Dear Miss Tarbell:

I certainly did enjoy our tea party the other day, and brought away from it much to think about and be grateful for.

I wrote Mr. Graeve about the Lincoln article which you have in mind. I emphasized the fact that you see the material as something for interpretation; that you will probably include your own theories on "second best" love as well as Lincoln's practical need for someone to fill his heart when Ann Rutledge was gone.

Mr. Graeve writes that he is enthusiastic about the idea. I thought it would interest you to hear that his enthusiasm matches mine. (Incidentally, he mentions that he is in no hurry for the anti-prohibition article.)

I anticipate with interest the arrival of your Arizona article which will probably come very soon now. It is scheduled for February and we will have to arrange for the illustrations fairly soon. But there is still time to work over that material if you feel that you want to hold it a little longer.

Very sincerely yours,

Eleanor Carroll
