My dear Ida -

I am very sorry not to be one of the company entertained in your honor this evening. Complications here have kept me at home.

I am recalling, very vividly, too, the delightful young woman whom I met in 1897 & think I was;
& at once so admired - recognizing altho' of 20 crude myself - the unusual mind, & the quiet, strong, persistent, purpose - which through the years, have brought you such rich harvests of achievements.

Evering congratulations to you always from

Jane Grosvenor Cooke.
