Dear Miss Tarbell:

Many thanks for your trouble in reading my drivel. I think I told you I had taken two Courses in Short Story writing. In one I wrote six stories - all true experiences and had them denounced as "ridiculous" - "impossible" and

"intrude" as I turned to fiction.
Now I give up. I think I have something to say but I surely can't say it.

One of my critics, paid, said that story is saleable!

I wish I knew where I could get my satire published!

Again thanking you -

Sincerely

Miss
