My dear Miss Tarbell:

My father is laid up with a slight attack of grippe which seems to be so prevalent everywhere.

We have a letter from Miss Winn of the Herald Tribune returning the Lincoln letters. She says she has also written you a personal note. Miss Winn writes that the New York Times is going to run eight articles on Lincoln's letters this coming February. In view of this, I think it would be wise to wait and try to sell this material for February 1932. In other words, the Tribune might run it a year from now rather than now. Of course if you want us to offer it further we'll go ahead.

Yours sincerely,

Paul R. Reynolds, Jr.
