My dear Mr. Smith:

I hope you will forgive me for not having replied promptly to your letter of nearly a month ago asking me to write an editorial for your magazine Safety.

It was no lack of interest in the subject - I am sure you know that - but it was because I have been so over-whelmed with work that I did not see an opening and was rather waiting until I had it. Now I am off for a month's needed vacation so that your deadline of August 25th is out of the question for me. But after I return if you still care to have me try something I shall do so as soon as possible.

Very sincerely yours

Mr. W. Dent Smith
