My dear Miss Tarbell—

I loved your article in last week's "His Work". My husband and I both felt it was a real exhilaration to the thinking today—a clear bugle call rallying us all to get against the dull, pessimistic and really thoughtless lords we have gone too much. Thank you for doing it. I'm enclosing copy of my last radio talk. I want you read it and let me know if you feel as I do, that Beauty and Truth are inseparable—that the spiritual value of his gifts is far too often overlooked as a powerful agency for national and spiritual progress today?

The idea of a Lincoln, made clear, seems to appeal to many who have gotten from various parts of the country. I have had financial interest, of course, but so happy to have the chance to give them. Cordially—
