

January 23, 1929

Miss Martha Van Rensselaer
Department of Home Economics
Cornell University
Ithaca, N.Y.

My dear Miss Van Rensselaer:

Have you taken any steps in your Department at Cornell toward training men in cooperating in the work of the household?

Do men ever seek admission to any of your courses?

If so, what ones?

I know that at least tentative efforts have been made out in Oklahoma to entice men into the Domestic Science courses. With what success I don't know. Can you refer me to any other institution in the country that is doing something of this kind?

I shall be greatly obliged for any information you can give me.

Sincerely yours