Nov. 1st, 1922.

Miss Armstrong,
- Rockport, Indiana.

Dear Miss Armstrong:-

I had hardly left you on Monday before I was blaming myself for not getting fuller information about the Lincoln articles in the exhibition which you told me was held recently in Rockport. I do not know why I let it slip, probably because I was a little tired and a little hurried.

Now will you not tell me just what the articles were and what ones of them, if any, were of doubtful authenticity. I suppose that you must have written up the exhibition for your papers, and if so possibly you would be good enough to let me have a copy of what you wrote,-that would save you a letter.

When you are sending it me, please send me too, a copy of the article you write on my visit to Rockport, or at least that you suggested that you would write. It was not courteous in me not to say to you at the time that I should like to see it, but there again, my hurry came in.

I left Evansville yesterday morning early and went to work here this morning. This is a Lincoln center of considerable interest and it is going to hold me longer than I had planned for, I think.

With all good wishes and many thanks for your courtesies to me in Rockport, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
