Dear Mr. Hill:

I have your letter asking me to write four or five pages giving my estimate of Woodrow Wilson. I am sorry not to be able to comply with your request. Such a statement takes a good deal of time. Moreover, I have on hand a short piece of my own on Wilson into which I am trying to put something of what I would say. In deference to my editor I cannot very well give the material to you for your book.

However, if what I write is published before your book is out no doubt arrangements can be made for its re-printing.

Very truly yours

Mr. Paul A. Hill
