My dear Mr. Tulley:

Thank you for your prompt attention to my recent letter. I think your suggestion is the best - that I go down to Philadelphia and go over the whole matter with you. It will be necessary for me to do this, of course, if I am to do the book, which I have in mind and which I have not yet seen the time to undertake. I cannot tell at this writing just when I can go to Philadelphia but shall be able to arrange my plans this coming week, and will then write to you.

Thanking you for your kindness, believe me

Very sincerely yours
