

Oct. 6, 1922

Mrs. Joseph Lamar,
Muscogee Road,
Atlanta, Ga.

My dear Mrs. Lamar:

I just discovered that your manuscript had not been forwarded - a misunderstanding for which I really am not responsible. I am very sorry. It is going today.

I am off tomorrow for several weeks, but a letter sent within the next fortnight, care of Mrs. Cale Young Rice, 1444 St. James Court, Louisville, Ky., will reach me. This in case there is anything you would like to write me about.

I hope you received my letter with its very frank suggestions, sent possibly ten days ago.

Sincerely yours,