

May 10, 1935

Dear Mrs. Faradays

I wonder if you would be interested or would know anybody that would be interested in a really superb rug? I have known about it for a long time, being owned by Mrs. George Kennan. Things have gone badly with Mrs. Kennan since her husband's death and she is now trying to dispose of a few pieces of value - among them this rug. A depression price put upon it by an expert was I believe $2,750.00, but I don't know how Mrs. Kennan feels about that.

I am enclosing the description. Will you not, if you can, suggest to me a way of helping her to dispose of it?

Affectionately yours

Mrs. Cornelia B. Faraday
55 East 10th Street
New York City