Dear Miss Tarbell:

Thank you a thousand times for your brilliant introductory chapter to "Women At Work". It is a thoughtful, scholarly, extremely interesting recreation of the period. We are much more grateful to you than we can possibly say in this short note.

Will you please accept with our thanks this small check which we inclose. We only wish it were much more than this, but you were kind enough to understand our budget limitations.

With your chapter, our history of women in the professional world and in the business world from 1893 to 1940, is the happy outcome we so hoped for.

You women authors are so wonderfully cooperative and so kind that for myself, I am most grateful that I had this job to do--it meant seeing and speaking to you, a pleasure all my life I have longed for.

Sincerely

Alice Wade Robinson
