Dear Mr. Felton:

I am glad if I have written something about Lincoln which pleased you. However, I cannot let you go on thinking it was I who wrote the "Perfect Tribute." It was Mary Shipman Andrews. I do have a little Lincoln story called "He Knew Lincoln" which goes every year on the radio.

I wish I could give you some help in this troubled matter of Security but I am afraid I cannot do it. Each must try to work out his own situation the best he can and above all not despair.

Thank you for your letter,
believe me

Very sincerely yours

Mr. C. W. Felton
