March 17, 1920

My dear Miss Tarbell:

When Miss Morgan went away on her last speaking tour, she left a memorandum of matters which she wished me to look up for her. Most of these I have cleared up, but one remains about which I should be glad of a little assistance from you.

As I understand it, you made a suggestion to Miss Morgan regarding a Mr. Barton, who, you thought, might write a letter which would elicit some response from the group of men who have grown rich through the War (in fact, War Profiteers). Can you tell me whether Mr. Barton has done, or will do this, where he is to be found, and, briefly, any information about him.

We have the list of victims ready for this letter, and I am now hot on the trail of the author thereof!

Very sincerely yours,

[Signature]