Dear Mary Gilson:

Your letter brought me joy. Of course I shall treasure this beautiful handkerchief, keep it just to look at when I am low in my mind. And I shall remember what you say in your letter.

Congratulations on your new duties. It is just where you should be at the head of one of these administrative groups. Just between you and me I think all the laws in the social service business have been made without proper consideration of the relation of administration to the law. I am inclined to believe that it is seventy five percent in the undertaking. I am sure you will help work it out. And may the Lord protect you from the politicians. Whatever you do you know you have my confidence and affectionate good wishes.

Always your friend
