Bates, Kreuger, Smith, and McCafferty made a particular hit as did the singing of the quartet which consists of Louis Miller, George Dunbar, Ford Miller, and William Miller. Meredeth's readings received much favorabe comment.

GLEE CLUB COMMENDED

President Crawford,
Allegheny College,

My dear President Crawford:

Your boys gave a fine account of themselves last evening. Our Church was filled with a very appreciative audience. The fellows made a hit from the first. The Glee Club sang in fine spirit and with excellent technique. The instrumental quartet acquitted themselves honorably and Mr. Meredith's readings were enthusiastically received.

It is a fine thing for the College to have this sort of inspiration and you may tell the management that we are open for a return engagement next year.

Fraternally yours,
LUTHER FREEMAN.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

DUZER DU PLAY TO BE GIVEN IN CHAPEL MONDAY NIGHT

Tickets for the famous three-act farce—"It Pays to Advertise" which will be reproduced in the Ford Memorial Chapel on Monday evening, May 10th are now on sale by members of Duzer Du and the cast. The rates are seventy-five cents for general admission tickets, and one dollar for reserved seats. The one dollar tickets now on sale will then be exchanged for reserved seats at the Registrar's office in Bentley Hall on Wednesday, May 5th.

The play is a popular one, and has met with success everywhere it has been produced. Rodney Martin, the son of Cyrus Martin, an old soap king has just left college, and does not concern himself with anything but the frivolities of life. Cyrus Martin, becoming impatient with his son gets his stenographer Mary Grayson to lay a trap for Rodney to get him interested. She, with the aid of Ambrose Peale, a young salesman, induces him to buck "the old soap king" and the soap trusts in general by advertising his own soap, the "famous 'thirteen' soap," which Rodney is contemplating on manufacturing. Mary not only accomplishes this, but she also causes Rodney to fall deeply in love with her. The younger firm meets innumerable financial difficulties thruout the entire play. The play is always interesting and full of humor; especially the scenes in which the Countess de Beaurien appears. In order to learn the details concerning the final relations of Cyrus and Rodney Martin, and the outcome of the love affair between Rodney Martin and Miss Grayson come to the Ford Memorial Chapel at eight o'clock on Monday evening, May 10th.

J. W. Kinnear, '20, the stage manager is actively engaged in obtaining the costumes and the scenery, which will insure that this part of the play will not be neglected.

HAS ANYONE A YOKE OF OXEN?

Dr. John C. Acheson, president of the Pennsylvania College for Women, is seeking two of these predecessors of steam engines and motor trucks. Unusual honors will be bestowed upon the animals fortunate enough to establish relations with the college.

These will not be academic honors, but the oxen are to represent sacrificed oxen in a Roman procession, a part of the pageant the college will give the first week in June in connection with its fiftieth anniversary celebration.

CHANCELLOR McCORMICK

OF THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH DELIVERS SUNDAY ADDRESS

Chancellor Samuel Black McCormick, of the University of Pittsburgh, gave the morning address in the Chapel on May 2. He developed his sermon from the eleventh chapter of Hebrews, the subject of which is Faith is the assurance of things not seen and not looked for.

"Many attempts have been made to define this term, Faith," said Chancellor McCormick, in opening his address, "but I find that the Bible gives the best one. What do you think of faith? It is that thru faith we understand all things, and thus it is the most fundamental fact in life. It is essential to worship and our daily existence. If we lose faith, everything would decline, we need faith for personal salvation. Is it not so, that just as other processes are in the world, so is faith. Faith involves a confidence in the underlying consitution of the earth.

"Before the war, the country or world had a feeling of security, then came the disaster and we wondered if there was such a thing as faith. We wondered if it was unstable and could not be depended upon. Have we confidence in the power of God?"

"If we are convinced that we have been truthful, and have complied with these things we can be sure that our nation is saved and things will turn out as we want them to. Man needs a confidence that will not be displaced.

"First, we must have faith at home, before we can believe further, and have faith in others. Believe in ourselves, thru other people and God. If we have faith in them, out of this confusion and discord will come peace and calm.

In conclusion, Chancellor McCormick said: "To those going out into the world, there must be no faith lost in man, self or God, especially in the God, whose works and purposes are assured, and will prevail."

The musical numbers at the service were: "Christian the Morn," an anthem by the choir; "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears," the offertory solo, by Mr. Kroen, of Rochester; and "Pilgrims' Chorus," organ prelude, "Marche Belgique," organ postlude, and the accompaniments by Dr. Church.

The University of Syracuse is to hold a big Women's Day celebration May 10. Everything is taken charge of by the women—the paper is also put out by the women's editor. A pageant is to be given in the evening.

MONTRAVILLE M. WOOD PLEASES AUDIENCE

NOTED SCIENTIST AND INVENTOR CLOSES Y. M. C. A. LECTURE SERIES

Montraville M. Wood, noted scientist and lecturer, gave the last lecture of the Y. M. C. A. lecture course in Ford Memorial Chapel Saturday evening. Mr. Wood is an inventor and scientist of national fame, and delivered a very interesting lecture on some of the newer inventions and discoveries.

The first part of his lecture was concerned with the action of the ultra-violet ray on radio-active substances. He used a ray generator of his own to get the rays. With various radio-active substances he secured different results when the ray was directed against them. He explained the color of the moon and of the different stars in this manner. Mr. Wood said that if all the ultra-violet rays of the sun would come to the earth, every one would be instantly killed. He also said that if all the sun's ultra-violet rays were excluded, everything on the earth would perish.

The second part of his lecture was on the action of gyroscopes. He demonstrated their action as stabilizers. Gyroscopes of the same design are used on all the modern warships and aircraft. His gyroscopes seemed to exhibit lifelike ability in their efforts to resist being unbalanced.

The mechanical ear, the self-controlled torpedo and depth bomb were next. By means of the intensity and number of vibrations reaching the mechanical ear of the torpedo, it is stopped, started, course changed, and all manipilations controlled by this wonderful pair of ears. The ears are tuned to the vibration of the propellor of the boat it is sent against, and as the torpedo travels about twice as fast as the boat, it follows the boat until it reaches its mark. If the boat stops, it stops and dive below the depth where it can be hauled up by drags. As each propellor has an individual tone the boat to whose tone the ears are adjusted cannot get away. The depth bomb works on the same principle. It sinks to the level on which the submarine is running, and then hunts for its prey as does the torpedo. Another type of depth bomb must be shot off in the vicinity of the submarine and is much larger.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB

Twentieth Century Club met on Monday evening, April 27. During the meeting election of officers for the ensuing year took place. The new officers are: President, Miss Marjorie Dean, '21; vice-president, Miss Belle Bollinger, '21; secretary and treasurer, Miss Helen Shuster, '21. Plans were discussed for a banquet whcih will be held some time in May.

After the business session the meeting was turned over to Miss Florence Pappenhagen, '20, who had charge of the program. The subject was "The History of Political Parties." The various speakers brought in the tendencies of modern politics as well. Miss Gertrude Thomas, '20, spoke on the Democratic party, Miss Elizabeth Carew, '20, on the Republican party, Miss Wilhelmina Traum, '20, on the Prohibition party and Miss Ethel Wood, '21, on the Socialist party.

AMERICAN DAY

In the great American Day parade, estimated to have been from a mile and a half to two miles in length, the Allegheny College showed her spirit and Americanism by contributing her band, and a body of men students to the number of a hundred and seventy-five.

The division in which the Allegheny contingent marched, the "Makers of America" division, was marshalled by Dr. R. Edwin Lee, of the faculty, and was perhaps, the best disciplined section of the parade.

American Day marked the first real appearance of the college band this year. Its work was excellent, equalling and even surpassing many of the professional bands in the parade.

DISTINGUISHED SOCIOLOGIST VISITS ALLEGHENY

DR. W. L. WISEMAN, OF MANCHESTER, DEALS WITH RECONSTRUCTION PROBLEM

Coming as one of England's foremost and ablest social workers, the Reverend Dr. W. L. Wiseman, director of Wesleyan Hall of Birmingham, England, spoke in the chapel last Wednesday evening with authority upon the subject of social reform, its situation, principles and progress, in both his own country and the world generally.

The Reverend W. L. Wiseman, by reason of his broad knowledge of social conditions, not only in England, but in Europe as well, was able to present the exact situation and attitude of the old world to reform of any kind. In view of the present state of affairs, four fundamental principles, he said, must be recognized by reformers in order to build up a state approaching the ideal. These principles were applicable not merely to Great Britain but to any state whatever, which was considering either constructive or reconstructive measures.

The four principles he outlined were a national recognition of God, the rights of man as a first consideration, fellowship, and service.

By a national recognition of God he upheld not an established church, but a universal acceptance of the existence of a Supreme Being. "It's no use," he said, "to found a new order of things without the basic acknowledgment of God and the Guiding Hand." As one of the methods for establishing this principle he suggested education in the schools of children to the understanding of the cultural value of the Bible.

In support of the second principle, the Reverend Dr. Wiseman gave some characteristic pictures of the sad conditions when the right of "man" was disregarded. He maintained that wages, housing and sanitation must all be viewed from the standpoint of the producer and not the capitalist.

Upon fellowship, or in the modern term, co-operation, depends the success and well-being of any group or organization, is the opinion of the social worker. This attitude of mutual welfare springs from the first two principles and is as essential to society as they are.

The speaker's final appeal was for the idealism of service. The great man is not the one who holds authority over others; not the one having the lordship over the fellow-man. The truly great man is the servant."

Dr. Wiseman concluded with the call for the recognition of this principle in considering all manner of constructive policies, not alone in England and Europe, but universally.

EDITORIAL

There has been a rumor on the campus of late that all unpaid subscriptions made by the students to the Gym Fund are to be canceled. It is even hinted that some in high places among us are parties concerned in such an understanding. This is beyond belief. No matter who have had to do with any such understanding or agreement, they have done what we cannot support them in. Any one who even suggests the cancellation of unpaid subscriptions to so worthy a cause as the building of the gymnasium ought to come out in the open and explain.

Were not the subscriptions to the Gym Fund made in good faith by the students of this college? Haven't a large number of students paid their subscriptions in full? Is there not need that all should pay? If these questions can be answered in the affirmative, and we believe they can, then in the name of all the gods at once why should laggards and shirkers have the same praise and recognition that is given to those who have fulfilled their obligations?

What is the history of this gymnasium matter? A year ago the men of this college gave their solemn pledge to Mr. Arthur W. Thompson, President of the Board of Trustees, that they would be responsible for $10,000 towards the new gymnasium. Mr. Thompson accepted their pledge in good faith, supported as it was by later guarantees, and recommended to the trustees that they proceed with the building. At a later time subscription cards were passed around among the students, and subscriptions were taken amounting to nearly $10,400. We understand that about one thousand of this amount has been paid to the College Treasurer. Shall those who have not paid be relieved of their obligations? Not much. If this is done, then in all fairness the thousand dollars already paid in ought to be returned to the subscribers. Let us be just and fair in this matter. We protest against even a suggestion of cancellation. It is unworthy of Allegheny men.

The Campus Staff meets every Thursday at one o'clock in the Campus office in Bentley Hall. Competitors (business staff excepted) meet every Friday at one o'clock in the office in Bentley Hall.

INTIMATE CHAPEL SERVICE

Dr. F. E. Wiseman, a Wesleyan minister from Birmingham, England, gave a most interesting and appealing talk to the students at the college chapel Thursday morning. Mr. Wiseman is a delegate from the Wesleyan Church of England and is now attending the general conference of the Methodist Church which is to be held at Des Moines during the month of May. He is not only a wonderful lecturer but a musician and entertainer. He is especially interested in the "Songs of Old England."

Dr. Wiseman started by telling the origin of some of the old songs and chants. An interesting illustration was the origin of the chant from the school spelling class. It originated from saying b-a-t-bat-t-l-e-tle and so on for so many times that it grew into a chant. Then he played and sang a few of the more serious songs and melodies. "Three Ravins" and "To the North Country" touching songs, held the audience and made them feel as Dr. Wiseman felt himself. "Three Ravens" is a story of the English feudal times. "To the North Country" tells the story of a homesick country lassie, who would return, with her lover, to the North Country. This ballad was particularly beautiful and appealing. Dr. Wiseman did not sing about the sad and serious side of English life only. He sang some of the livelier and more merry ballads. "Jockey to the Fair" and the "Bailiff's Daughter of Ismington" portrayed happy, jolly days. There were the songs of courting and love. One could feel the joy in his songs.

The college enjoyed nearing Dr. Wiseman and was pleased and delighted by his singing, but sorry he cannot be nearer and visit Allegheny more often.

Dr. Crawford then introduced him to the members of the Social Service Class where he spent the period. His talk here was very informal but exceedingly interesting. He discussed the rise of the Old English Mission.

"Just think what London would be if we could get control of the drink traffic!" exclaimed the Bishop of London recently. The Bishop could soon visualize the condition by crossing the Sahara, the Sudan or even the great American desert.

Dear Miss Barefacts:—What are your ideas on the kissing question?

My Dear Lena:—I refer you to Robert Quillen's ideas, as he recently expressed them in an article in the Saturday Evening Post. I agree with him that kissing is an art, not an instinct; and that in the kiss of courtship there is a flavor of forbidden fruit. It is a flavor that does not long survive benefit of clergy and one may say that the honeymoon is at an end when the kiss has lost its kick. PHEATRIX.

LIBRARY

During the past week the shelves of the college library have been valuably increased by the addition of a 24-volume set of Scott's novels, straight from the Oxford University Press; Vol. V Thomas Humphrey Ward's "The English Poets," containing selections with critical introductions from the period of Browning to Rupert Brooke; R. A. Pons' "The Holocaust" (Italy's struggle with the Hapsburg); and Brearley's "Time Telling Through the Ages." Other new books are "The Man Who Can" and other addresses by Guy Morrison Walker and l'Institute American International, Acts Final 1917.

THE CHURCH HYPOCRITE

"Can't a man be a Christian without being a Church Member? I know men outside of the Church better than 75% of the people in the Church."

A little group of men were gathered around the Cochran Hall piano when this question and assertion were propounded. It is a common contention—one of the stock objections of the Man Outside. Granting for the moment the truth of the assertion, and an affirmative answer to the question, there remain some pertinent things to be considered.

1. The true Christian will unite himself with a Church without being forced to it. For he wants to be an effective Christian; and effectiveness comes only thru organization. The Church is the only organization that aims to produce and nourish Christian character. Indeed, there is no reason for him not joining; he can easily find a denomination with which he agrees as closely, at least, as he does with the brotherhood or lodge to which he invariably belongs.

2. The presence of hypocrites is no reason for keeping a man outside the church. If the Church is essential to a healthy national life, morally and religiously—and who will doubt it—my duty is to support it, or reverse the argument. Why not say, "I will not stay outside of the Church with the bums, the degenerates, and the crooks!" For by staying out of the Church, a man allies himself, in practical effect, with that group, all protests to the contrary. "What you do," says Carlyle, "speaks so loudly that I cannot hear what you say."

3. Or if comparisons are to be made, compare the average man within the Church to the average man without. It is easy enough to pick a few choice men outside—who have had, invariably, Christian training—and compare them favorably with the most faulty folk within. The same process could establish the superiority of Chinese civilization to American, or of the Hindu religion to that of Jesus Christ. But draw your average, and the Christian Church shines as the sun.

4. But, after all, Is that man without really better than the 75% within? Granted he seems better, and acts better. Who will say he is living up to his light and his training as well as those within who have not had his advantages? I confess I dare not judge. Do you?

WEST VIRGINIA COMMENTS

We can't help noticing this in the Athenaeum, University of West Virginia's weekly: "According to reports emanating from Buchannan, the Methodists are out after our scalps next year and are leaving no stones unturned right now" in order that they will be assured of victory."

You have the right dope, West Virginia; we are out for victory. We don't care who loses, as long as we win.

Anent the Borrowing Habit!

If this war was fought to make the world safe for democracy, the question of next importance is whether it has made a fraternity house safe for a fountain pen. If it was waged to insure the self-determination of peoples, has it succeeded equally as to the self-determination of neckties, or hats? If it has managed to stem the sweeping tide of Bolshevism, has it also effected the stemming of the radical communism of headgear—the ultra-radical communism of that brother's allowance which is not extinct by the twentieth day of the month?

"DON'TS" FOR WOULD-BE TENNIS PLAYERS

Don't bat stones with your racquet. It doesn't improve your game, and is hard on the racket.

Don't hit the ball unless at least one foot is on the ground.

Don't be glued to one spot on the court. The loss of the game may result.

Don't get "mad" when your opponent slams a hard fast one at you.

Don't try to always look "pretty." Play the real game.

Don't be too lazy and allow the other fellow to pick up all the balls and hand them to you with a bow.

Don't play too many mixed doubles if you wish to have a real game. Sit such games out on a bench in the moonlight. Much nicer.

Don't swear—out loud, at least, at any time during the game. Wait until you are in your own room.

Don't spit on your hands before serving. It isn't done in the best of circles.

Don't play "ping-pong." Play tennis.

Don't be a "dub." Play a real game and you will enjoy it.

W. & J. CARDS ALLEGHENY FOR TRACK MEET

Washington, Pa., April 26.—Student Manager Patton announced today that he had closed for a dual track meet between W. & J. and Allegheny for June 5, the Saturday preceding commencement. Negotiations have been pending for some time on account of inability to name a mutually suitable date. The place for the next meet has not yet been definitely decided upon, but it will likely be staged at Meadville. The meet is the fourth for the Presidents.

FROM OUR CONTEMPORARIES

Dean Wilbur, of George Washington University, at the N. P. C. round table on the "College and the Fraternity:" "The fraternity is a product of the American college and, if the American college is the birthplace of American democracy, then the fraternity should be democratic also. The law of co-operation is greater than the sum of individual effort. The fraternity makes it possible to assimilate informally the information gained formally in the class room. The college is of necessity academic, abstract, detached, in matters which the fraternity makes real in life."

Colgate has long felt the need of a humorous magazine. This year the Junior class brought the idea once more to the attention of the student body. It was received with enthusiasm. An editorial, and managerial staff were elected, and the work is going along satisfactorily. The first issue of "The Banter" will appear on May 21st, and is to be a Junior Prom number. We wish it success, and feel it soon will be among the foremost publications of the university.

Vassar College will not graduate a single "school marm" this year, according to a survey of the Senior class made public by the New York Principals' Association. Low salaries, it was said, had caused students to turn to business, social service and other professions.

The students of Colgate govern all activities on the campus. The control is exercised by various boards, even athletics is managed by undergraduates. The various boards and committees are elected by a direct vote of the Student Association. They seem to be very proud of their democracy and student self-government.

The freshmen of Wellesley College responded to a challenge of the sophomores to have hair so arranged that their ears would be uncovered thruout the day. Dr. Raymond thot such an exposure unwise, so the class of '23 decorated their ears with green crepe paper.

The Middlebury Campus defines true college spirit and gives their motto as "My college, if she is right, may we keep her right; if wrong, may we set her right." It is a call for man to do his best to make his college the college of his ideal, rather than to sit still and do nothing.

Forty men who saw military service have received scholarships from DePauw University this year amounting to $6621.50. These scholarships for use at DePauw as that school was not entitled to Government scholarships because no industrial courses were offered there.

The Hamline University Women's Glee Club has just completed a successful tour of the Southwestern section of Minnesota, chaperoned by Mrs. S. F. Kerfoot, wife of the president of the university.

Park College, Mo., through its representative, H. Y. McClusky, was the recent winner of the State Oritorical contest held at Fayette, Mo.

Seven schools took part in the State Oratorical contest at Fairmont College, Wichita, Kansas. Baker was the winner.

Mt. Holyoke College is seeking to raise $3,000,000 for an endowment and building fund. By means of this fund, girls of moderate means are to be assisted in obtaining an education by scholarships, loans at a low rate of interest and by the establishment of co-operative dormitories. At Albion the co-eds are editing a "Leap Year" number of the Pluad, the college paper. All material for the issue is compiled by the co-eds.

The women of Washington State are starting a campaign for a women's building which will be a social center for the whole campus. The building will include swimming pool, gymnasium and a room for women's theatricals.

This week Wellesley is holding her campaign for the Gift to France. All over the country people have been contributing the few pennies asked for the memorial that is to be placed on the battlefield of the Marne.

The Y. W. C. A. of Yankton College, Yankton, S. D., staged the third annual Chautauqua last week. The Chatauqua lasted three days and included varied programs of lectures, concerts and plays.

DePauw University is trying to interest the women of the college in Athletics. The professor of physical education is offering a loving cup to the woman showing the greatest excellence in Athletics. The cup may be retained by the woman if she wins it three successive years—otherwise it becomes the property of the Athletic Association.

Swarthmore College is to have fraternity houses on the college campus. The board of managers has given permission to the five national fraternities to build fraternity lodges. The construction to commence June 1st and the maximum cost is to be $25,000.

No ice cream for West Virginia university students! Ice cream parlors and other popular gathering places have presented a deserted, and forlorn appearance for several days, and certain bank accounts have ceased to increase by leaps and bounds. All due to the fact that the student body organized, and resolved to pledge themselves from patronizing places that had joined in a combination to charge prices which are unreasonable and unjust.

In recent religious meetings at Yale University, over 2,000 students became actively stirred toward religion as a vital force of life.

One of the big class fights of the year was staged at the University of Pennsylvania several weeks ago when the sophomores won the annual "pants fight."

"It was robbery," declared the protesting freshmen when their appeal from the decision of the chief marshal was overruled. "It was strategy, brain work," yelled the sophs.

As is known, the rules for the fight provide that the sophomore shall be declared winners, if when the fight is over there may be found ten whole pairs of trousers on as many second year students.

BASEBALL

Monday afternoon another doubleheader was staged in the schedule of inter-fraternity baseball games. The first game proved the most interesting due to the close score and the tightness of the game. In this combat the Phi Psis won over the Delts by a 3-2 score. Patterson's arm and bat were the leading factors in the victory. In the fourth inning J. Scannell opened his home run season with a clout over right field wall for four bases. This bingle tied the score but an error by the same player permitted the winning run to cross the plate in the fifth.

Score by innings—		R	H	E
Phi Psis	011 010—3	6	1
Delts	000 200—2	3	5

The second game was won by the Allegheny Club's nine. They defeated the Chi Rhos 9 to 4 in a game replete with misplays on the part of the Chi Rhos and some good stickwork on the non-fraternity men's part. In this engagement strikeouts were less frequent than in the opening encounter, while G. Hitchens duplicated Scannell's stunt of putting the ball over right field for a home run.

Score by innings—		R	H	E
Chi Rhos	000 040—4	3	6
A. C.	114 03*—9	6	3

Prof. R. E. Lee handled the indicator to the complete satisfaction of all concerned. Murphy, '22, umpired bases.

OVERSEAS CLUB PARTY

All sections and sectors from the S. O. S. base section in Bordeaux to the American contingent in Berlin had their representatives at the Overseas Club party held at Saegertown Inn Saturday night. Characteristic of the soldier A. W. O. L., tin hats and salutes, in fact, all things military, were forgotten, and so was everything else except the moment's enjoyment.

Twenty-three couples were present. Chaperonage was provided by faculty members of the club. James Isherwood, chairman of the social committee, is responsible for the success of the event.

Allegheny Masons blossomed forth into the social life of the college, when they gave a formal party and banquet at the Saegertown Inn last Friday evening. About twenty members of the Masonic Club and their friends attended the affair, which was in every way a success.

* * *

Misses Alice Robinson, '20, Claribel Belknap, '21, Helen Millhoff, '21, Helen Shuster, '21, Mary Cooley, '22, were the week-end guests at a house-party at the home of Miss Marjorie Rhodes, New Castle, Pa.

The second Senior tea was held in Hulings Hall, Monday, May 3rd.

Guests at the Hall, Sunday, were Dr. and Mrs. Darling, the Misses Hamnettes and Miss Helen Adams.

In conclusion, Miss Weller gave interesting extracts from the addresses of prominent speakers, which proved to be of much interest.

TRAY JUGGLERS COME INTO THEIR OWN

The College Student Waiter's Union is the latest thing in clubs at West Virginia University. The adopted coat of arms consisted of a sweet potato on a field of macaroni. Boiled cabbage was unanimously chosen as the flower of the order, and the following motto was adopted: "Give 'em their coffee hot, and play no favorites." Though only a local organization, they have in view the enrollment of all American college students who are doomed to wait tables as a means of support while absorbing higher education.
