Tariffs

FOREIGN PRICES OF AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.

My dear Miss Tarbell:

Of course I understood why you turned to the tariff and away from the mere question of foreign prices; but it wouldn't do for me to let you escape, if I could avoid it. Thank you for your recent note and for your kindness in making the correction in your book. This will be more than full reparation for the error into which you fell by regarding the Congressional Record as containing evidence on any question except the latest quotations on Buncombe, - with possibly a few exceptions!

When you get to your articles on workmen's compensation, sick benefits and pension funds, I should like to make a few suggestions, based on my notion of their true principles and of such experience as this Company has had. While favoring them all, I am a trifle conservative: it has seemed to me that much of the discussion has been sentimental rather than business-like. The true and permanent basis, I think, should be found in the higher business advantages.

Very sincerely yours,

Miss Ida M. Tarbell,
