Mr. Stuart M. Crocker
Vice President
International General Electric
120 Broadway
New York City

Dear Mr. Crocker:

I am taking you at your word and asking you to read this first draft of an article I am trying to work out for the American Magazine. They want Mr. Young's ideas on the development of youth for business - the higher ranks of course.

You will know at a reading how near I have come to it. I am sure you will be frank in your criticisms and I shall appreciate it if you will give me any fresh material that comes to your mind - anecdotes - expressions - counsels - that may occur to you.

The most important part of the piece of course is the interview with you. I hope I have been a fairly accurate reporter - andentirely discreet - that is for you to say.

I go to the country tomorrow for several days but I could come in next Thursday or Friday for a talk with you if that would be simpler than to send written comments.

Please believe, dear Mr. Crocker, that I thoroughly appreciate your kindness in this matter.

Very sincerely yours
