My dear Mr. Dondero

Please pardon the delay in replying to your letter of October 14th. I have been out of town for some ten days.

Now about helping you, with the story of the Lincoln-Bedell incident. I shall be glad to do anything I can. How much can be done with it I should be unwilling to say, until I had examined what you may be able to collect of unpublished details. I should think your visit to Grace Bedell might yield something quite special. If, when you have all your material together, you will send me copies I will give it as prompt attention as possible and then write you what I think I might be able to do in the way of assistance, and if you wish, speak to two or three editors, who I know are interested in this sort of material. It would be wise, as of course you realize, to have some special periodical in mind in writing the story. Will this be satisfactory?

I remember my visit to Royal Oak with great pleasure. You and Mrs. Dondero were so very kind to me. I hope you are all well. Please remember me to the family.

Very sincerely yours,
